

Presents an information session and discussion on

Communicating Effectively with Loved Ones in Mental Distress

by

Divinna Schmitt

Monday October 28, 6-8 pm
Niebuhr Hall, Yale Divinity School
409 Prospect Street, New Haven, CT

*A light supper will be provided
Free and open to the public
Free parking is available

Divinna Schmitt M Ed, CPS Certified, has worked in education, theater, and radio, but now focuses her time on teaching classes in Collaborative Problem Solving® to parents, grandparents, caregivers, educators, and clinicians.

CPS was life-changing for Divinna's family after years of struggling with her child's behavioral difficulties. She is excited to spread the word about this non-punitive, relationship-based approach to communication with anyone.

*From Prospect Street, enter the driveway just north of the YDS buildings. Parking is available in Lot 11, up the driveway on the left, across from the building entrance. After entering the building turn right and follow the signs.
For more information, please contact Vicky Sigworth, 203 215-1034, vsigworth@gmail.com