The Commercial Energy Code for Unusual Energy Usage

The world is forever changing on how buildings are being utilized, and the great thing is the energy code is constantly evolving to acknowledge and address these new concepts. This session we are going to look at how to apply the energy code for some of the more unusual occupancies or function of spaces. How do you apply the energy code to grow facilities, or Data Centers? Does everything apply to these types of uses? How does the energy code deal with walk-in coolers or freezers? What about refrigerated warehouses? Join us to explore the more unusual side of the code.
