Crime Steals Campus Scene As Collegiate Sport

Stealing on college campuses is increasing at an alarming rate, according to a recent article in the National Observer. The FBI ranks shoplifting as the fastest growing crime within the population. It has gone up 935% in 5 years.

"Students are aware of this," Robert Schear, dean of students at Indiana U, says, "A set of rules seems to be building up around campus, hubbies are frequently stolen. It seems to be perfectly acceptable, if yours are stolen, to replace them from someone else's car."

Much of the stealing that occurs around college campuses may be attributed to pranksters or to persons who don't really belong in the area, but looser from actual college student theft amount to tens of millions of dollars annually.

Drug stores are hard hit on shaving cream, razor blades, perfume, etc. Clothing stores may find students leaving their establishments wearing four cashmere sweaters or sport jackets that they didn't buy.

"College stores, more than 80% of which are controlled by the schools themselves, suffer heavily in the book sections. Some students seem to think textbooks are priced too high, that they are being taken advantage of, and feel no qualms about stealing them," says one bookstore official. "In fact, textbooks are a small markup item. We make a lot more on general books, but, then, they are stolen pretty fast too."

Many new books are stolen and then brought back for reads.

Casual "borrowing" on campus is not uncommon. "The University of Michigan has a lost bicycle center where persons can usually find their bike, taken by someone else who didn't want to walk across campus. The University of California, Santa Cruz, which installed bike racks that did not lock, is replacing them with racks that can be locked."

Members of the National Association of College Stores are now taking unprecedented precautions. Many are requiring students to leave all packages and sometimes even their coats at "padded drop." outside the selling area. However, this creates another dilemma since items are now being stolen from the "padded drop." Members of the American Society for Affluence, keeping up with the Joneses, etc.

There are three rebel groups: in one way or another, defied the American way of life-the bandits, the affluence, keeping up with the Joneses, etc.

UCI Being Eyed For Accreditation

UCI is presently being reviewed by a board of state faculty members and administrators as it applies for accreditation as a state-recognized university. The board has been organized by the Western Association of Colleges and schools.

The team of reviewers, representing Stanford University, Cal State Fullerton, Cal-State San Diego, Loyola, USC, UCB and various student groups, spent several days at UCI, examining various aspects of the Irvine. Members of the UCI faculty, administration and representatives of the student body had just announced that they would require only the advice of the student body members, unless they are convinced by the team about campus planning, the academic prestige of the college, and general (student) reactions to university policies. Board will make a recommendation to the Western Association of Colleges, which will grant or deny final accreditation.

Wisconsin Univ. Hits Hershey, Deformers

The faculty of the Wisconsin University, next week to not cooperate with General Hersh, and his Draft Board, on student deferments throughout the country on what is becoming a very controversial, delicate topic. They feel that student deferments are a discrimination against non-students. The university will not even notify the draft board of a deferred student, withdrawal from school.

According to the policy, all information concerning University of Wisconsin students will be withheld from the draft board.

At UCI, and the rest of the University of California, it is up to the student to request information about his draft status. If he is eligible for a deferment, he would want one. Therefore, I don't expect many students to want to hold information about their student status from their draft boards. There'll be few people who are as highly principled or so far out that they'll not author to sending the information, the student will be able to 'count on the fingers of your hand.'

Dean of Students Byron Atkinson explained that their policy was to do whatever the student wants.

Robert Lawrence explained that they could not manage to even mass lists of all students to all boards. The University policy is to do whatever the student wants.
Holloway Discussed Dream, Artist-in-Residence Program

On Campus

Yearbook Available

Futuristic yearbook will be available to students on the third floor of the Commona, January 11, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There are some copies still available for advance purchase. Students interested in ordering a yearbook will pay $7.50 per copy.

Lecture on Psychodetics

Dr. John Aiken of the Church of the Black Madonna will give a lecture on "Spiritual Applications of Psychodetics," Monday, December 2. The lecture will take place in FA 1616 at 8:00 p.m.

Tamandua Dance Set

Tamaqula girls will perform a set by Tamandua. The dance set will take place on Friday, December 16. "Mideiro Magic" has been scheduled for 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m., and has been designated as "date dress." The dance should be a good time. Boys are welcome to bring their dates.

Basket Drive Collection

Campaign continues for the "Basket Drive." The K Basket Drive will be collected at the basketball game tonight in the student center. The items collected will be distributed to needy families program's and the Cirk program's service tasks.

Interfaith Meeting

Sunday, December 4, the Interfaith program will meet from 6:00 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. at the Interfaith program to discuss its interfaith program and its future meetings. Further plans will be discussed.

Casino Night

Casino night will take place on Friday, December 9 at 8:00 p.m. The casino will be open to students and faculty. There will be a bar and food. The proceeds will be used to support the Interfaith program.

Kerr Observes Computer Age

The stereotypical image of the computer age is that it is a time of change and progress. However, the reality is that the computer age is not without its challenges. The computer age is characterized by the rapid pace of technological change. This pace is creating new opportunities and challenges for society.

Pinter's 'Caretaker' At SCR

Pinter's 'Caretaker' is a play that is set in the country. The play is about a caretaker who is responsible for the maintenance of a house. The caretaker is a lonely figure who lives in the house alone. The play is characterized by the caretaker's isolation and the isolation of the house.

'Amigos' Formed Here

'Amigos Anonymos' is a group of college students who are involved in the school's summer exchange program. The group is made up of students from different countries who share in the cultural experiences of each other. The group meets weekly to discuss the different cultures and to share their experiences.

Dave Vincent and Sterling Holloway played two of the roles in UCI's production of Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream. Holloway initiated the artist-in-residence program.
UCI Academic Standards Committee Formed by Students And Faculty

The forming of a committee devoted to students’ interest in academic matters is underway. This committee will cooperate with, and may eventually merge with, the committee which was formed to promote experimental teaching programs at UCI. It represents the fusion of at least five student groups which decided to do something about the quality of education.

Keynote of the combined group is the word “constructive.” A spokesman commented, “We aren’t interested in crucifying ineffective teachers or publishing damaging survey results. We do want to help ineffective teachers to improve, and to give recognition to outstanding teachers.

Although the administration is favorable to supporting good teaching as well as good research, it has no plans for programs to upgrade teaching. This leaves a vacuum which the students must fill themselves if they want their four years in the University to do them any more good than four years in a public library.

Some of the projects being considered by the new committee include:

- Pull all students to find their views on curricula, course lay-out, teachers, and tests.
- Poll teachers to find what conditions they think lead to an effective course.
- Identify teachers strong on techniques and ask them to describe their approach in writing for the benefit of these weak on technique.
- Conduct seminars for students to help THEM with techniques of study, classroom participation, etc.
- Compile and publish files of examination questions.
- Give “before and after” tests from these seminars to evaluate improvement from taking a course.
- Recommend changes in curricula, course structure, tests, etc.
- Recommend teachers who should be freed to devote themselves entirely to research.
- Go to hot for students who think they have been discriminated against in grading.
- Promote free hours, tutorials, and other arrangements which increase student-teacher contact.

All this involves a lot of work, so participation is sought from all students interested in their academic future and the future of UCI. There are already several faculty members with the committee, but it is not dependent on Administration or Academic Senate approval.

There will be a meeting Monday, December 5 at 5:00 p.m. in the conference room on the third floor of the Commons for all students interested in working on this committee. Any students who want to serve on this committee and cannot attend the meeting should leave their name and hours when they are free in the Activities Office.

SERGIO MONDRAZON

Chorus and Chamber Singers Present Bach and Poulenc In Christmas Concert Dec. 4

The University of California, Irvine Chorus and Chamber Singers will appear in a Christmas concert Sunday, December 4 at UCI.

The 54-voice Chorus and the Chamber singers are under the direction of Dr. Maurice Allard, conductor.

Featuring Christmas music the concert will include “Magnificat” by Johann Sebastian Bach, Thomas Whitney of the UCI music staff will accompany Bach’s “Magnificat” on the organ. Also on the programs are Christmas Motets by the French Modernist Francis Poulenc. The UCI Chorus Chamber singers have been performing in holiday concerts in the Orange County area. Tonight the Chamber Singers will appear in Corona del Mar at the home of Mrs. Robert B. Smith for members of the UCI Town and Gown music section. Dr. Allard, UCI division of fine arts, will discuss the Chorus’ Christmas concert program.

The Chamber Singers will present a short concert for the Wednesday Club of Laguna Beach in the Laguna Beach Hotel, December 7 at 1:00 p.m.

The December 4 concert at UCI will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Campus Hall. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

MIKE’S PALISADES SERVICE

333 E. PALISADES ROAD SANTA ANA, CALIF.

COMPLETE AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE

FREE PICK UP and DELIVERY

Hours: 7 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Across from Univ. of Cal., Irvine

Corner of MacArthur & Palisades

---

WESTERN STATE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF LAW in Orange County

now accepting men and women who are over 18 and have 2 years of acceptable college credits (60)

The LL.B. degree can be earned in 4 years of evening classes, 5 years of weekend classes, or 3 years by combining evening and summer sessions.

APPLY NOW FOR FEBRUARY 13th DAY OR EVENING CLASSES

write or phone for information or catalogue

1717 S. Brookhurst, Anaheim

635-3454

The degree of LL.B. or J.D. will be conferred upon graduation from their home program of the Western State University College of Law, State of California. Graduates meeting normal requirements are eligible to take the State Bar Examination.
Opinions

All opinions expressed on pages four and five belong to the individual writers unless otherwise indicated.

Floyd Norris

Viva La Huelga!

"No minority group in California today suffers the same type of degree of racial neglect known to the Mexican-Americans of this state. The discrimination directed against him is not so overt as the discrimination the Negro finds, but the depth of the exploitation practiced against him is far greater. Most appallingly, the situation is not improving; it is worsening." So sums up Jote Villarreal in the Los Angeles Times West Magazine. Knowledge of this is not new, but action about it is. Last year, the National Farm Workers of America, led by Cesar Chavez, struck the growers in Delano, and life in the San Joaquin Valley hasn't been the same since.

As a result of collective bargaining, a raise from $1.20 to $1.40 and 104 to a box to $1.40 and 25¢, and such luxuries as chemical toilets, the strikers immediately began a boycott of Santee Industries. To the astonishment of numer- ous observers, they won. After the strike, came a scat of Santee, and, in an election against the Teamsters who had allied them- selves with the growers, the NFWA won the right to represent the workers.

This news was pronounced "won," and everybody settled down, at least they did in Los Angeles. Unfortunately, these victories left 28 more growers still striking, and the need was still great. The farmworkers were in poverty before the strike, and they are not better off than before the strike. There is danger that there will not be enough Christmas for the strikers and their families. Seeing this need the UC Democrats have joined together to collect food and money for the strikers.

Beginning today, these groups will be out on Gateway Plaza and State Street, to sell goods and money, I personally find it difficult to think of a more worthy cause. These farm workers are fighting for something, and we are doing something for them.

Each and every one of us can help. Bring as much food as you can possibly spare, give as much money as you can find in your pockets, and you will have helped what may be the greatest movement of the decade.

VIVA LA HUELGA!

New Student Problems

By Karen Bieber

"The eyes of Irvine are upon you, students." Irvine fac- ulty eyes, that is, while you are registering for winter courses this week.

Some of the university professors found the recent on- slaught of six-week class "drop-outs" a very annoying situation and raised pointed criticism at the student ten- dency to drop classes during the fourth, fifth or sixth weeks of the term. It is felt that students should use enough judgment and discussion in electing their courses so that dropping out during the last week can be avoided.

The major objection to having students leave classes so late in the quarter seems to be the fact that class space is denied to others who want good grades. Class sizes are lim- ited, teachers find they have turned away students who were earnest about taking a particular course; places were filled by students that eventually left the class.

Professors also seem to resent students who go to class, do nothing, then drop the class halfway through.

It is unfair to professors and places an unnecessary strain on them.

A student can do several things to avoid this type of situation. While they are planning their preferred course programs, students should take the time to contact pro- fessors and look into what will be involved in a course. Investigation of books required, reading and research in- volved and the outside study expected are things which students should be considering when deciding on a course.

Because they are anxious to eliminate the unnecessary bother and irritation of "six-week dropouts," professors are willing to confer with students about what will be a worthwhile class for them.

Stop Apologizing: Activism Is Part Of UC greatness

By the Daily Californian

Now just a minute!

Once again a University administrator has used the "but most of the students are good kids" line in an effort to placate the public whence all money flows.

This time it was Thomas C. Sorren, the University Vice-President for University Relations, who felt compelled to draw all those of the University community who happen to wear beards or slightly abnormal footware. Much to the chagrin of University spokesmen, we feel that Sorren has seriously missed the point.

According to the Associated Press, Sorren called a group of reporters and journalists that the majority of University students are "good kids, clean kids, law-abiding kids, studious kids—you and I" and that "a great many of the creeps around campus are not students at all."

Shades of Max Rafferty! What Sorren has failed to realize is that the ferment and turmoil that has become a major part of life at this camp- us are not merely functions of a small group of activists, but reflect an environment in which freedom of inquiry and of action are permitted and encouraged. To be sure, the present ferment is total, and per- mutes the entire Berkeley campus, not just that small percentage of the student body which seems to get the majority of the publicity.

What perturbs me about Sor- ren's speech is the attitude he—and many University administrators in general—have devel- oped that the University has sorely transgressed against the people of California and now is in the position of having either to confess its sins or to show its sins are not really attributable to the University.

What these official apologists should under- stand is that this is precisely what he is doing in the activities of the University and its students are not sins. For what the University has been apologizing for FSM, trying to point out that their presence is merely a "good" (righteous?) things that the students are doing, but ignoring the fact that the "un-good" things—the protests, the teach-ins—are also signs of the same causes. The University community must tolerate—even encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education. It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi- ty must tolerate—encourage—all kinds of eccentricity, intellectual, political and social, or it cannot claim to be a center of higher education.

It is the Sorrens who do the University the greatest discredit by placing it in the role of apologist for the activities of its constituents.

What's wrong with the University is not that the students are the "creeps" with bare feet and beards, not even the marxists or LSD; it's the unfortunately prevalent attitude among adminis- trators and off-campus politicians that universi-
It seems that few people have the insight to see that student government on this campus (or any other campus) is and always will be a farce. As Mr. J. W. Stone in a letter to the Daily Argus once wrote: "paraphrased: Student government affairs are manipulated and controlled to the satisfaction of the campus administration. Student government is essentially...a comic opera organization under the banner of "censorship." All you have to do is look around you to see that this is true. For example, at Berkeley during the Free Speech Movement crisis, what was the primary goal of the student government except its silence and its feckless-and-what-happens-at-timer.

I refuse to criticize the ASUCI constitution because no matter how good or bad it may be, the resulting government will be the essential way-way-worse. We send some people who make good campus politics are usually wishy-washy and bland, trying to please both administration and students. Go ahead and have a constitution, support it, work for it, die for it, just don't pay too damn much attention to the government it institutes.

Of course student government handles the day to day chores of running a student body very well, but what happens when something important comes up, such as: "what should we do with Mr. Bearegord and his vigilante committee?" or "shall we support the Free Speech Movement?" (if we should, by the longest stretch of the imagination possible, have one of our own). The best that could happen under these circumstances would be that student government would squirm out of it and say "It's really none of our business," the worst (what usually happens) is that they will try to look at this problem reasonably" and then follow university (administration) policy like they were spoon-fed.

Where can we get a truly representative voice, one that is free from the rhetoric, excuses and apologies of two-faced, bald student politicians? Students have real power only through voluntary and autonomous political and social groups. Through them students have a way of forcing their way into administration. The most important one is the student political group. What is the best way to get into student administration? A topic debate in the Senate (and I use the term "debate" loosely) is an important questions, likely to be decided in favor of administration policy rather than student policy. If you cannot get what you want through student government, then the autonomous student political groups are only organizations who have, if they're vital and alive, the guts to work for and struggle for what is right. Sometimes pickets, petitions, and occasionally illegibilities are necessary to get people to know that you're there, that you won't forget an issue. But don't be afraid to fight...

... Few Worthly Students

(Continued from Page 4)

Running newspapers, playing games among little children, playing student body government and all such are worthy pursuits. But for the moment, unless the few good students we have devote full time — once a week — they could talk about the students who will do the hard and often dull work of learning. Not being "stultified," having faculty-student communication, becoming aware, committing oneself and this faculty are dedicated to doing is going to wither and die. The constitution which the autonomous student body very well, but what happens when something important comes up, such as: "what should we do with Mr. Bearegord and his vigilante committee?" or "shall we support the Free Speech Movement?" (if we should, by the longest stretch of the imagination possible, have one of our own). The best that could happen under these circumstances would be that student government would squirm out of it and say "It's really none of our business," the worst (what usually happens) is that they will try to look at this problem reasonably" and then follow university (administration) policy like they were spoon-fed.

Where can we get a truly representative voice, one that is free from the rhetoric, excuses and apologies of two-faced, bald student politicians? Students have real power only through voluntary and autonomous political and social groups. Through them students have a way of forcing their way into administration. The most important one is the student political group. What is the best way to get into student administration? A topic debate in the Senate (and I use the term "debate" loosely) is an important questions, likely to be decided in favor of administration policy rather than student policy. If you cannot get what you want through student government, then the autonomous student political groups are only organizations who have, if they're vital and alive, the guts to work for and struggle for what is right. Sometimes pickets, petitions, and occasionally illegibilities are necessary to get people to know that you're there, that you won't forget an issue. But don't be afraid to fight...

... Few Worthly Students

(Continued from Page 4)

Running newspapers, playing games among little children, playing student body government and all such are worthy pursuits. But for the moment, unless the few good students we have devote full time — once a week — they could talk about the students who will do the hard and often dull work of learning. Not being "stultified," having faculty-student communication, becoming aware, committing oneself and this faculty are dedicated to doing is going to wither and die. The constitution which the autonomous student body very well, but what happens when something important comes up, such as: "what should we do with Mr. Bearegord and his vigilante committee?" or "shall we support the Free Speech Movement?" (if we should, by the longest stretch of the imagination possible, have one of our own). The best that could happen under these circumstances would be that student government would squirm out of it and say "It's really none of our business," the worst (what usually happens) is that they will try to look at this problem reasonably" and then follow university (administration) policy like they were spoon-fed.

Where can we get a truly representative voice, one that is free from the rhetoric, excuses and apologies of two-faced, bald student politicians? Students have real power only through voluntary and autonomous political and social groups. Through them students have a way of forcing their way into administration. The most important one is the student political group. What is the best way to get into student administration? A topic debate in the Senate (and I use the term "debate" loosely) is an important questions, likely to be decided in favor of administration policy rather than student policy. If you cannot get what you want through student government, then the autonomous student political groups are only organizations who have, if they're vital and alive, the guts to work for and struggle for what is right. Sometimes pickets, petitions, and occasionally illegibilities are necessary to get people to know that you're there, that you won't forget an issue. But don't be afraid to fight...
Russian Club To Send Student To Language Institute

An outstanding student of Russian language at the Irvine campus of the University of California will receive an award of $850 to attend the Slavic Workshop, Indiana University's famous summer school, in 1967. The award will cover transportation to Bloomington (and back), tuition, and room and board for the eight weeks of intensive language studies. The student to receive the award will be selected by a faculty committee which will make its decision next April.

The announcement was made by Bruce C. Dawson, president of KLUB KAMCHATKA, the Russian-language club, which is making the award "as a pilot project." "The award has two purposes," Dawson said, "first for a student on our campus who has done excellent work in it would be an appropriate prize Russian; second, it would help us as a Russian club and as students of Russian to broaden our horizons by participating through a well-qualified student representative - in one of the best Russian-language programs in the country."

The greatest share of the money for this unusual project has been contributed by the Bing Fund of Los Angeles. The Fund's check for the sum of $400 has been received. The remaining $450 of the award will be raised by the club members during the current school year.

"The student receiving the award," Dawson said "will live in the Russian Language House on the Indiana University campus and will be expected to use Russian exclusively after registration.

Robert E. Kruse, Sec.-Treas., Bruce C. Dawson, Pres. of the Russian club

UCICA Needs More Tutors

UCICA's Community Action is asking for more volunteer tutors. The aim of the tutorial program, serving approximately 50 children a day, is to allot two children to each student tutor. However, such concentrated effort can only be realized through increased interest on the part of the student body.

Anyone interested in this program or any other programs of UCICA may attend the executive meeting held on Wednesdays at 5:00 p.m. in the Community Center.

OPTOMETRIST of Corona del Mar
DR. JOHN W. McCABE, O.D.
"Anteaters will see sharp to 20/20 sharp with glasses or Contact Lenses."
3411 EAST COAST HIGHWAY
ORiole 3-0467

Little John's Inn

LUNCH Beginning at 11 a.m.

SANDWICHES — STEAKS — SALADS — PIZZA
Food Served All Day — Cook Your Own Steak After 2 p.m.
IMPORTED BEER — DRAFT BEER — DART BOARD — POOL
ATTRACTIVE BAR MAIDS TO SERVE YOU

Happy Hour 2-4 P.M.
7-9 P.M.
15c beer 75c pitchers

Little John's Inn

20072 N. SANTA ANA AVE.
545-9963

OPEN: 11 a.m. To 2 a.m.
...Sunset Strip Disorder

(Continued from page 1)

the real estate firms which are out to protect their financial interests in the area. Most of these businesses feel that the presence of the "hippie" type individual lowers the property values of the area in general. On the other hand, Miss Ronnie Haran, publisher of the Kitchakoo Go Go, one of the establishments which caters to the young generation, claims that at least twenty establishments on the strip depend on the youths for their financial well-being.

Despite this claim, it is generally accepted that the real estate interests and the restaurant owners have been putting a great deal of pressure on the police to "clean up" the strip (i.e. dissuade those people who are lowering the property values). And the police have been doing so as the establishment interests wished.

Although there were few charges of police brutality until the demonstrations began, there has been a great deal of intimidation and "coercing." It is not unusual for a teenager to be stopped and frisked or to be arrested and hauled away on rather trivial charges. In addition, few teenagers who visit the strip can escape with out being stopped and asked to show identification.

What is particularly disturbing to those who say that they are being intimidated is that people over thirty and even teenagers who have short hair are conventionally dressed are within belief by the police. However, the demonstrators themselves have been non-violent, even if the police have not. Most of the demonstrations have consisted of marches of a few hundred people carrying flowers and peace signs reading "LET US ALONE." STOP MOLESTING TEENAGERS!! and END THE CURFEW. These efforts have been met with arrests for loitering, curfew and various other charges mainly designed to get the participants off of the streets.

But arresting the demonstrators does not seem to be a successful policy since the demonstrators continue to demonstrate and the property values continue to go down. As one demonstrator commented, "it may sound childish but we're going to keep fighting until we get our way."

...Stealing On Campus

(Continued from page 1)

are afraid of losing other college customers.

Criminologists and sociologists attribute the amount of theft to a rise in middle-class crimes and the prevailing public attitude that crimes like shoplifting or embezzlement are not as bad as those that involve violence.

There is a feeling of sadistic satisfaction when one individual commits a crime against a big institution.

Joseph Leonard, dean of the School of Criminology at U.C. Berkeley, sees the problem as part of the "personality of modern-day life."

Coupled with the many traits of society today, in the demand by young people for greater freedom. On many college campuses, and here at UCI, this demand has been answered by an "honor code." Each student is on his honor and is expected to respect to maturity. Infractions to it are handled in a separate, to those who are not honorable. But I know of no mechanisms set up to determine what is the dishonor code to be handled on a personal basis.

Dean of students, Robert Lawrenece, stated, "If there is no honor code, then there is, in theory, the belief that we are honorable and that stealing happens to those who are not honorable. But I know of no mechanisms set up to determine whether or not we are operating honorably. Are we? I don't know."

As our faculty member gibbly put it, "Maybe the faculty has the system and the students have the honor, or vice-versa."

Record Review

"Think Fuzzy" Is A Good Example Of Mediocrity

By Tony Gregory

Take an off-the-cuff script, add an empty hotel room, homemade recording equipment, two middle-aged cliché experts named Dawson and Harrell, stir slightly (very slightly), pour on to an LP, and the result is an hour of pure, polychromatic crap.

If you can enjoy mediocrity, you will never find a better record than Think Fuzzy.

The two tracks on the album are entitled "Computer, go home!" and the "Naked Interview." The only difference between the two are the titles. Both sides of the record consist of a dialogue between the two men. Dawson and Harrell which is at its best moments sounds like a conversation between Quasimoto and the Watusi, at its worst it sounds like a conversation between Quasimoto and the Watusi.

The most interesting thing about the record was that after listening to the two tapes on either side, I found that I was able to ignore the rest of the vowel movement and in fact read 50 pages of St. Thomas Aquinas. This leads me to aug-

... Kerr's Observations

(Continued from page 2)

budget-conscious institutions such as Irvine a chance to take students off the mass treadmill, he said.

live teacher-student relationship.

As a campus for the 21st century, Irvine will show the way in use of the new extension of man's brain, the computer. Kerr noted. They are already indispensable in the natural and social sciences, and scholars are making frequent use of them for research in literature, language, history and other disciplines in the humanities, he pointed out.

CAMINO ROYALE

ON THE 221st GENERATION

RESERVE TICKETS ON SALE AT COSTA MESA MACK'S GIFT...DD'L DIBELO

ATTENTION—BOOSTERS OF U.C.I.

NOW... PETER THE ANTEATER... IN A CAN

Live a little! In your gift giving... even this tin means a trip to the kitchen for a can opener! An added inconvenience, to be sure, but few good things in this life come easily.

We've managed to can "Peter" in these forms:

- key chains
- lapel pins
- lighters
- money clips
- roaster buttons

An additional service...

Any item purchased in the Irvine Town Center that will fit in a large tuna can is fair game. Bring it in and we'll can it... complete with Peter the Anteater wraparound label... only 69¢. A great mailing classroom... requires only a mailing label... no wrapping... protects and preserves. Ideal for overseas shipment.

No sweaters please... we haven't solved the space problem.

Your gift and carding headquarters
UNIVERSITY BOOK STORE
4211 Campus Drive
Irvine, California

MC
UC

Monseur Max

THE TAILOR

FOR MEN & WOMEN

TUXEDO RENTAL

CUSTOM SUITS MADE TO ORDER

ALTERATIONS AND TAILOR-MADE APPAREL AT MOST REASONABLE PRICES

 moms Parfums De France

207 E. 17th St. — #8 HILLGREN SQUARE
Costa Mesa Tel. 642-5345 BankAmericard

SMOKE HAC

One of the Largest Selection of

Cigars, Pipes & Imported Cigarettes

Walk-in Humidor

Pipe & Lighter Repair Service

Open 7 days a Week

Cigars & Gifts for Men

Haut Service, Anytime

642-1727

429 E. 11th St.

COSTA MESA

(Next to V. Tone Liquors)

We've managed to can "Peter" in these forms:—

- key chains
- lapel pins
- lighters
- money clips
- roaster buttons

An additional service...

Any item purchased in the Irvine Town Center that will fit in a large tuna can is fair game. Bring it in and we'll can it... complete with Peter the Anteater wraparound label... only 69¢. A great mailing classroom... requires only a mailing label... no wrapping... protects and preserves. Ideal for overseas shipment.

No sweaters please... we haven't solved the space problem.

Your gift and carding headquarters
UNIVERSITY BOOK STORE
4211 Campus Drive
Irvine, California
Zotters Make Cake Debout Tonight

Irvine’s answer to the post season bowl games, Viento will take a look at the upcoming Oral Roberts Final Four Basketball Championship.

Viento will keep a close eye on the Oral Roberts team, hoping the Robber’s can make it to their second straight Final Four appearance. The Robber’s have a solid 28-2 record and are always a threat.

NCAA basketball is a tough sport to call, but Viento believes Oral Roberts will make it to the Final Four, and possibly win it all.

Jayvee Hoopers ‘Out to Improve’

“Jayvee Hoopers’ goal is to improve this year’s record,” announced Jayvee coach Doug Finney. Last year’s team was 19-8.

“Most of our players are back this year and not quite as gifted physically, but we mesh together better as a team, so I’m sure they may fare better,” Davis added.

Karen Cunningham and John Farwell will face their toughest foe this season—the possible excursion of an independent team at home opener at 6:30 against Loyola University.

The Hoopers were routed by Loyola last year, the Zotters won easily here last season with a 27-10 victory, and now it’s expected to be an even bigger game this season. The Zotters seem to be the team to beat in the Orange Coast Conference.

“We’ve dedicated ourselves to improving this year,” Davis said. “And we’re prepared to play a solid game.” Last year’s Hoopers dropped their opening game and two of their first four contests before steering a course every other opponent but USC and USCBS.

Davis named Sophomores Jim Fairley, Dave Dotson, and Greg Gaylord, and Freshmen Jeff Mortenson. Davis expects Cunningham and John Farwell as probable starters.

TANKERS OPEN FRIDAY: HOST RELAYS SATURDAY

Tomorrow afternoon the UCI swimming team will host Florida State U., the highest intercollegiate swim season against a tough UC Santa Barbara team in the Steve Bannock pool.

The Gauchos squad will be led by Mike Houng, a breast swimmer who placed high in the intercollegiate swimming meets and is expected to be a key figure for the Gauchos.

Heading the Anteater roster are Daves DeBellis, Bill Leach, and Pat Glasson. Coach Irwin expects a tough battle coming from the Gauchos, but is confident his team will prevail.

Dr. Nealy, John Van Cleeve, and Bev Brown are expected to do well.

After the Gauchos on Friday, UCI will be the host team for the annual West Coast Swim Relays on the following Saturday, December 3. Some of the teams expected to be in the West and the nation will participate.

Among the schools attending is top seeded UCLA. The Bruin team is led by the world record holder in the 1500 meter free style; Zack Zern, one of the nation’s top 400 meter freestyle stylists; Tony Webb, record and pool pace finishers in the AAU indoor championships; and Stan Cole, a top NCAA AA backstroke swimmer.

The Zotters will be represented by Pat. Glasson, Bill Byrd, and Steve Brown.

Tankers Open Saturday: Host Relays Today

Dolphi Finne at Forward and Mark Milligan at Center for UCI will take on a 6'3", 200 pounder, led last year’s team to a 2-2-2 record at Irvine. While Nelson led in rebounds and assists and besides tallies "The Most Valuable Player Award" Darrell Milliner, the surprise player of the season. He led the Gauchos toward with a two point lead and the Gauchos win.

The Anteaters posted a 14-6-2 record, won the A team USC West Coast Tournament and Loss of the UCI in the All University of California Tournament.

In Irvine’s answer to the post season bowl games, Viento will face Cindy #2 to settle the question of the Oral Roberts Final Four Basketball Champion.

Viento will keep a close eye on the Oral Roberts team, hoping the Robber’s can make it to their second straight Final Four appearance. The Robber’s have a solid 28-2 record and are always a threat.

NCAA basketball is a tough sport to call, but Viento believes Oral Roberts will make it to the Final Four, and possibly win it all.

Jayvee Hoopers ‘Out to Improve’

“Jayvee Hoopers’ goal is to improve this year’s record,” announced Jayvee coach Doug Finney. Last year’s team was 19-8.

“Most of our players are back this year and not quite as gifted physically, but we mesh together better as a team, so I’m sure they may fare better,” Davis added.

Karen Cunningham and John Farwell will face their toughest foe this season—the possible excursion of an independent team at home opener at 6:30 against Loyola University.

The Hoopers were routed by Loyola last year, the Zotters won easily here last season with a 27-10 victory, and now it’s expected to be an even bigger game this season. The Zotters seem to be the team to beat in the Orange Coast Conference.

“We’ve dedicated ourselves to improving this year,” Davis said. “And we’re prepared to play a solid game.” Last year’s Hoopers dropped their opening game and two of their first four contests before steering a course every other opponent but USC and USCBS.

Davis named Sophomores Jim Fairley, Dave Dotson, and Greg Gaylord, and Freshmen Jeff Mortenson. Davis expects Cunningham and John Farwell as probable starters.

TANKERS OPEN FRIDAY: HOST RELAYS SATURDAY

Tomorrow afternoon the UCI swimming team will host Florida State U., the highest intercollegiate swim season against a tough UC Santa Barbara team in the Steve Bannock pool.

The Gauchos squad will be led by Mike Houng, a breast swimmer who placed high in the intercollegiate swimming meets and is expected to be a key figure for the Gauchos.

Heading the Anteater roster are Daves DeBellis, Bill Leach, and Pat Glasson. Coach Irwin expects a tough battle coming from the Gauchos, but is confident his team will prevail.

Dr. Nealy, John Van Cleeve, and Bev Brown are expected to do well.

After the Gauchos on Friday, UCI will be the host team for the annual West Coast Swim Relays on the following Saturday, December 3. Some of the teams expected to be in the West and the nation will participate.

Among the schools attending is top seeded UCLA. The Bruin team is led by the world record holder in the 1500 meter free style; Zack Zern, one of the nation’s top 400 meter freestyle stylists; Tony Webb, record and pool pace finishers in the AAU indoor championships; and Stan Cole, a top NCAA AA backstroke swimmer.

The Zotters will be represented by Pat. Glasson, Bill Byrd, and Steve Brown.