Professor ten Broek Sues City of Berkeley for Damage

A $27,839.95 law suit against the City of Berkeley by Jacobus ten Broek, University political scientist, ended its sixth day of testimony yesterday in Alameda County Superior court.

Ten Broek charged city modifications of property near his home on 2652 Shasta Road caused extensive damage to the property during the 1961 and 1962 floods.

Superior Court Judge Folger Emerson and a jury of four men, eight women are hearing the civil suit.

City contracted construction of La Loma Road near the ten Broek residence caused surface waters "to be diverted and also to percolate through the property, creating extensive damage" during the flood periods, the suit charges.

Specific damages are valued by ten Broek at $17,839.95. General damages sought are $10,000.

Complicating matters, the City of Berkeley is filing a cross complaint against the McCosker Construction Co., charging that the firm agreed in written contracts and implied agreements to indemnify all its actions as city contractor.

This means that the firm, which constructed the road improvement project near the ten Broek home, will assume cost should ten Broek collect.

Ten Broek alleges that the construction firm, acting under city contract, inadvertently covered a drainage pipe inlet which normally allows water from higher ground to drain below the ten Broek property.

The alleged incident happened less than a week before the disastrous floods in November of 1961.

Damages resulting, the city cross-complains, are the fault of "negligence" on the part of the construction firm. The cross-complaint relates only to destruction caused by the 1961 flood.

Ten Broek's home, purchased in 1948, is located on a former rock quarry bin operated before 1900. The quarry's actual site is directly sloping upground to the northeast—providing ideal drainage directly to the property's low area.

To prevent flood damage, the city had earlier built a closed drainage pipeline under the ten Broek property at the couple's request.

When the McCosker Co. accidentally covered the pipeline, flood water—with no place else to go—flowed over the property, entered the house and extensively damaged flowers and shrubbery, ten Broek charged.

Low-Rent Demolition Protest

By PETE BENJAMINSON

No place to go. And no place to come from.

This, according to Campus CORE, the NAACP, and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Local 6, is the plight of the residents of section A-2 of San Francisco's Western Addition which soon will undergo demolition or rebuilding by the city's Redevelopment Agency.

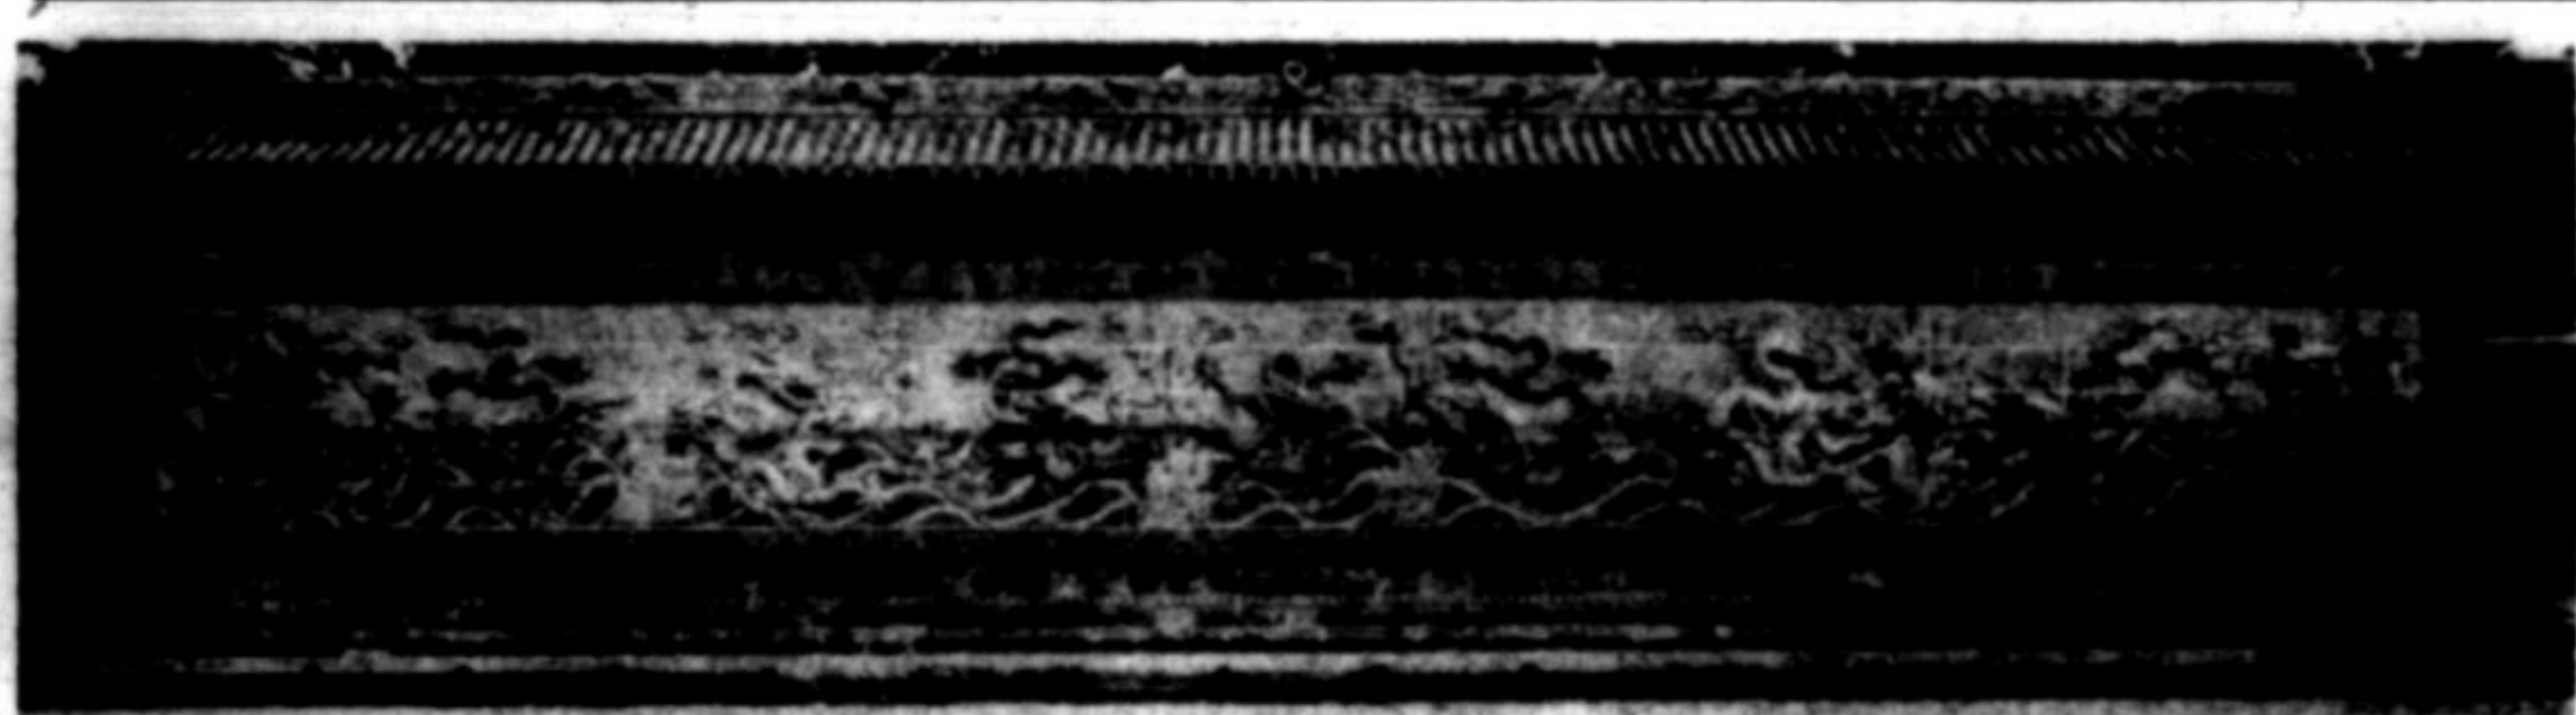

About 30 people, approximately a third of Campus CORE's membership, are engaged sporadically in the fight to organize the residents of A-2 in a resistance effort. Sixty per cent of A-2's residents are non-white.

Opponents of the Agency's plan countered there is little if any housing available in the city at rents within the reach of those who will be evicted. Dwellings out of the present residents' price range are to be built on the redeveloped land.

"Most displaced residents of A-2 will wind up in the bleak corners of the city, paying higher rents because of increased competition for low-rent dwellings. After similar redevelopment plans have been effected in other areas, many of the displaced persons will be driven out of San Francisco entirely. The rest will have to 'double up,' and new slums and ghettos will be created," according to a NAACP bulletin.

Opponents plan to form the A-2 residents into a broad membership organization to bring protests of the residents to the public ear, bargain formally with the Redevelopment Agency, and if necessary engage in non-violent resistance to the execution of the A-2 plan. They hope to force the Redevelopment Agency to get its program into "proper perspective and find decent alternative housing for every evictee before eviction."

Organization of the A-2 residents is well underway, according to Ed Wilson, vice-chairman of Campus CORE. Residents and others packed Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco Tuesday to hear proponents and opponents of the redevelopment plan.

International Week to Show Bagpipers, Fencers, Dancers; Bunche's Speech Postponed

UN Undersecretary-General Ralph Bunche, scheduled to speak next Friday at a University meeting, has been delayed in Cyprus with the United Nations. His speech, the main event of International Week, has been postponed until May 8.

International Week will start Monday and continue until April 25. Lectures, panels, films and social functions will be included in the program.

PAULEY EXHIBITS

Exhibits will be maintained by foreign students in the Pauley Ballroom, which will be open to the public from 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Monday's activities will include a lecture by Donald Stokes, director of British Information Services; a panel on the International Bank of Development and Reconstruction; and films from Canada, Portuguese Africa, Pakistan, India, and Berlin.

CONSUL GENERAL

P. N. Menon, India's Consul General for the Western States, will speak Tuesday on "India, China, and the Future of Asia." He will be followed by a series of short films from Yugoslavia, Pakistan, Finland, Italy, and Switzerland.

Also Tuesday will be a panel on South America and the International Show, at 8 p.m. in the Pauley Ballroom.

BAGPIPERS

The International Show will be started by the Irish Bagpipers of San Francisco, and will include folk dances in native costumes from Portugal, China, Yugoslavia, Africa, Japan, Estonia, Hungary, Korea, Poland, and American Indians.

The show will be followed by an hour exhibition of Karate and Kendo, an ancient form of Japanese fencing performed with long, pole-like swords.

FRENCH CONSUL

Jacques de la Ferriere, French Deputy Consul General in San Francisco, will speak Wednesday noon, followed by films on France, Canada, Germany, Iran, and Norway.

A panel will discuss Southern Rhodesia and other African problems Wednesday afternoon. That evening and Thursday, fifteen films will be shown on such subjects as Marcel Marceau, Kennedy in Berlin, and pre-historic cave paintings on the River Kwai.

Friday will include a fashion show in the Pauley Ballroom, and the beginning of the International Fair at International House. The Fair, continuing Saturday, will include dancing, singing, and refreshments.

Birch Talk

John H. Rousselot will speak on "The John Birch Society, Principles and Programs" at noon today in Pauley Ballroom.

Rousselot is the district governor of the John Birch Society, a former congressman, and a former president of the California Young Republicans.

The lecture is the first in a series presented by the Union Program Board Public Affairs Committee on "Thunder on the Right — American Conservatism."

The next two speakers in the series will be Russell Kirk, professor of political science, and George Crocker, a California attorney.

Arabic Dance To Live Music

By RODGER MARCH

Virtually the entire Bagdad Cabaret will move into the East Pauley Ballroom tonight, including two Arabic dancers and a band of four native musicians.

Jamila Kshatriya, who was scheduled to do a solo performance to tape recorded music, said yesterday, "We want to prove to the University that the dance is a valid art form, and a true sample of the Arabic national culture. The storm of criticism we have received is not justified."

Kshatriya has decided to spare no effort to present the best possible example of Arabic dance to the University students. Because of a serious injury last week, Sirhan — the original dancer — will not be able to dance, but she will be on the stage, playing the tamborine and finger cymbals, and singing. Kshatriya will dance in her place.

Authentic Arabian music will be provided by the four musicians from the Bagdad, who are equally incensed by the negative comments about the Arabic dance.

For more than a week a rain of comment has come from metropolitan newspapers, and from many groups and individuals on campus.

The very intensity of it drove Dean of Students Katherine Towle to say "this type of publicity does not do the University any good. If I had any idea this sensational-

Research or Decline

Author of 'Campus USA' Says Professors Must Do Research

If the University changed to an exclusively teaching situation and the faculty didn't have to publish a word, there would be an immediate and catastrophic intellectual decline.

This is according to David Boroff, associate professor of history and author of "Campus USA." Boroff spoke Wednesday on "Teaching and Research," the first of three lectures on "Are the Colleges Killing Education?" sponsored by the Student Educational Faculty Relations Board of the ASUC.

Boroff warned that research must be encouraged to force the professors to keep abreast with the new knowledge in their field.

"The unprecedented expansion of knowledge means that unless teaching takes place in a setting that is in touch with knowledge, teaching is likely to be of a peculiarly infirm character," Boroff said.

Rather than choosing between research and teaching, academic reformers must increase the caliber of teaching without diminishing the emphasis on research.

"If the researcher could be tricked into teaching, he would have a great deal more to teach than the small residential professor," Boroff stated.

But Boroff conceded making famous researchers devote time needed to teach well would be a hard job.

"I suspect I can give more to my students now, but I am less inclined to," Boroff admitted. Now that he is an expert, he is too involved to teach his classes conscientiously.

"The undergraduate is the one who gets short-changed," Boroff said. "I don't think there is any doubt about it."

Student Tutors Meet Saturday

More than 150 junior and senior high school students serving as Berkeley student tutors will meet Saturday at the University to confer on the development and operation of student study centers.

The student tutoring program provides study centers in the Oakland Public schools with more than 200 student tutors working after school on a paid or volunteer basis.

Conference participants will tour the University and hear talks by Theodore L. Reller, dean of the School of Education, and other persons.

The conference will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in 145 Dwinelle Hall and is presented by the Oakland Project of the University Extension and the Oakland Public Schools Interagency Project.

Huskies Challenge Cal Spikers in Dual Meet

By STAN SMITH
The Cal tracksters will be expecting their third straight win tomorrow as they test Washington at Edwards, and they are looking to make it impressive.

The weak Huskies start their bid for a debacle at 1:15, with the Cal Frosh breaking the turf at 1:19 against CCSF and Oakland City College. The Freshman field events begin at 10:30.

Both the Bears and their visitors hold wins over UCLA, but a comparison of the scores gives an indication of how it should come out tomorrow. Washington won 76-69; the Bears won theirs 92-53. Cal is favored in 13 of the 17 events.

The Huskies come to town with some potent individuals, however.

Wind or no, Phil Shinnick has broad jumped farther than any other human being, although this year he is short of his 27-4 best by three and a half feet.

His teammate, Nigerian Wariboko West, has so far been the strongest (25-1 1/4), and is favored in that event and the triple jump. Shinnick is also a threat in the high jump at 6-7.

The Huskies' only other standout is sprinter Jerry Plowman, who is favored to cut Cal's dash crew down to size in the hundred. Plowman ran a 9.5 century last week, but will have to do at least that to down Forrest Beaty (9.6).

The Bears' main interest will be in producing some personal bests. Gene Johnson will try to tie John Thomas' Edwards Stadium record as he guns for seven feet in the high jump. Bruce Ballmer may find West pushing him above the triple-jump mark he set for himself in last week's clutch performance.

Marty Ziebarth seems ready to break completely in the 880, after an outstanding double in that event and the mile last week. He is running the best of his career now, and even with no Washington competition could turn in an another outstanding time.

The Bear ranks will be bolstered with the return to action of Jim Blakeney and miler John Hatton, who both could pick up firsts.

Leading the Cal frosh in their triangular will be pole vaulter Marc Savage, who missed last week's meet because of a wrist sprain. Savage's best jump this year is 15-1.

Oakland will bring the fastest JC relay team in the state, 42.0, to the meet.

Strokers in Easy Race Against UCLA, USC

California's crewmen travel to Los Angeles Saturday to compete in three triangular races against UCLA and USC.

The Bears should have an easy go at it. USC was soundly trounced by Long Beach State several weeks ago and Cal nicely handled the Long Beachers last week.

UCLA opens their season Saturday and are an unknown quality to date. But if history has anything to do with the outcome the Bears could come home with all the spoils.

In the varsity race, although all three crews will be vying for the day's honors, Cal and UCLA will be going after the Ben Wallace Trophy, a perpetual award going to the winner between the two schools.

This is the first year that the Bruins have had a full-time coaching staff since the sport originated at UCLA in 1933 under the direction of ex-Cal coach Ben Wallace.

For their first full-time head coach the Bruins have snagged a good one. In his four years as University of Washington freshman coach, John Bisset's crewmen claimed one first, two seconds, and a third in national competition.

There have been a few changes for Cal since last week. Varsity coxswain for Saturday's race will be senior Dan Phillips. In the junior varsity race sophomore Bob Cross will take over the stroking duties. With the addition of Cross to the lineup the Bears sport five sophomores in the first two boats, making Cal thus far a fairly inexperienced crew.

Coach Jim Lemmon points out that he is still "experimenting" and is "not completely satisfied with the boatings."

The probable boatings for the race are as follows: Varsity—Stroke, Steve Johnson; 7, Gus Schilling; 6, Scott Gregg; 5, John Sellers; 4, Mike Page; 3, Ed Bradbury; 2, Alan Mooers; Bow, Malcolm Thornley; Coxswain, Dan Phillips.

Junior Varsity — Stroke, Bob Cross; 7, John Gregory; 6, John McConnell; 5, Roy Romey; 4, Eric Van de Water; 3, Frank Brown; 2, Rich Rossett; bow, Hal Eastman; Coxswain, Reg Watt.

Softies Strike Back

Ordinarily, Sacramento State doesn't represent anything to be afraid of, but California's varsity golfers will undoubtedly be fighting for their lives this afternoon when they travel to Northridge Country Club in Sacramento to face the Solon Linksman.

Cal hasn't lost a golf match to Sacramento State for a long time, but they will be facing the strongest Solon team in years. Their record already includes an overwhelming win over Stanford, which is quite an accomplishment.

Bear Nine After Sixth Straight Victory

By CHUCK HARP

Hoping to continue its five (non-league) win streak into league play, the Golden Bear baseball team, sporting a 2-8 CIBA play record, swings south this weekend to meet the UC Santa Barbara Gauchos this afternoon, and the Southern California Trojans Saturday in a doubleheader.

The Gauchos, who gave the Bears their only two CIBA wins, are currently 4-6 in league competition, and offer the Bears the opportunity to transfer their winning ways into the games where it counts.

"We haven't been playing any better ball this last week than we have before," says Coach George Wolfman, "it's just that the ball has been falling in for hits instead of double plays."

"Our pitchers have been doing a great job all along; just look at their ERA's. And the kids have been hitting the ball well, too; it just seems that in league games we just hit into double plays, and our line drives are right into their gloves, where otherwise we'd have hits."

Ray Evans (3-0) will start against the Gauchos this afternoon, while Larry Colton (4-5), Rich Nye (4-1) and Bill Harrison (3-3) will hold down the mound against SC Saturday. Colton, the Bears' workhorse, missed all but yesterday's practice this week, having been knocked out of the box by a case of measles.

Southern Cal holds down second place in the CIBA race with a 4-2 record, and claims the only league victory over number one ranked Santa Clara.

Big Mike Epstein, who leads the Bears in batting with an average of .402, will be returning to his home grounds, having played his high school ball at Fairfax High in Los Angeles.

Best bets to deliver the hits that Wolfman requests are Rich Mortola and Mike Wickersham, who came to life this past week in the Bears' string of five victories.

"This weekend will have a lot to do with the league standings," comments Coach Wolfman. "With Santa Clara and SC playing each other, there could be a big change in the standings."

Ralston Leads Star-Packed Field of Netters As UCLA, Southern Cal Meet Bears in Two

Some of the greatest stars in American tennis will parade through the Channing Courts this weekend as California's netmen face the nightmarish challenge of meeting UCLA on Friday and national champion USC on Saturday.

Both matches are at 2 p.m., but it's wise to get there early.

Big gun for the Southland invaders will be SC's Dennis Ralston, who is rated the second-best player in the country, behind Wimbledon champion Chuck McKinley.

Ralston and McKinley became national heroes earlier this year when they combined to regain the Davis Cup from Australia. As a doubles team, Ralston and McKinley are rated first in the nation.

UCLA boasts the 6th and 10th ranked players in the U.S. in Arthur Ashe and Charles Passarell, respectively. However, both of them have recorded wins over Ralston in the past.

Needless to say, the Cal netters will have their hands full. Number one man Doug Sykes will face Ralston in the SC match.

UCLA's starting order isn't set yet, but Skyes and second man Barry Baskin will share Ashe and Passarell between them.

Down South two weeks ago, the Bears could only manage 8-1 losses to both teams, with soph netter Jan Kucera taking part in both matches which the Bears won.

Nobody expects Cal to come up with a victory over either team, but at least the local fans will be getting their money's worth.

USC was expected to repeat as national champions at the season's beginning, but the loss of second man Tom Edlefson due to scholastic difficulties hurt the Trojans severely. UCLA, who beat SC 5-4 already, is now ranked first in the country, which is an indication of how tough the AAWU is.

The Regents will meet in Santa Cruz today to approve the laboratory, which will be located southeast of the Strawberry Canyon botanical gardens.

Construction is expected to begin in about a year. The state is expected to pay for half the costs and the University hopes to obtain federal funds for the rest of the project.

The Regents will also dedicate the site for the new Santa Cruz campus today. The campus expects its first class of 500 students in fall, 1965.

Buildings plans for Santa Cruz third college for science students were approved yesterday by the grounds and buildings committee.
The campus is divided into semi-independent colleges.

The third college will cost about $2.8 million and will include residence space for 350 students and 12 professors. The remaining 150 students will commute.

The Santa Cruz campus will eventually have 27,500 students, the same maximum enrollment as the Berkeley campus.

A community of about 60,000 people surrounding the campus is being planned by the University in cooperation with the city and county of Santa Cruz.

STATEMENT

We, the entertainment managers of the DAILY CALIFORNIAN, hope, by our efforts, that we may introduce the student body and faculty to various restaurants and night spots in the Bay area. It breaks our hearts to imagine that on these summery weekends any student would be staying home studying or playing with his or her roommate (cards, monopoly, jacks, etc.)

In our estimation, there is much to be done in the area in the way of movies, plays, and good places to eat. One should look upon life with the philosophy of "when the weekends come, kiss off the books."

If you have any suggestions or comments, please save them for next year's entertainment managers.

'Just Like Court'

Students Laud Unusual Class— Even Though It's a Trial

By STANLEY SCHMIDT
 "Everyone involved thinks it's an excellent class," Ken Zommick, third year Boalt Hall law student, said.

Zommick was referring to "trial practice." "It is the culmination of three years of legal education," he explained.

In trial practice, the "battle conditions" of a court of civil law are made as realistic as possible.

"FIRMS"
 The class is divided into "firms" of three students each. One firm is given a client to defend and another is assigned to prosecute him.

After each firm files a "complaint," both firms go down to one of the various superior courts in Oakland for the pre-trial conference.

CHAMBERS

Just as in an actual case, both firms meet in the judge's chambers. One objective of the pre-trial conference is to "limit the issues"—determine what crimes the defendant is to be tried for.

Then later, if the plaintiff tries to bring in other issues during the trial, the defender can voice the age-old objection "irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial."

MOOT COURT

The trials are held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Saturday in the Moot Court at Boalt Hall. They are open to the public without charge.

Each case has been tried before in a California court. Judge Caldecott and Judge Croniger—both from the Alameda Superior Court—have presided over trials earlier this semester.

ACTUAL WITNESSES

Often the actual witnesses to the original case testify in trial practice. The original defendants or plaintiffs are never used.

In a railroad collision case already tried this semester, the actual engineer on one of the trains testified.

DRUNK DRIVING

In a drunk driving case to come to trial on April 25, a pathologist and arresting officer from the original case will participate.

Where the original witnesses cannot appear, Boalt Hall students are instructed in the facts of the case and serve as witnesses.

On May 2 there is a lawsuit against a local newspaper. A columnist wrote about a chiropractor who drives a cab at night and the chiropractor is suing for invasion of privacy.

Jeep Journey Down Ganges Subject of Monday Movie

A journey down the Ganges by amphibious jeep is the subject of a film to be shown Monday in Wheeler Auditorium.

The film, to be shown at 4:30 and 8:15 p.m., will be narrated in person by photographers Helen and Frank Schreider. They made the nine month trip on an assignment for the National Geographic Magazine in India.

Their trip took them past the city of Hardwar, where sacred fish come on call to be fed; Benares, with its temples of gold; the Taj Mahal, reminder of the Mogul Empire; and the swarming life on the banks of the holy river Ganges.

Tickets for the matinee are available at the door for 85 cents. Seats for the evening performance are reserved; they can be purchased for $1 at the CAL and Student Union box offices.

The Duty of SEFR

After almost a full year ASUC President Mel Levine's campaign promise seems to be near becoming a reality. The Student Educational Faculty Relations Board (SEFR), after a lengthy period of study, has revealed definite plans to fulfill two of its objectives: a speaker series on education, and a course evaluation survey. These two ambitious programs, it is hoped, will increase student involvement in the academic function of the University. It goes without saying that this is both a desirable and an extremely ambitious goal, perhaps one of the most stimulating challenges a student may face in his experience here. Because of the great import of this project SEFR has received much criticism for not inaugurating a program sooner. Yesterday's announcement, however, indicates that the long delay may have been worth it, for the program which SEFR has announced seems quite capable of fulfilling all expectations.

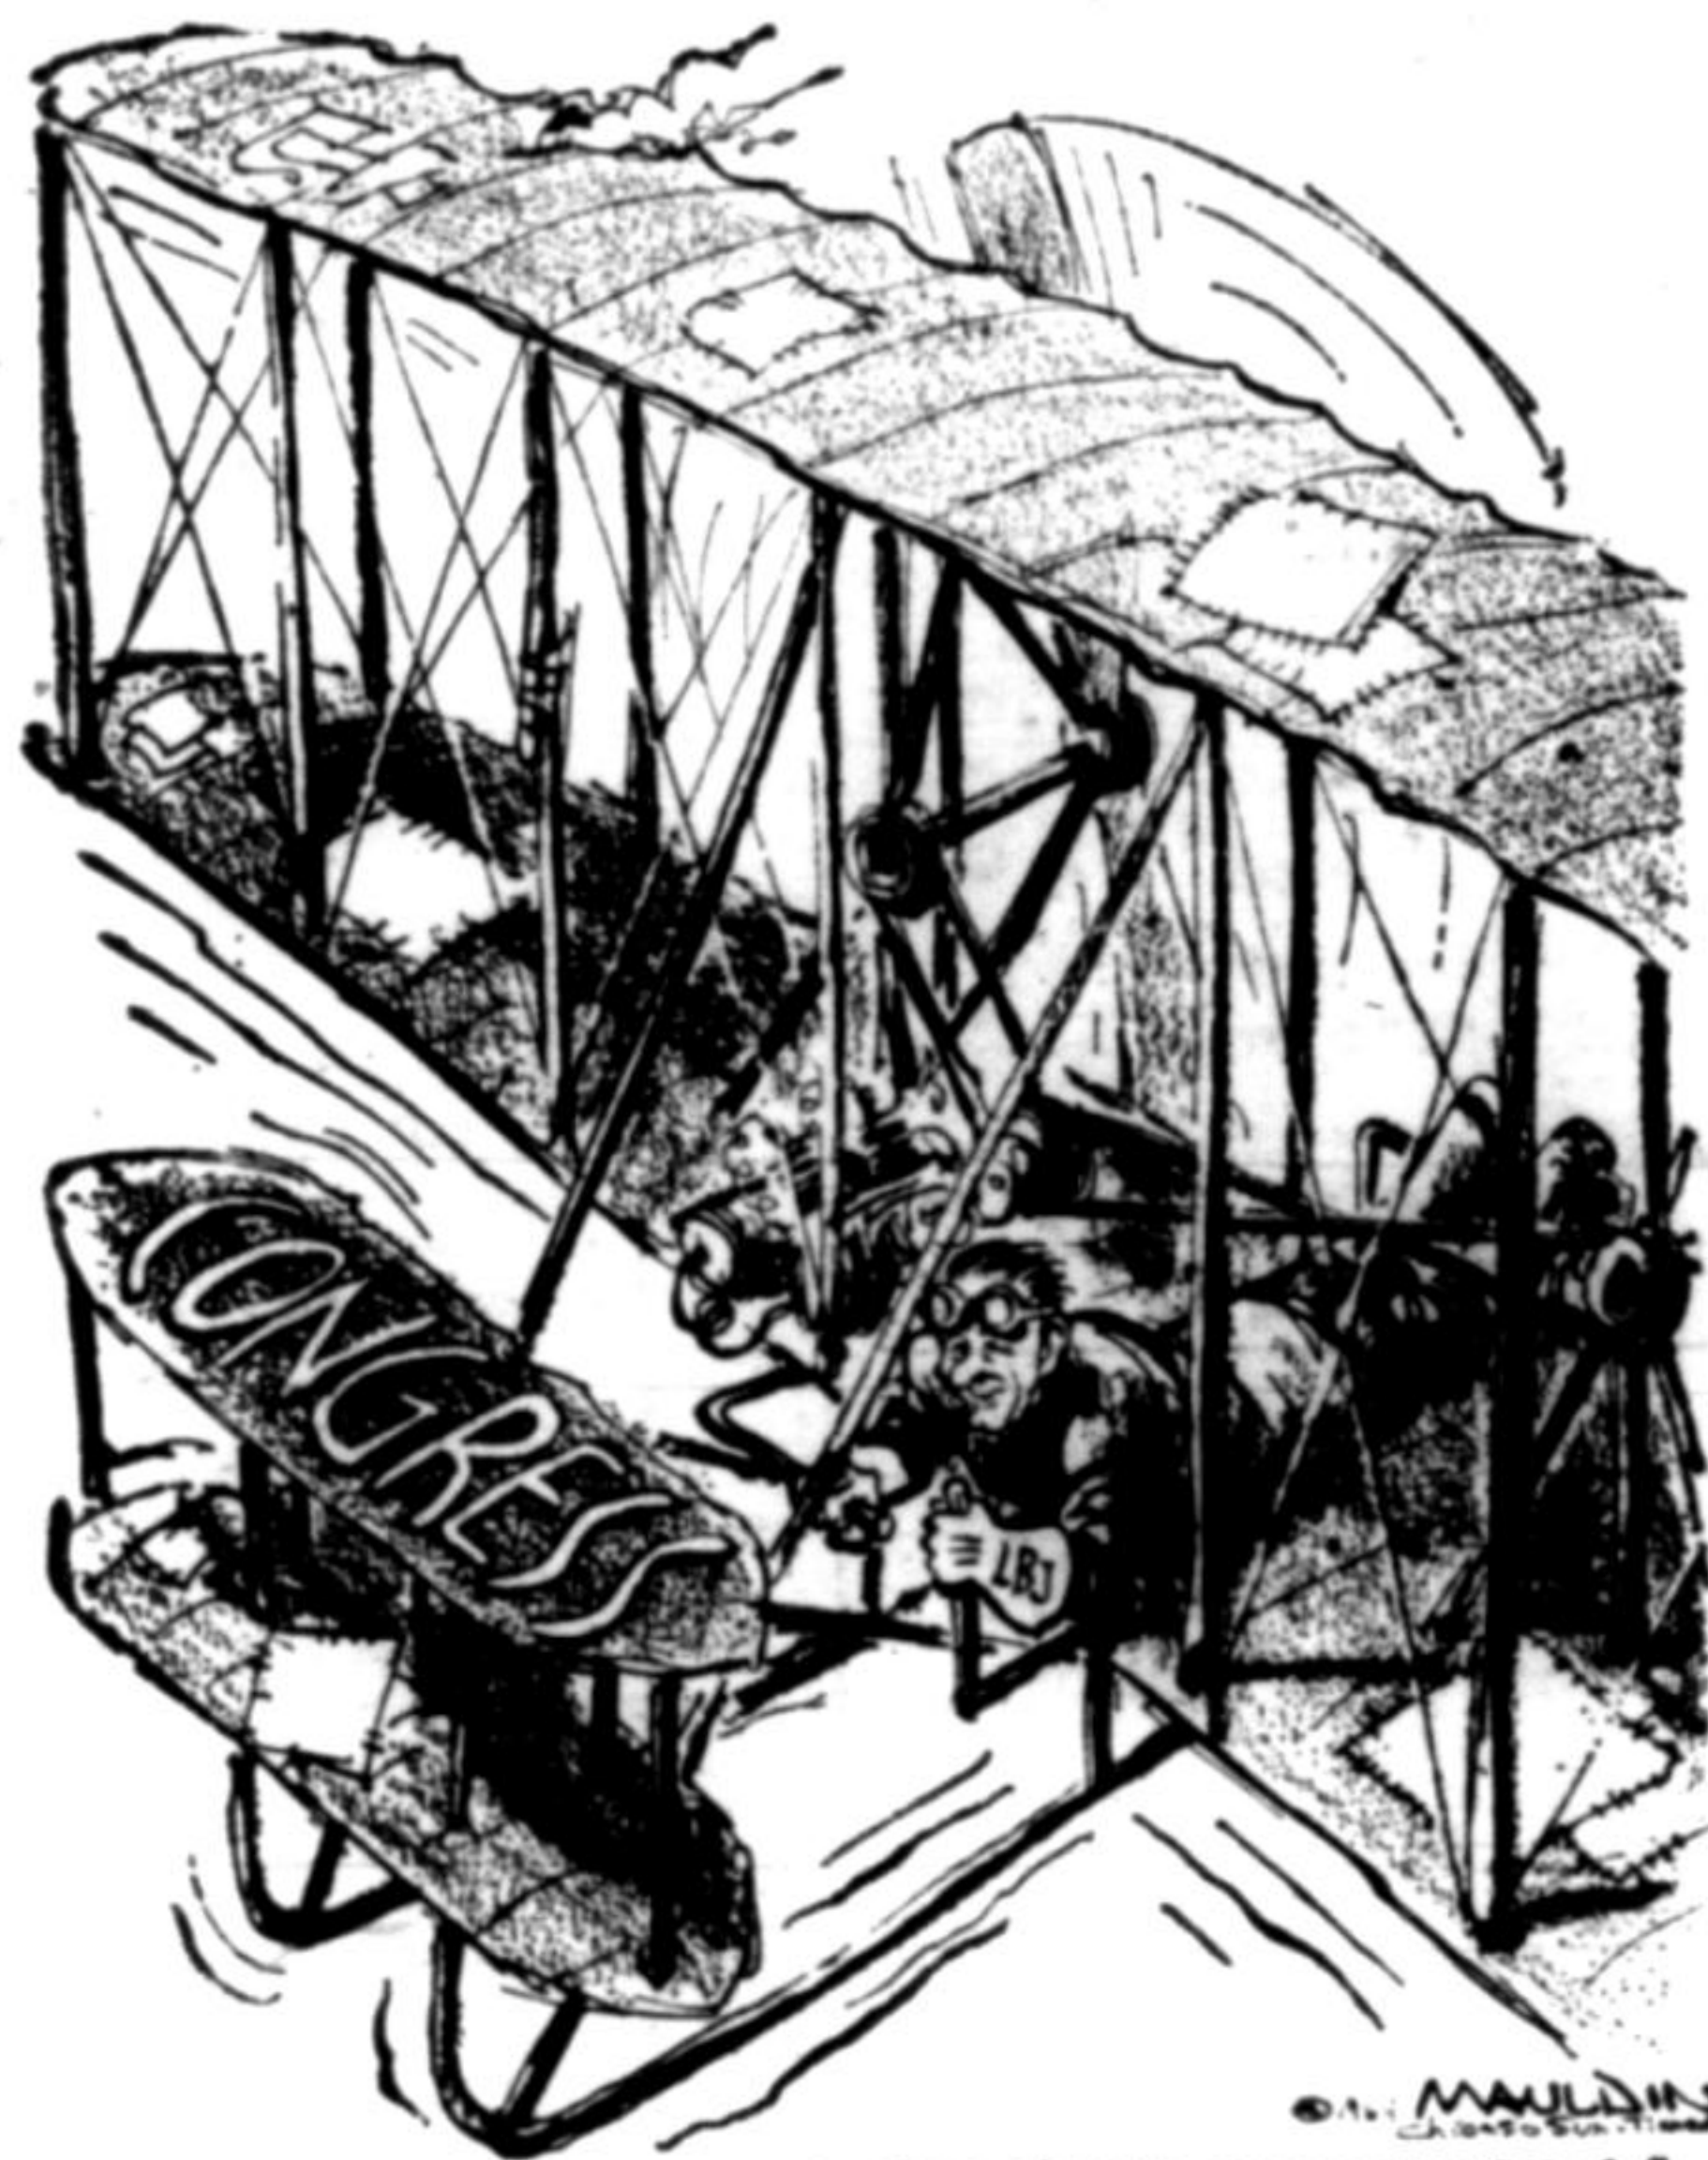

There is one cause for concern, however, one that has plagued all ambitious ASUC projects and doomed most to a slow death: the lack of student participation and continuing interest. There can be little doubt that such an ambitious program will generate interest among many, for a while. The maintenance of interest, both among students and student leaders will rest squarely on the shoulders of the members of SEFR, those students who are members now, and those who will take over their duties in the fall.

The lengthy research done before indicates that the SEFR program is at least based upon thought and consideration. The members of the board can take pride in the knowledge that they have done their utmost to create a lasting program, one based upon a knowledge of the vast area which they have set out to explore and into which they propose to lead students. Yet unless the program has meaning, meaning which all students can know and become personally involved in, all of these efforts will go for naught. SEFR next semester will face the problem of rebuilding their program against student apathy engendered by the failure of the first attempt.

The problem of meaning then confronts both the SEFR of today and the board of tomorrow. Its solution will mark a major triumph for student activity on the campus.

The hope of academic reform may be just the goal that SEFR requires to give its program true meaning. Yet if it is to do so it must be a true hope, not merely wishful fancy. This will require the aid of the University administration, yet it will be the duty of SEFR to articulate student feelings in a form that will not only be amenable to the administration, but also reflect some mature judgment of the problem at hand. No ill-conceived proposals for abolishing grades, discarding the lecture system en masse and so forth will suffice. These will be brushed aside quite appropriately as foolhardy. There are areas where the student's voice can, and should be, heard. Students, and only students, can tell if a teacher is effective, if a course provides knowledge or rote memorization, if grades are a spur to achievement or the Mammon of University life. SEFR must gather this knowledge, and express it to the University in the form of concrete, and possible, ways of correcting some of the evils we all know to exist.

If SEFR succeeds it will earn a significant place in the structure of the University. If it fails, student life will once again return to the sand box.

"THE TRICK IS TO COORDINATE THE CONTROLS."

Voice of the Turtle

Romantic Horror: 'The Great War'

Mary McGowan

Last week the self-appointed dean of Bay Area columnists gushed forth twenty inches of type on the "new cult of the Great War."

And this week CBS announced a new show for the fall season, a documentary called "World War I."

The columnist's meandering through the Argonne forest and the network's latest offering to American popular culture show that time blurs a lot of memories.

To hear the cultist's talk, the debacle extending from 1914-1918 had all the glory and romance of Prince Valiant, Johnny Tremain and Romulus of Rome.

To hear one's grandfather talk about it, though, to read the grisly stories of men gassed before they knew what was happening to them, convinces one that even though World War I happened a long time ago, it wasn't the bed of flowers, the glorious game of strategy that the columnist and the network would have us think.

Ten years ago enlightened high school history courses delighted in describing the Crimean War and the first battles of the Civil War as the last scenes of battle before the growing horror of modern warfare.

After that, history teachers said, war wasn't a game for picnickers to watch. It was harsh, sweaty and very un-Romantic. Particularly World Wars I and II and the Korean "police action."

But perhaps there is a new crop of students in high school who are learning that the shot fired fifty years ago this spring in Sarajevo, killing Archduke Franz Ferdinand, started something more exciting than frightening, more based on idealism than the worst sort of political conflict.

Perhaps they do not realize that the outcome of that "Great War" created attitudes and more political conflicts that led without break to the Greater War during which you and I were born. And which may lead to the Greatest War, an hydrogen-cobalt Armageddon, after which nobody may ever again be born.

The movements of troops and the development of new arms are interesting to some people. One wonders what the fascination is, but one accepts other's privilege to enjoy reliving battles.

But when that curiosity develops into idolization, one shudders.

Will the school children of 1995—assuming that there are children then—find Hiroshima and Nagasaki exciting, romantic and fun?

Tribute to Eric Hoffer—Part II

To the Ice Box:

Open letter to Eric Hoffer, Part II.

In your talk you pointed out that "growth" has been an avowed goal, but it has meant labor saving devices, so that it now takes a $30,000 increase in the GNP to produce one job. A five per cent ideal growth in the economy would only produce 1 million jobs a year, but we need five million just to maintain the status quo.

It's obviously impossible to do that, and so 80 per cent of the population will soon be unneeded, and feeling worthless; the masses, i.e., humanity.

But although unemployment can lead to fanaticism, one of the things that moved you to talk to us was that, historically, you said, sages and prophets, Thucydides and Machiavelli and La Rochefoucauld began to write because they were unemployed and equipped.

"In the beginning God automated the world and then he had nothing to do!" and so, you told us, he experimented with man, a "runaway experiment who, of course, tried to take over. We have almost succeeded in creating a second automated world, the time of fulfillment. We don't need to struggle for existence anymore." Those of us who would like to could go be students in the "state of the unemployed," which would be made up of small school districts ("man is made for small units"), dovetailing the land with the people. The "modern tragedy is that backward countries like Russia and China without the know-how which we have, have tried to make new societies, while we think of automation as a nightmare."

But you said your school-state would be run by the University of California. This bothered me because the "masses chock full of talent" here can't get in the library stacks, and may never have serendipitous experiences, like my finding you, or your finding Montaigne when looking for "just a big thick book with small print." A University without a sense of what a library can mean to people would likely be a poor initiator of the small school districts.

LETTERS TO THE ICE BOX

Iranian Protest

To the Ice Box:

The news that President Kerr has invited the Shah of Iran to speak at the commencement ceremonies at UCLA has created shock and extreme dissatisfaction in most Iranian students here and at other colleges and universities. This invitation is extended at a time when a most brutal dictatorship is ruling Iran and by confession of Iranian officials and the Shah himself, corruption in the government is at its peak. For years Iranian students all over the United States and Europe have been trying to expose to the world the truth behind the policies of the government of Iran. Yet, in spite of all this, such a great university as this extends an invitation to and honors a man who is hated and feared by his own people.

Not too many Americans heard or remember the attack of the Shah's paratroopers and soldiers on the University of Tehran, January 20, 1962. The attack resulted in the complete destruction of all laboratories and libraries of the University. Many students were hurt, girls were criminally assaulted and thrown out of windows and hundreds were arrested. The faculty and president of the university resigned in protest. The only crime committed was that students were exercising their most elementary right by American standards. They had gathered to peacefully protest the Shah's dictatorial regime.

Again, no true Iranian has forgotten the massacre of thousands of Iranians on the streets of Tehran, June 5, 1963. Unfortunately due to strict censorship the whole truth never reached outside peoples. Only eye-witnesses could say what happened and those who lost relatives and friends could tell how many died. The Shah's regime tried to cover up the tragedy by blaming it on religious fanaticism. This was a false accusation but even if it were true, wholesale slaughter has never been the just punishment for such an outburst. The truth was that once more the people had tried and failed to tear their chains.

Iranian students all over the world are trying to give true interpretation to the Shah's intentions and policies. The University of California, having always been a symbol of truth, freedom and learning would certainly be disgracing all it stands for by endorsing such a symbol of tyranny and oppression.

I discovered the meaning of a library, through watching your footnotes, and realizing what one must have meant to you. I probably could never have followed up on your bibliography if I had not been near an open library.

And most important, what happened on Monday (April 6) was a human interaction and involvement between two eager people. But I was in the front row, and this kind of thing, I've kept saying to myself, should happen everyday to most people in every class—impossible here with often 200 people behind the front row. What happened to me on Monday was what I came to college for; and I never planned to have it on a one-shot-lecture basis. The vital life-flow of you—fully-fleshed, fully-lined face and hands—was the "taste of real people" (human resources) that so many of us are hungry for! TO OUR HEALTH AND MAY WE HAVE THE TIME TO ENJOY IT!

Sanguine Signup Success

The ASUC Blood Drive has signed up 231 students to donate Friday in Harmon Gym. This number is almost 100 more than last year's. A plaque will be given to the living group donating the most blood in relation to its size. The greatest number by far to sign up have been from the computer-independents, followed by the fraternities and sororities, residence halls and small living-groups. The prize will be given on the basis of those who actually donate. Last year 158 signed up but only 76 donated. Facilities for donations will be set up from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday in 139 Harmon Gym.

The main project of the Sophomore Class Soph Week will be the collection of blood for Cowell Hospital. The hospital has been running low on blood bank supplies. Sign-ups will be taken today for donations on Friday.

Dramatic Arts Has Tryouts Tuesday For Three Plays

Tryouts for the next bill of one-act plays to be presented by the dramatic arts department will be held from 4-5:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Monday, 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday and from 4-5:30 and from 7 to 9:20 p.m. Wednesday in 100 Wheeler Hall.

The bill will include three plays by Jackson Burgess, assistant professor of English. They are "The Preacher," directed by Eric Feldman; "Dyer Day," directed by Ben Draper; and "Cap," directed by Jay Hornbacher. Scripts are available in the Dramatic Arts office, 120 Dwinelle Hall Annex.

Ayn Rand Group Will Organize

A study group is being organized to examine and discuss Ayn Rand's philosophy of objectivism. Meetings will be held every Sunday evening. Both students and non-students are invited.

Those interested should be familiar with "The Fountainhead" or "Atlas Shrugged," Rand's best known works. The first regular meeting of the discussion will be held Sunday at 5269 Lawton Avenue in Oakland.

The special topic for the evening will be "What is the rational basis for a philosophy?" Interested persons should call Glen Gabel at LA 6-3098 or Sharon Presley at 841-1468 for further information.

'Dance Criticism Unjustified'

ism would have occurred, I wouldn't have approved the freshmen's request."

Throughout the controversy, Kshatriya maintained a discreet, if not pained silence. The extensive comment did not please her. "We have maintained from the beginning," she said, "we do not need the publicity. The metropolitan papers have emphasized the sensual elements, which are only superficial aspects of the dance."

However, it is through all the publicity that the troupe has been invited to perform for a coffee commercial on television.

Yesterday, Kshatriya decided she should try to still the criticism. "I am saddened by the notoriety and negative publicity the dance form I have devoted my life to has received. It has been my goal to inform as many people and groups as I could to the audio and visual beauty of Arabic music and dance."

"People in general have had all kinds of preconceived ideas as to the sexual meaning of this dance," she said. "In all the years of collecting articles on Arabic dance, I have not come across one clue which says this is a dance form which portrays the sex act."

"An audience might pay more attention because you are physically attractive," she added, "but this has nothing to do with a knowledge of the execution of the intricate steps which must be mastered before one is considered an Arabic dancer."

Kshatriya said she wanted to do all she could to improve the reputation of the dance in the eyes of the University officials, for she is "genuinely sorry Dean Towle has forbidden any further dancing performances. We like to think that some day Americans will respond to us in the same way they respond to the Flamenco.

"In the same way as the Flamenco dancer, the Arabic dancer will extend the dance depending on the response of the audience, and she will become creative and inventive while improvising on the traditional steps."

Tickets to the dance will be sold at the door at $2.25 per couple for the general public, $2.00 for students holding freshman class cards. A seven-piece band will provide dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Can't Keep 'Em Down

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Airline personnel seem to like being up in the wide blue yonder even when they're not flying, if their choice of living quarters is any indication.

A new apartment house near Newark Airport has leased 37 of the building's 189 units to pilots and navigators based at the airport. All except two specifically requested an apartment on an upper floor of the 21-story structure.
