Professor Speaks Out For Legalized Abortions

By ERIC ROOST

Any woman, at any time, should be able to procure a legal abortion without even giving a reason, according to Garrett Hardin, professor of biology.

"It is probably conservative to estimate that 20 per cent of all pregnancies are deliberately terminated by abortion," Hardin said. They are all illegal.

A visiting professor from the Santa Barbara campus, Hardin discussed why society considers abortion illegal in a speech on "Abortion and Human Dignity."

"Threaten a girl with pregnancy, and she will avoid sexual intercourse," is one of society's arguments against abortion, Hardin said.

But the threat is not effective, for it assumes that love is a premeditated state, Hardin explained. The chances of a woman becoming pregnant from a single act of intercourse are about 1 in 25. Human nature being what it is, the odds look far safer in a moment of passion than they may the next day.

"It is no wonder that the risk of pregnancy is such a poor deterrent to love-making," Hardin said.

"Abortion is the much-needed backstop in the system of birth control," Hardin said, for contraception will never be perfect. A woman at 8 o'clock does not know what she will do at 10.

"Every major religion of the world," Hardin said, "is now on record as favoring birth control."

The underlying justification for birth control is to free women of their own body, he said. This emancipation will not be complete until a woman has the right to avoid unwanted pregnancy, he claimed.

"Ethical systems that deny women this freedom are the product of men," Hardin continued. "With what grace can men, who are never pregnant, deny women this right?"

If pregnancy is the punishment for promiscuity, the innocent child shares it with the mother, he added. Society can force a woman to have a child, but cannot force her to want one.

Sociologists have done extensive research to show the great damage the unwanted child does to society and the deep impact a mother's non-verbal, subconscious communication has on her child, he said.

On the criminal aspects, Hardin said, abortionists are usually accused of murder, but there is no reason to think abortion is murder. In the Kinsey study, not one of the 18,000 aborted women had been prosecuted.

"If abortion is a crime, it is the only crime for which we prosecute the accessories to the crime and never the principal herself," Hardin said.

An abortion is a simple operation than any physician can perform. If the price is expensive now, the price is determined by its illegality, he said. Physicians probably perform 80-90 per cent of U.S. abortions, he added.

Pro-Shah Group Sues Opposition

By BOB RUNDE

At UCLA, just as in Berkeley, the impending June visit of the Shah of Iran has raised a storm of controversy—and a lawsuit.

The anti-Shah Iranian Students Association of Southern California, a chapter of the 2500 member ISA—U.S., is being sued by the local pro-Shah Iranian Students Association of Southern California over use of the name.

According to the pro-Shah group's law firm, Domke and Bedworth, the pro-Shah group is registered with the county of Los Angeles while the anti-Shah group is not.

Wilfred J. Bedworth said he plans to send a letter to the president of the anti-Shah group demanding that the organization cease using the name of his client.

SPRING!

Dorms Are Hung Over

Spring and hanging the University administration in effigy seem to all go together.

A. Beach Becker, manager of Unit III residence halls, said he received a telephone call informing him of the effigy hanging on a rope between Spens-Black and Priestly Halls at about noon yesterday. An old shirt and pair of pants made up the caricature.

Becker said the owner of the pants could claim them by coming to his office and picking them up.

Students were generally non-committal about the effigy. Some of them claimed it was hung in protest of the firing of three maids from Priestly Hall.

The effigy was put up Wednesday night at about ten o'clock. It was hung on a wire which had previously announced an upcoming unit function.

Mrs. Jessie L. Davidson, shop steward and head maid of Priestly, said some students had told her the effigy was in protest over the firings.

Last Day in ASUC Elections

Today is the last voting day in the ASUC runoff elections. Polling booths will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Dwinelle Plaza, outside the Student Union, and the RBR entrance to the Main Library.

Election results will be available at the Student Union Information Desk, extension 3361, after 11:30 p.m.

The ballot includes runoffs for nine ASUC and class offices, two constitutional amendments, an opinion poll, and a referendum.

The student government offices include: ASUC president, second vice president and three representatives-at-large; senior class president and secretary-treasurer; junior class yell leader, and sophomore president.

Hoffer Has Faith in Masses—'All Capable of Being President'

By PEGGY KRAUSE

Any American is capable of being President, according to Eric Hoffer.

"I don't say the masses could run the country right off the bat. But they are the reserve and have the capability," he said.

Hoffer is a political science researcher at the University this semester. A self-educated longshoreman, he still puts in time working on the waterfront.

He has written three books including "The True Believer," an analysis of mass movements and the fanatic.

He has great faith in the masses—not because he is part of them, he is quick to explain, but because he has lived among them.

In other countries the elite separate from the masses. "A Frenchman can be patriotic without having faith in the masses," he said.

"Our masses are not leached out," he added.

"I know at least two dozen Johnsons on the waterfront. You can reach over the wall, pick up a man, make him president, and you'll have a Truman or a Johnson."

"You have here a nation of presidents."

"I think the Democrats have more faith in the masses. The Republicans think money should be given to the top and it will trickle down. They think you can give a rich man a million dollars and it won't corrupt him, but it will corrupt the masses," he said.

"The Republicans aren't really as reactionary as I make them sound, because if you have no use for the masses, you have no use for American government."

"During the Jefferson administration the intellectuals were as bad as any. What they said is as bad as what colonial officials said about African countries. 'Wait and see, they'll make a mess of things.' But they didn't. They made America."

What is it that American masses have which makes America? A spirit of co-operation, a diffusion of skills, and a feeling of competence, are combined in the American, Hoffer believes.

"This feeling of competence is a tremendous thing," he said. It allows the American supervision-to-worker ratio to be the lowest in the world. Just tell an American what to do and he will figure out how to do it, Hoffer said.

"Not only do we need less supervisors but the supervisor is hard to find," he said. He gave an example: "In Australia the boss has his hands in his pockets and

Chancellor Organizes Board To Consider FM Radio Station

Chancellor Edward Strong has formed a Radio Policy Board which would hopefully keep "Daily Cal types" and "immature kids" off a prospective FM radio station.

The Board was formed in response to fears of some University Regents that a University FM station would be run by irresponsible students whose opinions could be construed to be those of the Regents.

At the March 20 Regents meeting, newly elected Regents President Edward W. Carter expressed fears that the FM station up for Regents' approval at that time would be operated by "relatively immature kids."

"You know how we can't control the students' media of communication," he said. "How would you like to have the same types running the station that are running the student newspaper?"

University President Clark Kerr defended the request for a student-operated FM station because, "The students who are interested in the FM station are engineering types—the types who like to turn dials—not Daily Cal types."

The request to approve the station was referred to committee for further study.

The Board would help members of the station's staff plan programs, appoint members, and help determine the radio's policy.

The Board is chaired by John Jordan, professor of English and Assistant to the Chancellor. Other members are as follows:

Vice Chancellor O. W. Campbell (Chancellor's rep), ASUC President Mel Levine (ASUC rep), Ken Winslow (University television office rep), Marshall Reed (Radio KAL manager).

Richard Hafner (Public Information office rep), George Yourick (Assistant Dean of Students), Prof. Don Coney, Morton Gordon, and two student representatives, Janet Willner and Scott Samuelson.

Latest SOB Progress Report: Completion Sometime This Fall

The new Student Office Building is 62 per cent complete and will be finished in mid-November, according to Robert Samuels, project director for Hardison and Komatsu.

Fondly called the SOB by some of its future inhabitants, the building has virtually all its structural framework completed. The small penthouse on the roof housing the elevator mechanism is the last bit of major cement work to be done.

The major floors have been poured, and workmen are now starting to finish ceilings and partitions in the interior.

The first of a number of pre-cast panels were delivered to the building site yesterday. These will be installed on the south face of the SOB as combination fins and ledges to form T-shaped sunshades for the windows. They will provide the building with an effective form of sun-control, Samuels said.

At a cost of $1,030,000, the SOB will provide office space for the Daily Californian and other campus publications, ASUC officials and activities offices, and the Student Senate. The garage under the Student Union and the lower Student Union plaza will be expanded.

The SOB is the third building to be constructed in the four-unit Student Center complex. The Student Union and the Cafeteria were the first two units. The center will be completed with the construction of an auditorium-theatre, but no date has been set for its construction.

Pelican 3rd in National Poll

Pelican, the University's humor magazine, placed third in a national poll conducted to determine the Ten Best college magazines in the country.

The poll was conducted by the Charlantan, an off-campus Florida magazine, which came in second. Charlantan's editor recently edited the University of Texas Ranger. The Ranger placed first.

"We're satisfied," said Pelican editor Mitch Chefitz, as he uncrossed his motorcycle boots. "We didn't really expect to come in first this time. However, when we conduct our own survey . . ."

Only two of the 52 magazines polled still sell for a quarter. They are the Yale Record and the Pelican.

Pelican's next issue will go on sale Wednesday.

The Ten Best, listed in order after the top three are the Yale

Record, the Old Orange Peel (Florida), Lyke (San Jose State), the Seagull (U. of Washington), Satyr (UCLA), Chaparral (Stanford), and Voo Doo (MIT).

Track Tossup Highlights Cal-Farm Duels

By MIKE KENNEDY

It will be another cliff hanger for the California tracksters when they collide with the Stanford Indians tomorrow down on the Farm.

The Freshman field events begin at 12:30 and the first varsity running event will begin at 2 p.m., one-half hour after the start of varsity field events.

The meet figures to be as close as last week's encounter with the University of Southern California.

California's ability to break into Stanford's strength in the distances and the Indian's success in breaching Bear power in the shorter races will go a long way in deciding the winner of the meet.

Head-on encounters in the broad jump and discus (for second and third), triple jump and javelin will provide exciting action and hold the promise of tight contests.

California power lies in the sprints, especially with the addition of Dave Archibald in the 220 and Forrest Beaty in the quarter.

Beaty has been moved up from the 100, leaving fast improving Bob Brinkworth (9.6) and speedster Steve Adams (9.6) to dual it out with Stanford's Eric Frische (9.8). Frische was a finalist at last year's NCAA championships, with two 9.5's.

Archibald, running the 220 for the first time this year, might surprise everyone including his own teammates. Last year he ran 21.3.

If Beaty (21.4) runs back to early season form and Brinkworth (21.4) continues at his present rate, Frische (21.8) will find himself finishing out of the money.

Beaty, in moving up to the quarter, might possibly be running in his strongest event. Last year at Stanford, in the first meet of the season, he clocked 47.9 on a relay leg and so far this year he has run 46.9 as third man on the mile relay team.

Archibald (47.4) could record his season's best, what with the advantage of Beaty in the race and the fast Stanford track. Ken

Eric Frische

Fraser (48.4) of the Indians should get up for third.

Where the distances meet—the 880—racing will be most competitive. Stanford's Bob Miltz (1:50.8) will give the Bears' Marty Ziebarth (1:51.4) another afternoon of tough competition.

The mile and two mile look all red and white. Only in the two mile do the Bears have a prayer. George Linn showed tenacity last week when he hung close to the Trojan runners and ran 9:14.8, an all-time best. This week he will be called on to run under 9:05, which may be asking too much.

Stanford's Paul Schlicke (4:02.3), Harlen Andrews (4:07.8) and Harry McCalla (4:08.5) should sweep the mile. Dave Deubner (9:06) will join Schlicke (8:56.2) in the two mile.

Don Schmidt (180-10) and Randy Schneider (166-6), both of Cal, match throws with national high school record holder, Bob Stoecker (166-11).

Roger Olsen of California threw the javelin 221-6 last week but will face stiff competition from George Porter (225-6) and Stoecker (221-6).

Stanford will have its way in the shot put with Steve Arch (56-4) and Jack Chappel (55-3) and California should sweep in the high jump with Gene Johnson (6-10), Olsen (6-8) and Bill French (6-7) or Bill Carter (6-8), giving the Indians' Clayton Raaka (6-6) little hope of placing.

Gene Johnson will also broad jump (23-2) and triple jump (for the first time) in hopes of upsetting two Stanford 23 foot leapers and an injured Indian, Steve Cortright. Bruce Ballmer (49-1), rested for the week, should again come up with the big effort in the triple jump.

In fact the whole Bear team will have to show the same fight and determination which they showed last week, if they hope to come away from Stanford a victor this weekend.

Cricket Team Returns Home

Reeling from their second straight loss, California's cricketmen will face a crucial test against Golden Gate, an all-star team composed of Oakland residents, at noon Sunday on Haas Field in Strawberry Canyon.

The wicketmen are now 3-2 in league play, having lost by only two wickets to the Cal Aggies at Davis last weekend. As usual, it was a case of "no hit, all field," as the Blue and Gold cricketers were dismissed for only 43 runs.

A cricketer stressed that the team needs "moral support" from Cal fans at this low ebb in Blue and Gold fortunes. Admission to Haas Field is free, and the weatherman predicts a calm, sunny day.

Bear Nine Squares Off Against Invading Cards

California's Golden Bears host the Stanford Indian nine this afternoon at 3:15 on Edwards Field in the third meeting of these traditional rivals this year, and will return to the Farm Saturday to finish the season series.

Coach George Wolfman's squad will be fighting to keep the Indians from continuing their sweep of the season's Big Games.

In the two teams' previous meetings this season, Stanford nipped the Bears 5-4 and 3-2 in games which exemplify the Bears' CIBA play.

The Bears are currently 3-11 in league competition, while simultaneously enjoying an 11 game non-league winning streak. The Indians rank dead last in the CIBA race at 2-11, one-half game back from next-to-last California. Big Mike Epstein, California left fielder, is ranked eighth in CIBA batting statistics, while Stanford's Jim Hibbs leads the league with a torrid .439 after a hitting spree this last week.

Late-coming Ray Evans (5-0) will start on the mound for the Bears this afternoon, while either Larry Colton (4-6) or Bill Harrison (4-3) will open against the Indians in the final big game of the season tomorrow, down on the Farm.

Linksters Face Tough Sac. St.

Given a big boost by beating San Francisco State last Tuesday, Cal's golfers will face a strong Sacramento State team this afternoon at Mira Vista Country Club.

In their first meeting of the year, the Sacramentians clobbered the Bears with the same strong play they used to beat Stanford previously—and nobody could remember the last time Sacramento State had beaten Stanford.

The Bears will have the advantage of the home course this time, and Mira Vista is notoriously rough on golfers who do not know its cement-hard greens.

If the locals can pull off an upset, they will have improved their odds of beating Stanford next week, in what will be the year's final dual meet.

Coach Kooman Boycheff has announced that he will probably stick with the sixsome which faced San Francisco: Jon Schoenberger, Randy Edwards, Bob Grossman, John Paulson, Rich Sasaki, and Mike Meyer.

Net Hopes Against Stanford Fly High As Beste Ailing

Hoping to revenge two close losses and some insults to their tennis ability, the Golden Bear netmen will face Stanford for the third and last time this year, 10 a.m. tomorrow on the Channing Courts.

The last loss came by a score of 5-4, and now there is a good chance that the Cal netmen can defeat their traditional rivals.

Jim Beste, Stanford's number one man, came down with a serious groin injury at the recent Ojai Intercollegiate, where he unexpectedly lost to players he would normally beat. The injury slows him down considerably.

In the past, Beste's biggest weakness has been that he does not charge the net quick enough, which is a hangover from his clay-court playing style learned in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

In addition, the Stanford coach unknowingly wounded some of the netters' pride when he said, a little too loud, "Didn't think they'd get so close," after the last Stanford-Cal tiff. Needless to say, the tennismen are out to make him eat his words.

However, Jan Kucera is still a big question mark for the Bears. The wiry soph netter figured in two of Cal's wins against the Cards last time, and a 100 per cent performance from him will be necessary for victory.

Games, Food, Dance Highlight Big 'Sirkus' Today, Saturday

Booths, games, food, prizes, music, dancing and fun will be part of the Big 'C' Sirkus from 6 p.m. to midnight tonight, and noon to midnight tomorrow on the Student Union Plaza and Union Field.

Drawings for a total of more than $1000 worth of door prizes will be held every hour. A $65 typewriter will be given away at 8:50 p.m. today and a $300 Honda '50' motorcycle at 9:15 p.m. tomorrow.

The Coachmen—a folksinging trio—will appear at 9 p.m. today inside the Big Top which is set up on Union Field.

The Freshman Class will sponsor a dance on top of the Bear's Lair from 7:45 p.m. to midnight both nights.

Tomorrow night a panel of distinguished judges headed by Ludwig will select the best mascot from eight candidates entered by living groups. The candidates, including five dogs, a rabbit and a pair of alligators, will parade past Ludwig's Fountain at noon today.

Other activities will include a Judo team, a weightlifting team, a trampoline exhibition, a pie-eating contest, a baton demonstration, clown skits, a boxing exhibition, and the "Flying Rifles", a drill team from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Among the more than 25 booths sponsored by various campus organizations are a "Kissing Machine Love Tester," which will test the passion of a kiss (partner not provided), a Rat Race, a Snake Race, and a Horse Race.

At the "Roll in the Hay" booth, contestants will search for a roll in a pile of hay.

"Get Back at Your Physics 10 Reader," a booth sponsored by Delta Chi, will consist of a large cage full of Physics 10 readers, at which contestants may shoot ping pong balls from guns.

A Toboggan Run on real ice will run from the top of the Sibley Room in the Bear's Lair down to the Plaza.

Currency for the Sirkus will be script obtainable at the gate. Winners of games will be given tickets redeemable at a prize booth run by the Oski Dolls.

Admission to the Sirkus is 50 cents, but children under 12 will be admitted free. The Sirkus is a benefit for Cal Camp.

Documentary Film Made in Red China Shown in Wheeler

An uncensored documentary film made in Red China will be shown at 4:15 p.m. Monday in Wheeler Auditorium by Robert Cohen, former National Broadcasting correspondent.

Cohen shot the film for NBC during a six-week, 7000 mile tour of the Chinese mainland he made in 1958 with students who defied a United States travel ban.

Sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, University journalism fraternity, the film is the newest American footage of the country. Cohen was allowed to photograph without censorship Chinese installations such as a political prison, military equipment and factories.

Cohen will narrate the film, entitled "Inside Red China," and hold a question and answer period afterwards. Contents include tours of Peking, Shanghai, cooperative farms, industry and construction on the Great Wall.

A graduate of UCLA, the photographer also has produced such films as "Inside Castro's Cuba," and "Inside East Germany." Tickets may be obtained at the ASUC box office. Price is $1.

SNCC Friends Hold Concert

University Friends of SNCC will present a folk music concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Willard Junior High School.

Featured at the concert will be Pete Berg, Doug Brown, Toni Brown, Dave Fredrickson, Carl Granich and others.

Funds raised by the concert will be used to finance SNCC's Mississippi Summer Project, which includes voter registration, community schools and freedom schools.

Tickets can be purchased at the SNCC table at Bancroft and Telegraph or at the door. The donation will be $1.25.

University Hosts Future Students

The University will host 1500 Northern California high school and junior college students tomorrow who will come to the campus as part of the ASUC University Day program.

The program is aimed at informing future students what they can expect at the University and what procedures they should follow when they apply.

The students will attend a welcome meeting with Chancellor Edward Strong and ASUC President Mel Levine.

Perapetetic Kids Need Teachers

Stiles Hall is looking for men who will work with migrant children through an Education-Recreation program July 1 to August 15 in Yuba City.

An ability to speak Spanish is not necessary, although it would be useful, according to a Stiles spokesman.

Room and board will be provided. Students will do some small group and individual tutoring, lead games, conversation and other informal activities, talk with parents to encourage them to have their children participate, and set up and run a library.

Stiles is interested in students who can participate for two to six weeks. For applications and further information contact Warren Robinson at Stiles Hall, 2400 Bancroft Way, TH 1-6010.

'No Nuclear Secrets in '43—Healthier U.S. Society Now'

If the United States had followed the advice of Neils Bohr and worked in cooperation with all nations in developing nuclear power we would have a healthier society now, J. Robert Oppenheimer said last night.

Oppenheimer was delivering the last of his three Hitchcock lectures on "Neils Bohr and His Times" to an overflow crowd in Pauley Ballroom and a large crowd in Wheeler Auditorium listening to the lecture over loudspeakers.

Bohr, one of the pioneers of atomic physics, strongly advocated an "open world" where, if proper safeguards were observed, the international scientific community could work together in developing nuclear capabilities, Oppenheimer said.

Bohr advocated this at a time when it was unpopular to do so—during the last years of World War II when the United States and England were developing the atomic bomb and considering using it against Japan.

Bohr, a Danish physicist, came to the United States as a British representative in 1943 to work with other scientists at Los Alamos in developing the bomb.

When he realized the capabilities of the bomb, he wrote to President Franklin Roosevelt urging Soviet Russia be let in on the work.

"Bohr knew the Russian distaste of revealing the truth but he felt that in 1943 Russia's military position was such that she would see enough advantages in cooperating with the United States and England to change her character," Oppenheimer said.

Bohr's ideas were not popular and when presented to a conference between Roosevelt and Winston Churchill they earned him only great distrust and a constant security guard.

Oppenheimer said Bohr was not advocating simply giving away information indiscriminately but working together on high levels of statesmanship and science.

"I think if we had acted in accordance with his views, we would have a healthier society, without our oppressive sense of omnipotence, and with less faith in secrecy," Oppenheimer said.

Meteorites and Rare Gases: Clues to the Sun's Infancy

A theory that the "newborn" sun sent out great bursts of radiation is gaining support from studies of rare elements in meteorites.

Clues to early events in the history of the solar system were described by University graduate research physicist Robert O. Pepin at a symposium on the Chemical and Physical Properties of Meteorites. The symposium was held in Washington, D. C., as a part of the 101st Annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

Meteorite studies in California and several other centers have been especially concerned with measuring minute amounts of the rare or "noble" gases: helium, neon, argon, krypton, and xenon.

Studies by U.S. and European scientists showing greater than expected abundances of helium and neon in some meteorites favor the idea of early flare-ups of the sun.

Many scientists believe that the five rare gases were included among the elements in the original "cloud" matter that condensed to form the sun and solar system more than 4.5 billion years ago.

Scientists also assume that at least part of the rare gases found in meteorites today are from this primordial component, since meteorites are regarded as probably the oldest and least altered pieces of solid material in the solar system.

The fact that helium and neon are found in very high relative abundance in some meteorites and are distributed throughout the solid meteorite chunks suggests that much of the gas was added in an early period when meteorites were still in dust or small pebble form.

According to Pepin, former high energy radiation from the sun could have split the atoms of certain elements with atomic weights similar to that of xenon, resulting in addition of minute amounts of xenon isotopes.

Today's solar wind would lack sufficient energy to make these nuclear transformations, Pepin said, but an increase of only 100 fold in earlier times would be enough to do the job.

As a further check on the validity of this explanation, University physicists are planning experiments to duplicate events in the early solar system by bombarding simulated meteoritic material in nuclear particle accelerators.

Ibsen Play Here Tomorrow

The Stanford University Players will present Ibsen's Rosmersholm at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in Wheeler Auditorium.

Directed by James Kerans, "Rosmersholm" is a drama of a Viking woman who kills her lover's wife and finally takes him in a suicidal "marriage" that depicts the triumph of conscience over will.

All seats are reserved and tickets, at 75 cents each, may be obtained from the CAL or ASUC box offices.

A blue and white candle was passed at the Alpha Omicron Pi house Monday to announce the pinning of Jo Ann Hallberg to Jay Fleming of Sigma Chi.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO THE YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN OF SOUTHAMPTON'S DEBUTANTE PARTY

WE READ A STATEMENT in the Press made by one of the young defendants after the court case involving alleged damages at a debutante party in Southampton, Long Island: "Everyone knows there is too much drinking in this country, but what can you do about it? Everybody knows the morals of this country are going down the drain."

WE THE UNDERSIGNED believe we have the answer to the young man's question.

We believe it is time our generation stopped self-righteously deploring this state of the nation or irresponsibly contributing to it. The time has come to change it.

WE REPRESENT hundreds of young Americans across the nation who have committed their lives to create a new society in America and the world with the global program of Moral Re-Armament.

WE ARE IN REVOLT against a society which creates the climate of immaturity and lawlessness that leads to such a debacle and to such a cynical statement. We have got to stop it.

WE ARE IN REVOLT against the gutlessness of "good" Americans who lack the courage to explode the corruption existing in all levels of our society, who sit silently while one woman forces God out of our schools, who permit men committed to atheism and anti-God to proceed unchecked, who proclaim one set of standards and live another.

WE ARE IN REVOLT against the line of the "new morality" which is forced down our throats by books, magazines, television, films, professors and some churchmen. Sex, violence, lust and godlessness are taking over the nation. When venereal disease among young Americans rises 130% between the years 1956 and 1961, when 13,000,000 children come from broken homes—who is responsible? We are.

WHERE ARE THE YOUNG AMERICANS who will pay the price in their own lives to stand up for what is right in the country? Where are the fighting Americans who will cure the hatred, bitterness, impurity and selfishness which divide families, destroy races, deaden youth, split nations?

THE FREE WORLD looks to us for leadership. The captive world looks to us to make freedom a reality again. We know that if America fails the world fails.

WE ARE OUT TO BUILD A NATION where families teach mankind how to live together, where industry—management and labor—teach the whole world how to work together, where all races, colors and classes learn together with all nations how to lead the whole world forward. We are out to create a force of young Americans more dedicated to building a world that works than any Communist or materialist. We will create an America to whom the whole world will turn and say, "That is the way men are meant to live."

WE BELIEVE IN MODERN AMERICA. We believe she will rise to the challenge of the times. We believe she will demonstrate the great reality that free men will accept of their own accord the discipline to be governed by God, so that millions on the earth will never be ruled by tyrants.

THE CHALLENGE facing the American youth is not to go backward to the decadence that destroyed the Roman Empire, but to go forward to the revolution of Moral Re-Armament.

WE CAN REBUILD THE MODERN WORLD. Let us go forward to absolute moral standards for all men everywhere: absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love, not as an end in themselves, but as a means for giving us the energy, the maturity, the responsibility, the clarity that will take humanity forward to the next stage in human evolution.

THREE THOUSAND OF US are meeting this summer in a Conference for Tomorrow's America at the Moral Re-Armament Center, Mackinac Island, Michigan, to shoulder that task together. We invite every young American who has the courage and spirit to care for his nation and the future of mankind to join us.

Make sure you don't sit around this weekend, BEARS, there is just too much to do. There are many of the Academy Award winning movies playing in the Berkeley and surrounding area. If you have any doubts about what to do with those spare hours, just check the movie guide and catch up on some of the very best that that grand industry has to offer.

Now, for the first time in this area, BEARS can enjoy famous BASKIN and ROBBINS 31 Flavors Ice Cream. A great place for after-date snacks, be sure and take advantage of their delicious fountain specialties. It is located at 625 Trestle Glen Road in Oakland. Take MacArthur Freeway to Lakeshore and turn left. For sounds that are out of this world, don't miss Vince Guaraldi and Bola Sete appearing now at the TROIS COLEUR. From personal experience I can vouch for the fine program put on by these excellent artists.

For the very best in repertory theatre, THEATRE FOR THE WORLD is showing this evening "Look Back in Anger." An excellent production that has received very good reviews, it is certainly worth seeing. For great short-order food, OSCARS has a new location at 1890 Shattuck Ave. Why not bounce over for a delicious hot dog or hamburger?

LA VAL'S is having "Happy Hours" again! That's right, the Northside Cantina cordially invites all members of the 21-or-over-club to attend tonight from four 'til seven. If you're looking for a good Chinese dinner after the Sirkus (or anytime), try WING KONG'S on Shattuck near University for the best. A cordial atmosphere and great service is to be had along with a great meal. Tomorrow night marks the opening of the "Andersonville Trial" put on by the Pacific Artists Drama Cooperative. This famous Civil War courtroom drama depicts the trial of a Confederate Commandant accused of killing 14,000 Union soldiers at the Confederate POW camp in Andersonville. There is undoubtedly quite a lesson to be learned from this play. Recommended for all History and Philosophy majors (and everybody else).

If you are still awake at 4 a.m. and crave the most delicious hamburger in the world, try TINGO'S. It is guaranteed you will flip your lid after eating one of these morsels! You can also get breakfast at TINGO'S. They are open twenty-four hours.

School can be a fantastic bore sometimes. This weekend try something new and different. Go out! With an average life expectancy of seventy years, there is just no time to be miserable. This weekend, LIVE! and be loose.

Court Effort Fails; Communist Talks at JC

SAN MATEO — (AP)—Mickey Lima, Communist party leader, spoke before about 3,000 College of San Mateo students Thursday despite court efforts to block his appearance.

Louis Francis, former state assemblyman, lost his final try at keeping Lima off the campus little more than an hour before the scheduled talk.

College of San Mateo students jammed the court room of Superior Court Judge Louis B. Dematteis at a hearing in which the judge denied an injunction requested by Francis.

Lima, the Communist Party's Northern California chairman, was invited by the Associated Students of the college to speak in a series of talks by political figures.

Hugh Fine, John Birch Society leader, was one speaker in the series. Others included Sen. Barry Goldwater and Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary.

Lima assailed the capitalist system in his talk in the college gymnasium jammed with attentive students.

In a discussion period the students gave more applause to challenging questions than to Lima's answers.

Francis has been a consistent campaigner against providing Communists a forum in tax-supported institutions.

As a legislator he drafted the so-called Francis amendment, a constitutional initiative defeated in the November 1962 election.

The Francis amendment would have empowered county grand juries to identify subversive organizations. Members of such organizations would have been barred from public office or public employment.

Everything Will Come up Daisies For WDA Sale

Bunches of yellow and white daisies will be sold from a special flower stand near Ludwig's fountain Monday as part of the first day of the Women's Dormitory Association's Women's Week.

Proceeds from the sale will go toward an undergraduate scholarship.

Women students interested in helping transport or sell daisies should contact Kay Carmicheal, WDA service chairman and director of the event.

Two UC Students Nominated as Kent Grad Fellows

Two University graduate students chosen for their promise as future leaders of higher education have been named Kent Graduate Fellows.

John Herman Blake, sociology, and Daniel W. Howe, history, are among 32 recipients of the fellowships.

A program of the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, the fellowships seek to identify and encourage graduate students preparing for teaching or administrative careers in American colleges and universities. They provide up to three years of graduate study with an annual maximum stipend of $1,800 for single persons and $2,800 for married persons plus tuition and fees.

Blake lives at 2608 Grant Street, Berkeley. Howe resides at 1264 Pinole Valley Rd., Pinole.

Research on Cleft Palates

Experiments with rats may have provided a key to the formation of cleft palates in human beings.

C. Willet Asling, University anatomy professor, described a method for inducing cleft palate abnormalities in baby rats at yesterday's opening session of the American Cleft Palate Association.

Developed at the University, the method enables scientists to compare the step-by-step foetal development of both normal and deformed rats in the womb. From such studies scientists hope to learn more about the growth mechanism that controls palate development in the human foetus.

Key to the studies is an acute folic acid deficiency in the maternal rat's diet at a critical period during pregnancy. The critical period, about the 16th day of pregnancy, corresponds roughly to the second month in human pregnancy. Specific dietary causes have not yet been linked to human cleft deformity.

Bruyn College Health Chief

Dr. Henry B. Bruyn, University director of student health services, has been named president-elect of the American College Health Association.

Bruyn was chosen at the association's annual meeting in Denver this month. He will take office in 1965.

The American College Health Association as approximately 500 members representing most of the major colleges and universities in the United States and Canada.

Bruyn is also an associate professor of medicine and pediatrics at the University's School of Medicine in San Francisco. He received his MD from Yale University School of Medicine in 1943 and joined the University staff in 1946.

Evading the Issue

In the debate over voluntary ASUC, opponents of the present compulsory system argued that vital services would be endangered by the lack of compulsory funds from all students.

Specifically, an appeal has been made to students that the ASUC would have trouble financing the Student Union and the Daily Californian, and the incidental fee would have to be raised.

These two examples were used because they hit home—they are daily services which most students use. However, financial figures show the Student Union and the Daily Californian would not be what students would lose most if the ASUC were voluntary.

First, the $6 students pay every semester for building the Student Union would not be affected by a change in the ASUC structure. Regardless of whether the ASUC is voluntary or compulsory, students would have to continue paying back the building loans. The ASUC never touches the $6; it goes directly to the Regents and then to the creditors.

The maintenance of the Student Union would also be unaffected by a voluntary ASUC. Revenue from auxiliary enterprises, such as the ASUC Store, the Games Room and the bowling alley, totaled $329,000 last year—more than enough to pay the operating costs of the Student Union.

Most of the cost of publishing the Daily Californian is paid by advertising revenue, and the amount paid by the students is less than one-tenth of the ASUC fee. Twice as much of the ASUC fee is used for the Cal Band than is used for the Daily Californian.

When the ASUC was formerly voluntary, subscriptions to the Daily Californian were also voluntary. Thus, there is no basis for the argument that the Daily Californian could not exist under a voluntary ASUC setup.

The suggestion that the Daily Californian be run by the Dean of Students office is ridiculous. The newspaper as a Publisher's Board, composed of students, faculty, administration and professional journalists, which could operate the Daily Californian both financially and editorially.

We are not arguing here for or against a voluntary ASUC. As we stated yesterday, students have not had sufficient time to study the issue. But we do feel the debate thus far has missed the main question. Should all students be taxed for all activities? Should all students be forced to support the Daily Californian, the Cal Band or the Brick Muller Society even if they have no interest in them? ASUC President Mel Levine fears the ASUC would lose revenue because many students would not join if they had a choice. This is no argument against a voluntary system—perhaps the fact so many students have no interest in extracurricular activities indicates the ASUC should be voluntary.

Big 'C' Sirkus

For the small investment of 50 cents students can combine an evening of fun and a contribution to a worthy charity for the next two nights at the Big "C" Sirkus. Cal Camp, which will reap all the profits from the two-night stand of the Sirkus provides a place for underprivileged children of the Berkeley area to enjoy a summer camp that they otherwise might never see.

The demand and need for such an activity cannot be underestimated. Even if Cal Camp were to have an unlimited source of funds it could never hope to provide for all those children who might deserve to attend. The fact that its funds are almost completely limited to voluntary contributions makes it even more imperative that it receive wholehearted student support.

Rally Committee, which is putting on this year's Sirkus has invested about $4,000 to assure that this show will be the best ever. That means that 8,000 people will have to go through the turnstiles before Cal Camp can see any rewards. But their efforts and expense are justified by the quality of the Sirkus.

So, have a good time, and give some underprivileged child that might be a great man or woman of tomorrow a chance to break away from the ghetto, even for just a few days, and see what a world without prejudice might be like.

'How Green Was My Valley'—UC Style

Mary McGowan

A friend of mine keeps yelling at me about how big my mouth is. "All you ever do is talk, and when you aren't talking you're typing out garbage," he smilingly says, as he pats me on the head.

"If you're going to be so verbose, why don't you say something constructive, like tell people to quit walking on the grass."

"It's spring after all and you're notorious for writing about spring. What better time is there to remind people that by tromping around they are destroying the lawns which they could enjoy at their leisure."

He points to the new paths between California Hall and the Life Sciences Building. The sweeping lawns are now chopped up with asphalt paths put in for people who cut corners when hurrying to class.

That area used to be great for lounging between classes, eating lunches and sleeping on sunny afternoons. Now its charm is lost in the thunder of a thousand people and the ugliness of paving.

These paths are just another example of willful destruction of what is beautiful and clean in nature. They are like the building recently started in Strawberry Canyon. The canyon had long been a refuge for those weary of looking at concrete and steel. The paths among the trees and wild plants were a delight to the amateur botanists and a natural site of botany field trips.

But last week bulldozers began tearing up the north side of the canyon to see if the soil will hold a new building and to exploring possibilities of a flood control channel for Strawberry Creek. Ironically, the building will be a facility for the Botany department.

But one whose quarters face the Berkeley hills need not even come on campus or journey to Strawberry Creek to see a sad example of human folly where nature is concerned.

He can look out the window and see the Big C—bad enough an example of misplaced "patriotism"—and the new, white numerals "67," burned into the green hillside by the freshman class. Or he can look south and see "CSD" on the next hill, put there by pupils of the California School for the Deaf, who are aping the antics of their older neighbors, University students.

One shrinks from visions of what the end of this destruction will mean: grassless, concrete fields, stumps instead of trees and hills covered with buildings like Barrows Hall. Not to mention the initials of student groups and the numerals of future classes.

It will only be poetic justice if the class that enters two years from now follows the pattern.

Today's Improvised Music

By JIM PALTRIDGE

The New Music Ensemble from the Davis campus presented a concert of improvised music at this week's noon concert. Improvisation is very much the new wave in music; however one should not assume it is the same as in the days of Bach and Mozart.

When those stodgy graybeards sat down at the piano, they were expected to come up with something resembling a finished composition. Today's improvisation, on the other hand, is free from those old tyrants, form and content.

Practically every avant-garde movement is accompanied by a manifesto, and this group was no exception. In this case it is an article, reprinted in the program notes, by an apparently semi-literate professor of psychology at Sacramento State. According to him, the Ensemble is "releasing the primitive in rationalized form making it thereby available and thus less tyrannical."

Well, one wasn't just sure that all that was going on, but one did hear the Ensemble produce a flowing kaleidoscope of sounds, related by their timbres and textures. They were delightful, refreshing sounds, interesting in their juxtaposition and in the way they were produced.

But they were only sounds, and one of the fallacies of this new music seems to be that music is only sounds. If so, one might also say that a piece of granite is a statue, that words are a novel.

In the long run, this improvised music, which raises many expectations and satisfies none, becomes very tiresome. A kaleidoscope is attractive for only a few minutes. After that it becomes boring, except, maybe, to little children and idiots.

LETTERS TO THE ICE BOX

Strawberry Canyon

To the Ice Box:

Strawberry Canyon is a beautiful site, and many students have enjoyed "getting away from it all" by walking up the paths behind the clubhouse. There are lovely wooded areas, and an abundance of wildlife for one to enjoy. It is close to the university, so one need not have a car to visit it. Somehow I had supposed that the university would preserve it for its beauty. On last Friday, when one of my classes was up there for a field trip, we found that an ugly roadbed had been dug out, parallel to the upper part of the canyon. It is a heartbreaking sight: an area that was so beautiful just last week, and which seemed so isolated from ugly construction, is now torn apart. I am not a lone objector; there are hundreds of people who will be sorely disappointed when they see what has been done. Has this university no foresight? Our planners must realize that it is important to keep some areas of natural beauty close by for people to enjoy.

Nasser Is Dictator?

To the Ice Box:

Mr. Kowsar's hysterical attack upon the brave Iranian Students and his defense of his master the Shah of Iran may be indispensable to a man in his situation. But it is really sad to see a diplomat getting out of his mind and thus throwing insults everywhere. In his furious attack against the ISA, he was not able to behave as a diplomat. He said that the Shah is not a dictator but that Nasser of Egypt is a real one, "because he is trying to make war on Israel to gain more land." Although there is no way of comparing the two men and the accusation is childish and has no place in the whole issue, I would like to offer Mr. Kowsar a little piece of information: Mr. Nasser, Sir, being one of a hundred million Arabs, is doing his duty to return the robbed land to its rightful owners, the Palestinian Arab refugees. Is this dictatorship Mr. Kowsar?

—Fawzy Kishk
Graduate, soil science

Foul Play

To the Ice Box:

Although I have contained my wrath thus far this year and have not written to the Daily Californian in protest of the debauchery done to William Shakespeare by Cal's drama department in "The Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet," and "Coriolanus," I can be still no longer as regards "The Tempest."

"The Tempest" as currently performed at Cal is so wonderful, so imaginative, and so rewardingly entertaining that I suspect some lovely "foul play" on everyone's part in this final play of the year commemorating Shakespeare's 400th birthday. Everyone is to be congratulated, and my special appreciation goes to Ariel Parkinson for the enchanting sets and costumes which are so beguilingly beautiful.

To all who made this such a worthwhile endeavor may I again say thank you!

—Judith H. Cohen

Thanks

To the Ice Box:

This is a public fan letter to the members of the University drama department who helped in the production of "The Tempest." I would like to congratulate them on a brilliant performance and thank them for a very memorable and enjoyable evening.

'Brazil' Represented

College Model UN Delegates Report on Annual Meeting

After a frenetic but successful Model United Nations conference in Spokane, Washington, from April 15 to 18, members of the University's College Model UN (CMUN) council are preparing for next year's meeting at Claremont College.

Jim Baker, chairman of the six-man delegation, said the conference was "outstanding"—at least from the University's point of view.

"When 60 resolutions are turned in to each committee during a two-day period, a delegation should feel lucky to have just one of its own accepted." The University CMUN group, representing Brazil, had four of its resolutions passed.

The "Brazil"-sponsored resolutions included statements on the de-nuclearization of South America and Africa, the status of human rights in Southern Rhodesia, and motions for enlarging the Security Council and the Economic and Social Council.

The last day's debate in General Assembly was monopolized by the question of admitting Red China. Since it was late in the day and some of the "countries" had to return home, the motion was narrowly defeated.

Attending this year's conference at Whitworth College were 1,200 students representing 100 colleges and universities and 108 "nations." The conference was a working "model" of the United Nations, and the resolutions passed by the "General Assembly" were sent to the real UN in New York.

Each conference is planned two years ahead, and the participating schools are notified which country they will represent a year in advance. "Regionals" are held for practice at member schools

Sunday ASUC Film

This Sunday's ASUC film will be Valerio Zurlini's "Girl with a Suitcase," winner of the 1960 Venice Film Festival.

Also on the program will be a recent short film treatment of a satirical sketch from New York's Second City Revue, "That's Me." Admission is 50 cents with University identification. Feature time is 8 p.m.; the program will be held in Pauley Ballroom.

before the main event. These meetings are one day long compared with the larger three-day session.

This year the Western Regional was held here March 7 with 20 schools and 150 people attending.

Some universities—such as San Jose State and Whitworth, have credited courses to prepare conference delegates. Subjects include UN structure and procedure, voting and political history of the represented country, and general UN power politics.

The University, however, offers only a general political science course on the United Nations, so CMUN students here do their own research.

The University's delegation faced a special problem in their role as Brazil. Just before they left for the Spokane conference, Brazil had a revolution, and their policies had to undergo a rapid change.

CMUN's hardest job, according to members Dave Lauer and Barbara Gullahorn, is creating interest on their home campuses.

Students interested in participating in CMUN may sign up in 104 Eshelman Hall. Membership is open to anyone, and application should be made before final examinations.

Here Comes The Bride

NEW YORK (AP)—"Get me to the church on time," pleaded bride-to-be Laraine Scheuler, 21, to city officials after the worst snow of the season clogged the street in front of her house.

Her wedding to Thomas Donohue, 28, had been planned for almost a year but it appeared that the limousines carrying the bridal party would be unable to get to Ascension Church for the ceremony.

A call to Michael DiGiovanna, superintendent of the Sanitation Department's District 53, proved that even City Hall has a sentimental streak. A plow was sent out immediate to clear the street.

He added that often the work gang elects its own boss, and sometimes a crippled man who is

"We are lumpy with talent," he continued. "I've never felt that the people who work with me were inferior to me," he said, even though "I'm living in intel-

"To tell the truth, I'm never bored with them. I can discuss any problem that bothers me with them. You can talk to people who are not educated if you really have something," he continued.

University Officials Ignore Shah Issue: 'No Change!'

ents. Bedworth said his firm is interested only in the issue of identification and not the political aspects of the case.

Meanwhile, another table has become a familiar fixture at the corner of Bancroft Way and Telegraph Avenue.

During the past week and a half the Iranian Students Association
—Northern California Chapter has daily displayed its signs attacking the Shah. At the table Iranian students gladly greet passersby, hoping to gain signatures for their petition to University President Clark Kerr.

The petition says the Shah has suppressed academic freedom in Iran and is therefore an unworthy candidate for the honorary degree
UCLA is planning to confer on him.

The petition further states that the presentation of this degree is entirely out of keeping with the award for defending academic freedom that Kerr received earlier this year.

So far the Iranian students have persuaded more than 1500 students and 50 faculty members to join their cause.

The petition and a letter stating the Iranian students' case against the Shah have been submitted to President Kerr.

According to a University Spokesman, "no change in plans is anticipated... there is no official announcement pending."

In case the University fails to heed their protest, the Iranian students have asked Kerr to invite the Shah to speak in Berkeley to enable them to interrogate him.

The University Spokesman said,
"It's not up to the University to invite him; it would be up to the ASUC to make that move, I should think."
