The platform of Irvine Lost and Found (ILAF), one of UC's new political parties, states that "we students should participate in all decisions which affect us. The concept of freedom implies self-determination. Students know best what student needs are and should determine how to meet them."

The candidates endorsed are those who the group feels would best carry out their philosophy of student self-determination.

Other policies of the ILAF platform reflect student participation in all matters relevant and vital to the University:

"Students should determine the nature of the student unions which are to be built with student funds. "Students should determine policy on tables, literature distribution, posters, student organizations, etc. "Students should participate in making conclaves relevant. "Students should carry out their philosophy of student self-determination. "Students should take part in evaluation of faculty through a student publication. "Students should have the right to decide on important questions through frequent referendums. "Students who live in the dorms and apartments should make all dorm rules. "Students should have voting memberships in the bodies that determine curriculums, budget and tenure." I plan to stimulate enthusiasm and interest in the proceeds of student government and in stu dent activities in general. Everyone in my group, including I, will also achieve a high school H.V.A.
(TMACA) club and am a member of a number of other clubs. It seems to me that where even I have been program chairman. Although the trial of all others eveherself, I am fairly new here, and even though I am not the only stu dent who is not the only student ber has the endorsement of the ership we will succeed. I've gone n by the rules we are the
