A truly exceptional address on the water, this landmark Whangārei residence delivers lifestyle, flexibility and architectural distinction in one of the city's most coveted locations.

Set on a 663 sqm waterfront section with uninterrupted water views across the Hātea River toward the iconic Te Matau ā Pohe Bridge, every moment here is defined by outlook and connection to place.

Designed and built in 2022 to exacting standards, the upper living level offers three generous bedrooms and two beautifully appointed bathrooms, including a master suite with private ensuite. TENDER PROCESS

How does a Tender work?

A Tender is a method of sale where a property is marketed without a price, and buyers submit their offer in writing by a specified deadline.

As a buyer, this gives you time to view the property, complete your due diligence, and prepare your best offer. Tender offers can be conditional or unconditional, depending on your circumstances.

Unlike other sale methods, tender offers are confidential. Buyers do not know what other buyers are offering, and there is usually no opportunity to negotiate after the deadline. Because of this, it is important to submit your strongest offer from the outset.

Once the tender deadline passes, the seller will review all offers and choose the one that best suits them. They may accept one of the tenders, reject them all, or choose to negotiate with a preferred buyer.

What is a multiple offer?

A multiple offer situation occurs when more than one buyer submits an offer at the same time. In this case, all buyers are encouraged to present their strongest offer, as the seller will either accept one or negotiate with a single buyer—excluding others from further negotiation.

What does “unless sold prior” mean?

When a property is marketed by Tender “unless sold prior”, it means the seller reserves the right to accept an offer before the tender closing date.

If a buyer submits an offer the seller wishes to consider early, the agent will notify other interested buyers so they have the opportunity to submit their own tenders.

If the seller accepts an unconditional offer, the property is sold immediately. If a conditional offer is accepted, the property may remain conditional until those conditions are satisfied.

For this reason, if you are seriously interested in a property being sold by Tender, it is important to stay in close contact with the agent and be ready to submit your offer before the deadline if required.
