CHARTER DAY FIELD CONTEST.

THE LIST OF ENTRIES.

Teams From City Colleges and Lower Classes to Meet.

Next Friday afternoon at one o'clock a field day will be held on the campus between a team from the Affiliated Colleges in San Francisco and a team composed of those athletes of the classes of 1902 and 1903 who took places in the Freshman-Sophomore Field Day last Saturday. This will be the first occasion upon which the Affiliated Colleges have sent a number of track men to compete with athletes of the classes at Berkeley, and it is for the purpose of the athletic management to endeavor to make such a competition an annually recurring affair. The men from the city colleges will enter about ten men in the field day, some of whom are athletes who have established reputations about the bay. Among the best known are Roy Woolsey, U. C. ex-'01, Ben Bakewell U. C. '98, Chet Woolsey and Oscar Reeve.

The Affiliated College men count upon Bakewell to take first place in the 120-yard and the 220-yard hurdles, Roy Woolsey to take first place in the 220-yard dash and the high jump, and Chet Woolsey to take first place in the broad jump. They also expect to spring a surprise in Walsb, and through him to win the 100-yard dash, and they look to Reeve as sure of gaining points in the long distance runs.

Of the men entered from the Affiliated Colleges ten are from the Medical College, and one, Roy Woolsey, from the Dental College.

The strongest athletes of the Sophomore-Freshman team are: Plaw '02, Cadogan '03, Powell '02, Service '02, Stanley '03, Clifford '03 and Townsends '03.

Plaw will take first place in the hammer throw without doubt, and the second and third places will in all probability be taken by Olay and Albertson '02.

It is not certain that Cadogan will enter the 220 and 240-yard dashes, but, if he does, he will in all probability win the latter event and make a strong fight against Woolsey for first place in the former.

In the half-mile Clifford, Service Reeve ought to prove close contestants; Berkeley men with Carter in the lead, should take all three places; and the pole vault will go to

EARLY UNIVERSITY HISTORY.

Autograph Letters Concerning the Naming of Berkeley.

A valuable collection of autograph letters concerning the early history of the University was brought back from the East by President Wheeler. The book in which these letters have been bound was presented to Dr. Wheeler by Daniel C. Gilman, President of Johns Hopkins University and formerly President of the University of California, upon Commemoration Day, when President Wheeler delivered the annual address before the Johns Hopkins University. These letters were received by Dr. Gilman in 1873. They tell the story of the naming of Berkeley. Among the letters is one from Frederick Billings, in which he announces the gift to the University of the portrait of Bishop Berkeley, which now hangs in the University Library. This portrait was formally offered to the University when it took possession of North and South Halls.

"The University looks out through the Golden Gate of the Pacific," said Mr. Billings, "to the islands of the sea, to the uttermost parts of the earth. The portrait, then, of this Christian philosopher, who could find in Plato the revelation of the new world and prophesied so truly of the course of empire, should be something more than a portrait, it should be alike an influence and an inspiration of the largest, broadest and most earnest spirit of learning and christianity. So may it be!"

In another letter written in 1873 to President Gilman, Mr. Billings describes the choice of the name as follows: "As to the name, we all worked away at names for the site. All sorts of-view, and-lawn, and-hill, etc., were suggested; 'Berkeley' came to me as a sort of inspiration, and I knew it was the name, proposed it, and they all saw its fitness."

There is an interesting letter in the collection from Edmond H. Beene, June 22nd, 1873, in which he tells how the town of Berkeley adjoining Taunton, which was named in honor of the good bishop, refused to accept a church organ which he sent to America for them, because they thought it popish and ungodly.

"They tell the story," says Mr. Beene's letter, "of the great fright into which the people of Berkeley were thrown a few years ago, at finding a hen's egg with this prophetic warning written on the shell: 'Woe to Berkeley.' The

EXTENSION LECTURES.

Themes on Art and Topics of Current Interest.

Alfred Emerson, Ph.D., the celebrated archaeologist who is to be in Berkeley for a time in order to consult with Mrs. Hearst regarding the projected museum of archaeology and art, will deliver a series of six University extension lectures in the auditorium of the Academy of Sciences building, San Francisco, at 8 o'clock on Friday evenings, beginning April 6th. His subject will be: "Greek Decorative and Pictorial Sculpture." The lectures, save for the third, will be illustrated by lantern slides. The subjects will be as follows:

1. "The Beginnings of Greek Sculpture. Dorian and Ionian Schools."
2. "Early Athenian Statuary."
3. "Temple and other Sculptures of Delphi."
4. "Temple and other Sculptures of Olympia."
5. "Phidias of Athens and the Decorative Sculptures of the Parthenon."
6. "Later Athenian Sculpture and Statuary."

Dr. John Fryer, Agassiz Professor in the University of California, will deliver a series of lectures on "Our Commercial Relations with China," in the rooms of the Starr King Fraternity, Oakland, beginning Friday evening, March 23, as follows:

1. "The Open Ports and 'Spheres of Influence' in China."
2. "The Political and Financial Position of China."
3. "The Outlook for Future Enterprise in China."

Lieutenant H. Rubottom, a former student of the University and now stationed in Arizona, has been exonerated from all blame of a charge of having used too vigorous measures in putting down a riot some months ago.

1903 Canes.

Orders for the 1903 canes will be taken in the Californian office today from 9:25 to 12:10.

FOR BETTER TRAIN SERVICE.

President Wheeler Confers With Superintendent

President Wheeler has asked the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to run special accommodation trains from the Mole to Berkeley station for the benefit of University students. The plan is to have two through trains leaving at 7:30 and 8:30 every morning and two evening trains. Many of the people of Berkeley have also signified their desire to see the proposed scheme carried out.

The President called on the Superintendent of the Alameda division and laid the matter before him. Shortly afterward a letter was received from the head of the division stating that it would be impossible at present to comply with the request because it would necessitate a larger equipment, and a new schedule would have to be arranged.

"The train service," said President Wheeler, "for the large number of men and women students who live in San Francisco and are compelled to cross the bay each day is very inadequate. The trains now stop at every little station on the road whether there are passengers for them or not. The students are consequently delayed in reaching their recitations."

"We appreciate that the railroad will be at considerable expense and may not do anything for some time. I have received a very courteous letter, however, stating that as soon as arrangements can be perfected, the accommodations will be made."

MR. M'ADIE LECTURES.

Speaks on the "Aims and Methods of Meteorology."

Mr. Alexander C. McAdie gave the first of a series of lectures on the "Aims and Methods of Meteorology" yesterday morning in the lecture room of the Observatory.

Mr. McAdie spoke in a general way upon the subject in hand and outlined the difficulties of forecasting the weather in San Francisco, owing to the absence of Weather Bureau Stations further westward which could give warning of the approach of a storm. Mr. McAdie illustrated his lecture with a number of lantern slides depicting storm scenes. A number of these were taken at the time of the typhoon which wrecked a number of war vessels in the harbor of Apia, Samoa, and besides being valuable scientifically great interest was taken in these slides because of their historical connections.

The coming lectures of Mr. McAdie will go more into the details of the study of meteorology.

COLLEGE CALENDAR.

Today, March 21

Farmers' Institute at Glen Ellen conducted by Mr. Fowler and Assistant Professor Hayne

4 p.m.—In Stiles Hall, meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Subject: A Willing Life. Speakers, J. L. Kennedy '00, Fred Cattle '02 and Loring Barker '03

8:00 p.m.—In the Astronomical Lecture Room of the Students' Observatory, general meeting of the Science Association. Mr. A. W. Whitney: Evolution and the Theory of Probability.

8:00 p.m.—In the Auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. Building, San Francisco, University Extension Lecture. Dr. H. W. Fairbanks: Some Important Events in the Geological History of the Pacific Coast;—7. The Extinct Volcanoes of California.

Among the events scheduled for Charter Day the field day between the Affiliated Colleges and the lower classes will prove more interesting as an athletic meet and will be further welcome as an opportunity to cultivate intimacy with the professional students across the bay. We regret the separation which usually excludes them from the "student body" as the term is ordinarily applied, as we do also the fewness of the occasions when we see anything of them. We welcome an occasional athlete who can make it possible to come over and train and play with the Varsity teams; some of the Affiliated Colleges each year send a baseball team to compete for the championship of the University; their graduates come to Berkeley to receive their diplomas; and this is almost the extent of student intercourse with them. They certainly feel a pride in being a part of the University of California as we do in having them complete her curricula. We would have our union with them something more than the formal one set down in the register. Academic and Affiliated Colleges together compose the University and the more united all ranks the stronger the front we shall present to the world at large. As a University policy this intimacy should be encouraged, and not merely because it may bring out some athletes for the Eastern trip.

PRESIDENT WHEELER'S effort to secure better train accommodations between Berkeley and the Oakland mole will receive the gratitude of a large part of the student body who have to make a daily trip across the bay. There has been some local agitation lately to induce the Southern Pacific to stop its overland trains at West Berkeley. This might benefit to some extent the various transportation enterprises between here and the main line, but it could certainly be of little use to Berkeley residents or to students. On the other hand the amount of passenger traffic between Berkeley and the Oakland mole assuredly justifies a demand for better service on the part both of students and Berkeley residents. For the sake of those who have the trip to make daily we hope that some immediate improvement will be effected, and for the sake of all who ever make the trip that this will lead to an improvement of the service throughout.

alarm was in some measure dispelled by the suggestion of one more wag-gish than the rest, that he guessed it 'didn't come from the Lord, for he hadn't spelled Berkeley right.'

Among other letters in the collection is one from John H. Weir, the painter of the portrait in the University Library, describing his conception of Berkeley, and the cause which led him to arrange the portrait as it now is; extracts from the "Timaeus" of Plato in which the great philosopher prophesies the existence of a continent on the further margin of the great sea; a letter from Bishop Kip to President Gilman in which he tells about his preparations to deliver an address before the students of the University; an old photograph of the portrait of Bishop Berkeley in the gallery of Yale College, painted by Scribner, which was the original from which was copied the face of the portrait which now hangs in the library of the University; and a photograph of Weir's portrait.

The book bears on the first page an inscription reading as follows: "To the University of California, guardian of the name of Berkeley, from D. C. Gilman

"By the hands of President Wheeler, LL D., on his visit to Johns Hopkins University, February 22nd, 1900." The volume will be placed in the University Library.

PROFITABLE SUMMER WORK.

Good Opportunity for University Students.

The coming vacation will offer more opportunities than ever before for earning money during the summer. Besides the census, which was announced some time ago, a new offer has just been made to University of California students, to help in the introduction of a new form of Chatauqua home education. The work requires men of some education, but no previous experience nor special ability is required. It will give an excellent opportunity of seeing different parts of the country, meeting a great many different kinds of people and gaining an experience and knowledge of the world, which will be of great value to college men.

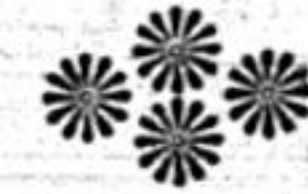

The promoters of the enterprise promise larger pay than can be made in any other way, without capital. The pay varies from eighty to one hundred and fifty dollars a month, according to locality and other circumstances, and the experience will be found more valuable than the money, for it is just what a college man needs.

Mr. Findley of Monmouth College, Ill., who has charge of the work, will be glad to see any student in regard to it, at his room, 2201 Ellsworth, opposite the Presbyterian Church, any afternoon except Saturday.
