

Elizabeth Delia Dixon-Carroll

Dr. Elizabeth Delia Dixon-Carroll (1872-1934) served as college physician and taught several courses at Meredith for 35 years. She started her position when the school opened in 1899. While at Meredith, Carroll formed a close bond with many of the students and faculty and became a highly respected member of the Meredith community. Not only was Dr. Dixon-Carroll important to the Meredith community, but she also had a great influence on the Raleigh area. Carroll was the first female medical practitioner in Raleigh. She also was a member of several organizations in the community and advocated for the reformation of delinquent youth care. To learn more about Dr. Dixon-Carroll and her role at Meredith and within the Raleigh community click on the links below or visit the College Archives.

Click on the image to enlarge.

Learn more:

- A History of Meredith College by Mary Lynch Johnson (Meredith College Archives Website)
- 7.02.10 Health Center/Services, College Programs, Meredith College Archives, Raleigh, N.C.
- Elizabeth Delia Dixon-Carroll, Personal File, Meredith College Archives, Raleigh, N.C.
- Elizabeth Delia Dixon-Carroll (NCpedia)

Back to top ↑

1 Dr. Elizabeth Delia Dixon-Carroll