

Energy 4 Earth
Video Script
by Dean Edelson

My name is Michael Harvey. You don't know me, but I promise you...you won't forget what I'm about to tell you.

In the next 4 minutes, I'm going to reveal a crazy and shocking revenge story of how I and 56,743 other folks just like you reduced our electric bill up to 75% and more...in just 60 days.

In fact, many of my friends, neighbors, and customers have completely eliminated their electric bill FOREVER ...

That's right. We pay ZERO to the electric company!

And now you can become part of this exclusive group too!

I'm going to show you how to quickly and easily produce free, 100% green electricity 7 days a week and break free from big energy for the rest of your life.

But let ask you...

Are you fed up paying through the nose each month for overpriced electricity?
Are you disgusted being chained to THE BIG UTILITY MONSTER to get your power?
Do your eyes pop out of your head each month when you open your electric bill?

I know exactly how you feel. Because that's how I felt watching a good portion of my paycheck being siphoned off each month just to heat or cool my house...or to cook on my electric stove.

It was like a fat hose was attached from my bank account directly to the Power Company.

Every 30 days you could hear a loud 'sucking' noise...the sound of MY hard earned money ...being drained from my account.

They had me by the throat. And being an electrician by trade, it was a double whammie. It felt like they were squeezing the life out of me.

And that didn't sit right. Being dependent on ANY big wig company for the bare bone basics in life gnawed at me like a bear caught in a trap. I knew I had to do something.

So 4 four years ago, I was desperate to reduce my ever increasing and skyrocketing electric bills. I changed all my light bulbs to energy efficient ones. I unplugged all my stuff from the walls when I wasn't using them...

TV, stereo, lights, clock. I even went without air conditioning on scorching summer days. And I live in California, so you can imagine how blazing hot the sun is in July!

To say the least, my wife and kids...sweating and dripping in the heat, plugging and unplugging every cord every day...weren't too thrilled with their 'Energy Maniac' husband and dad.

After all was said and done, I managed to save...get this...a measly $16 off my electric bill.

Whoo Hoo! Strike up the Band!

My family disowned me. My valiant environmentally conscious efforts to conserve energy and save 16 bucks bought me a month of sweat stained clothes and overheated grumpy kids.

I was furious. Not with my wife and kids, but with the Electric Company and my dependency on them.

I knew I had to find another solution because simply trying to conserve energy doesn't work.

What happened next changed my life.

One night while I was watching TV...and racking up more kilowatt hours on my bill...I saw a commercial for a company that made solar panels. So I furiously scribbled their number and called them up.

"AH-HA!!" I thought to myself, "Now I can stick it to the Electric Company!"

Or so I thought.

After spending a few hours with the sales rep from the solar company he finally gave me the price.

My jaw dropped to the floor when he told me it would cost a whopping $14450 for a simple solar installation...

A system that wouldn't even cover my electric usage. I was still going to be shelling out for electricity!

I immediately got back on the phone to get quotes from other solar companies. I was certain there had to be something more reasonable out there.

Guess what? EHHHHH!! (BUZZER SOUND).

Prices ranged from $14000 and $18000. I really wanted to go solar but there was no way I could afford that.

My frustration gave way to down-right depression as I thought “They beat me...The electric company wins again. Big Energy just delivered the knock-out punch right to my kisser.

As I stewed in my bowl of self pity, it hit me! Like all sparks of brilliance, it was so darn simple...

I thought, “Why don’t I make my own solar panels”?

Now, even though I’m an electrician, I knew ZIP about how to build solar panels.

But what if, for a fraction of the cost of buying solar panels, I COULD make my own panels?

I’d save a fortune!

This really was the last straw. If this option didn’t work, I’d be the electric company’s Water Boy for life.

So I dug in my heels.

I googled countless hours researching how to make solar panels...

I chewed the ears off of solar power professionals asking question after question...

I did everything just shy of calling up Al Gore and Leonardo DiCaprio.

My arsenal was full. My head was exploding with information.

I purchase super inexpensive solar cells online. Then I drove down to my local hardware store, where my buddy Bill worked. I told him what I was doing, and purchased all of the materials I needed right there.

I took my plans to the backyard and got to work.

And guess what?

I completed my first solar panel in just one afternoon!

Wait! It gets better. The cost?...

The cost of my home made solar panel was just a paltry $98.23!

Not $14,000, not $9500, not even $3700.
98 dollars and 23 cents!

I literally jumped for joy and hit the moon.

Check this out:

Here's a photo of me working on my solar panel...

And here's another photo of me with my very first home made solar panel...

I finished my solar setup that same weekend. The whole shebang.

I hooked it up to my home in one shot. Easy peasy. My house was now solar powered!

I was on Cloud 9, floating above all the electric powered houses in the neighborhood.

And then I basically forgot about it for the next 4 weeks...

Then...through my living room window, I saw the mail man...

It was Electric Bill Day!

I watched him open up the mailbox and slip the envelope inside.

My heart started pounding like a drum in my chest.

Not because I was scared of how much I was going to be charged...

I was nervous because I was about to find out if all those hours of research and hard work was worth it...

I had already told some friends about my DIY panels and they basically laughed in my face, so I really wanted this to work...

I secretly hoped for a savings of about $80.

I bolted out the door and raced to the mailbox.

I was a bundle of nerves as I opened the envelope.

My eyes went right to the bill total... and I froze.

The bill... $18. JUST $18! Up to that point, my monthly electric bill was about $120 to $140.

I was blown away... My simple, easy to build home made solar panels just saved me over $100!

And this was just with a bare minimum of panels! If I scaled my little Do It Yourself, and added a few more panels, I knew could be 100% Electric Company free!

That was 4 years ago...

Today, my power bill is COMPLETELY wiped out.

And over the last 4 years I've saved over $4721 off the cost of electricity!

That's almost $5000 that I have been able to spend on myself and my family, instead of forking it over to the blood sucking big energy companies. It feels AMAZING being in total control of my power supply.

What's more, My DIY solar setup is 100% legal and approved.

It wasn't long before my friends and neighbors curiosity got the best of them. Even the ones who thought I was nuts needed to know the results.

Every single one of them asked the same question...

"Can you do the same for me"?

Now they all wanted to go solar.

They saw how much money it would save them, how they no longer had to be dependent on the Energy Companies, how solar was great for the environment, and how quick and easy it was to completely switch over from electric to solar.

Word of what I did spread like wildfire. People I didn't even know started calling, emailing and even knocking on my door to find out how they could do what I did.

I was even getting calls from folks out of state!

I was happy to help them, but it got overwhelming real fast because there was only 1 me and lots of them.

I knew I had to do something so I could help others duplicate what I did.

Then it hit me...

I decided to create an easy to follow, step by step guide so that anybody, no matter their location, could build a solar panel using easy to find parts...

Folks automatically assumed that just because I was an electrician, that it was easy for me to build the panels.

So I thought about it. What about the average Joe or Josephine? Could anyone...a guy or gal with no technical or electrical experience...be able to make a solar panel like I did?

I didn't want egg on my face so I tested my step by step guide first.

I found 43 people (guys and gals) who were interested in solar but knew NOTHING about making panels. I handed them my guide and came back in a week to see what they had built.

In one week, all 43 of the "solar newbies" were able to create a well-polished solar panel that generated enough electricity to run their household appliances! And they slashed their electric bill instantly.

SWEET!

Here's what some of the folks had to say:

"Hi Michael,
Thanks for the terrific product. I've completed 2 panels and am currently working on my third. This now covers 40% of my power bill which is saving me about $80 dollars a quarter" Jeremy Conner from Michigan.

And David Sands from Texas says...

"Today I finished my first panel using an alloy frame and Perspex backing. This is a top quality A grade panel and I'm thrilled with the finished product"

And here's one more from Sarah Cale in California...

"Hello, Thanks for providing such a detailed guide. I was worried it would be too hard for me to follow but you've really made this for newbie's. I wouldn't hesitate in recommending you to all of my friends"

It was the solid proof I was looking for. I now knew that anybody, no matter their electrical or technical experience, could use my simple to follow system to save a bucket load of money and be energy independent.
