Bones of Promise

Final week in the series: JOSEPH
Genesis 52:22-26

The most astounding claim in the entirety of the Scriptures emerges from the Joseph story: God uses evil for good. What does that mean for us?

Discussion Questions:

1. It is not reported that Joseph felt “called” to Egypt. Who “feels” called to be thrown in a pit, sold into slavery, and taken far away from home? Nevertheless, Joseph bloomed where he was planted, as they say. How do you think we might do the same?
2. How does it influence you to know that this version of the earth is not our permanent home?
3. How do you think you might leave some bones behind, so to speak, encouraging those you leave behind to believe in and live based on the promises of God?
4. The most astounding claim in the entirety of the Scriptures emerges from the Joseph story: God uses evil for good. What do you think that means for you?
