WEST COAST FACULTY PLEDGE TO ANTI-WAR STUDENTS

West coast faculty members have pledged to support students who refuse to fight in Vietnam and express their dissent with inspiring their pledge.

The statement was signed by over seven hundred faculty members, staff and clergy of various West coast colleges, including over hundred from UC Berkeley.

Herbert William, professor of anthropology at Berkeley, said stu-

Senator Endorses Bell Petition

Monday night the ASUC Senate reviewed and accepted the petition requesting the reinstatement of Jean Bell, professor of Sociology.

The Senate felt that the petition had received sufficient student and faculty support to warrant its enrollment.

The petition, with Senate ap-val, will now be sent to Chancellor

Kerr for his consideration.

Truckloads of Sculptures Sweep Student Art Show

Truckloads of sculptures were brought in to the student art show for the first time in UCI's history. The sculptures included a group of plaster casts of statues which were brought in to be displayed.

Kerr Notes Changes in University Student Government

Former president of the University of California, President Kerr recently stated his views on the role and function of the University.

Kerr is opposed to a Student Assembly (S.A.) and supports a National Educational Television (NET) type of government.

The conversation included a series of academic and social issues which Kerr felt important to discuss.

Kerr stated that the role of the University is to provide an environment for students and faculty to explore and develop their potential.

Kerr also discussed the importance of maintaining a balance between personal freedom and responsibility.

He believes that students should be encouraged to take an active role in running the University, but that this should be done in a responsible manner.

Kerr emphasized the need for open communication and collaboration between students, faculty, and administrators.

Kerr concluded by stating that the University is a community of shared values and goals, and that it is important for all members of the community to work together to achieve these goals.

CFS Mobilizes; Vs Anti-Commie Senate Bill

The California Federation of Students (CFS) has mobilized against a Senate Bill (SB 714), which concerns Conscientious Objectors on California campuses.

The bill, as introduced by Senator Whitmire (R) from Orange County, would prevent students who are registered with the Selective Service from enrolling in courses that include teaching, counseling, or teaching or teaching Communion with the intent to indoctrinate students.

The bill would extend from the public school system through the junior colleges, community colleges, and the University of California.

It passed in the State Senate without a vote and is curcently under consideration by the State Assembly Committee on Education.

The CFS mobilizes includes students at UC and state college student body presidents to testify in front of the Assembly Committee on Education.

Contribution or requests for further information on this CFS stand may be addressed to Mr.

Larry Davis, California Federation of Students, 804 N. St., Sacramento, Calif.

95814.

Nars Hit Colleges

Over 30 people were arrested last week by 65 policemen in a widespread police sweep which included college campuses. The sweeps were directed at UC Santa Barbara, UC Davis, and the University of Southern California.

Several areas of officers

from secret grand jury indictments, and the UCI Police Department would not release any information as to the nature of the warrants issued.

Three students from a UC San Diego campus and one student from a UC Davis dorm were among those arrested.

Arrests were made in Encinitas,

Camarillo, La Jolla, and

San Diego, and the officer.

Tradition & Progress

by ANDRE FABRE

Renan, le grand historien, a écrit: "Tous les siècles d'une nation sont les feuillets d'un pétro profond du passé. Tout si une solidarité entre les hommes, parce que nous sommes est l'abousse que nous faisons, tout ce que nous produisons ensemble est un plan collectif. Le progrès est un trévévant d'un trévant qui, au nom du progrès, tue l'art roman et de l'art ogival, mais aussi les générations qui en sont les meilleurs exemples de la harmonie entre les différentes formes de la vie."

Les Beaux-Arts donnent un exemple de cette harmonie entre les siècles avec le mélange de l'art roman et de la peinture de l'art gothique. En effet, on ne peut pas nier que l'artiste est un être social et un être politique. Il est nécessaire de bien comprendre que l'artiste est également un homme, quel que soit son siècle.

UCI Should Initiate Seminars

by RICHARD BARRUTIA

Assistant Professor of Spanish

As we all become more concerned with the social communications gap and a threat to the future of our education, we can well afford to consider at least the summary of the program outlined below which is an attempt to make contact with the size of the faculty, student body, and physical plant already extant at UCI.

How do you react to the following roughly sketched-out plan?

1. The competition at a time could hold forth on any topic (or lack of one) of his own choice every evening or every other evening from, say, 7 to 9 p.m. in the large upper lounge of the Commons. He could discuss a specific subject, give a lecture, answer questions, and in any plausible way allow the students to try to find out what makes them tick. The members of those meetings would, I think, render a variety of beneficial results: 1. Allow the students to get acquainted with the problems by themselves, to evaluate problems, to become acquainted with them.

2. Allow the faculty to find special talent for this activity among present membership.

The key is that the specialists seems desired, we would have some feedback on the work of most successful in this unique task. This is not to say that the faculty members to try to inspire them.

3. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important.

4. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important. The meeting should make the students not only feel important but also feel important.

The communication gap is a myth and I'm busy enough now — forget it.

Additionally, I suggest...
The following excerpts is from an essay by the late Stanford social scientist Paul Baran. Due to space constraints, the entire essay on the commitment of the intellectual which do must greater justice to the ideas of Paul Baran, will be available in the bookstore of the college's library of academic year 1967-68.

In the introductory portion of the essay, author of the piece, Paul Baran makes a distinction between two types of workers who make their living essentially in the social sciences: one type is the professional or intellectual whose main commitment is to success in his own compartment of the present economic system; the other is the intellectual. The unquestioning acceptance of the institution or organization's value system can endanger the one, the author believes, and the body of his essay pertains to the distinctions between the intellect worker and the intellectual - Editor Director.

Friday at noon in the Science Lecture Hall the most daunting account of nuclear possibilities ever filmed will be shown. The BBC commissioned John Arden to make a project exploring all aspects of nuclear clear bombing in Great Britain. The result is an extremely extensive bombings as Dresden and Hiroshima. The film was banned from widespread showings. Now released to limited theatre engagements, it is a haunting experience. The special screening will provide a forum to discuss the crucial role of the arts in the silent generation of the fifties.

Saturday night's performance will feature a full-length, three-act play, Pickle Relish by Dan Stein. The play concerns the development of a boy in a small New York college with a parent's attempt to induce a private mental institution to care for her retarded child.

National Grass Nor Hay is directed by Clayton Garrison, dean of Fine Arts at U.C.I. The cast is made up of members of Gardner's acting class.

Six U.C.I. poets from the Writing Center will complete the evening's entertainment. The poets will read their work.

The students at this school have been searching for order in their world. In Arden's play, the only sound effects were through the day. In the bombings to come, you will have three minutes to clerks to crowd for shelter. Chances are your retinas will be burned permanently by a light flash 10 times brighter than the sun. The shock will blow down buildings and fire tanks that will burst and, in no uncertain, if you survive the bomb ing, radiation will destroy the living of your intestine, resulting in body fluid loss. In five or six weeks, you would die. Radiation is getting more and more sensitive. And if someone blows up Hiro ma, you are sure you will go to. And if Odessa goes, we will end in Baker, Odessa, and New York.
