Day 11

Transmission: 30:09

Music: Heavenly Air - Daniel Schotsborg

There is so much that is wanting to stream through. Gaia is a huge - and I mean huge - living library. The streams of consciousness and knowledge we are accessing are not even a grain of sand within the vastness of what she holds. Yet, what we are accessing is providing information and keys to assist us with unlocking our memories, our skills, and our way of Being physical and cosmic.

We continue to access locations within Gaia which hold information. We move to the Arctic, the north pole. The north pole is actually a physical portal. This portal constantly streams in a vast flow of cosmic information into Gaia. Acting as our translator and interface, the frequencies and information are put through a filter, if you will, and stored for later access.

Tapping into this frequency flow is overwhelming, and starts the integration into our matrix at an entirely new level. We also begin to access records from an advanced civilization who once lived there. The evidence of which now lies below the ice cap.

This civilization lived in harmony with the cosmos and each other, exuding a level of love and compassion I've not felt before. It transcends anything I've yet to access in the human experience. I hope you can feel it. It is physical and human, and this way of Being flows in unity with the cosmos and source energy.

Breathe and allow the music to carry you into a state of bliss and transcendence.
