

Last night Brush 2 got put to work for what it was designed in part for... A VERY remote structure fire about 3-5 minute driving through the woods on really crappy paths. Had some folks over for mutual aid... B2 was the biggest piece of equipment we could get to the structure, (log cabin was about 20' x 30'), along with UTV's attacking the ensuing brush / leaf litter / tree fires.

It worked well and the mutual aid group was rather impressed with the foam coming out of it and the lack of water use. Sooooo glad it worked or we would have had an even MORE interesting night / morning.
