

Guidon

Thursday, July 23, 2020

Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri

OPSEC success starts with individual awareness

The COVID-19 global environment hasn't stopped adversaries from probing U.S. defenses. The threats are real and growing across the globe. Adversaries require intelligence to accomplish their objectives, which is why operations security is essential to support the Army's efforts to deter aggression, dominate adversaries and win the nation's wars.

Fort Leonard Wood AAFES, FMWR amenities reopening, updating risk-mitigation measures

Fort Leonard Wood senior leadership are continuing to work at finding ways to reopen as many community amenities as possible while retaining necessary COVID-19 mitigation protocols.

Fort Leonard Wood Marines bid farewell to Rizzo, welcome Long

Fort Leonard Wood's Marines said farewell to Col. Ralph Rizzo and welcomed Col. Charles Long, who took command of the Marine Corps Detachment here in a change-of-command ceremony July 17 at the John B. Mahaffey Museum Complex's Engineer Regimental Room.

Fort Leonard Wood firefighters train for the worst to be the best

A cloud of black smoke was visible around the installation for about an hour today as the Fort Leonard Wood Fire Department conducted flammable liquids training at their fire and rescue training area near Forney Airfield.

Read these stories and more on the Guidon website!

Fort Leonard Wood chaplains reflect on 245 years of the Chaplain Corps

The U.S. Army Chaplain Corps celebrates its 245th birthday July 29. According to Chaplain (Col.) Gregory Walker, Fort Leonard Wood’s senior chaplain, the Chaplain Corps, like the Army, was founded in 1775 and is older than the nation itself.

SFL-TAP recognizes National Hire a Veteran Day

July 25 is known annually as National Hire a Veteran Day, and the Fort Leonard Wood Soldier for Life-Transition Assistance Program staff regularly put veterans and employers together to do just that – get veterans hired.

Meet GLWACH’s new commander, born and raised in the Show-Me State

Col. Aaron Pitney may be new in his role as the General Leonard Wood Army Community Hospital commander, but he’s not new to Missouri – it’s where he grew up. He’s now back in the state that reminds him of “home, family and familiarity.”

Installation Ice House team produces a valuable commodity during Missouri’s summer heat

Soldiers training in the heat of summer on Fort Leonard Wood rely on a small team of fellow service members assigned to the Directorate of Plans, Training, Mobilization and Security. Each day, this team manufactures more than 6,000 pounds of an extremely important commodity: ice.

Eating for a sustainable world

Eating sustainable is about choosing foods that are healthy not only for our bodies but for our environment as well. We want to ensure that not only do we have enough food, but that future generations also have access to a variety of healthy food choices. The General Leonard Wood Army Community Hospital’s Nutrition Care Division has some tips to start your path to sustainability.

What’s for dinner?

This week, General Leonard Wood Army Community Hospital Nutrition Care Division intern Danellie Moore shares a recipe for a simple, vegetarian version of Fettucine Alfredo.