The Good Life

Twelfth week in the series: JOSEPH
Genesis 46, 47

How have your years been? The question, as Jacob answers it, gives us a window through which to evaluate our years and ascertain where we go from here. And what makes for a good life, anyway?

Discussion Questions:

1. Joseph's "resurrection" revolutionizes Jacob's posture toward death: he's ready to die. How do you think the resurrection of Jesus Christ, the greater Joseph, which guarantees the resurrection of all those who follow him, can revolutionize our posture toward death?
2. Jacob says that his years have been "evil," extremely unpleasant. How would you evaluate your years?
3. Despite Jacob's evaluation of his years, the Lord has blessed him in multiple ways. How do you think the Lord has blessed you?
4. Jacob, who has been blessed by the Lord, blesses Pharaoh. How do you think you could go about blessing others?
