Southern West Virginia's Adventures on the Gorge Named a Top Adventure Resort by U.S. News & World Report, Yahoo News

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va., April 10, 2017 - Adventures on the Gorge has been named one of the top six adventure resorts in the country in a U.S. News & World Report story.

Situated on the New River Gorge in Southern West Virginia, the resort offers an array of adventures including whitewater rafting on two rivers and aerial adventures including two zip lines, a Bridgewalk on a catwalk beneath the New River Gorge Bridge and an aerial ropes course. Other offerings including rock climbing, kayaking, stand up paddle boarding, mountain biking, hiking and fishing. The resort also offers a wide range of accommodations - including several new cabins nearing completion - restaurants, bars, shops, event space, an outdoor pool and a small-group conference center.

Authored by Albuquerque travel writer Steve Larese, the story notes that increasing numbers of travelers are seeking “boundary-pushing experiences that forge lasting memories.” Other resorts mentioned in the story are in Colorado, California, New Mexico, Florida and Utah.

Larese personally experienced the “churning rapids” of the Gauley River in 2015 when he joined Adventures on the Gorge on a two-day fall-season Gauley River rafting trip. The trip includes rafting the full 25 miles of the Upper and Lower Gauley River as well as overnight camping at Canyon Doors, a permanent campsite where Adventures on the Gorge accommodates guests with gourmet cuisine prepared riverside, wood-fired hot tubs and other conveniences.

Rafting has already begun on the New River, where early-season rafters are enjoying big waves, big holes and fast-running waters.
