Rob Johnstone Presents at WCC

Equity, Economic Mobility & Guided Pathways: The Case for Urgency and Implementation

Our best efforts by our best people to significantly improve community college completion rates haven't produced the scaled improvements in outcomes we've desired - especially for the students we most hope to serve. During this session, we'll explore how to build on our past efforts and evolve our thinking about how students are recruited to, enter, and progress through our colleges so they complete their goals at markedly higher rates. We will begin by setting the table for an exploration of guided pathways by focusing on the issues of economic mobility and equity. This session will integrate Dr. Johnstone's work on the Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence, Bank of America's Jobs Initiative, AACC's Pathways Institutes, California Guided Pathways Initiatives, Completion by Design, NCII's A2I2 Cohort, Beyond Financial Aid, JFF's Student Success Centers, and numerous other national, state and college-level projects.
