

DON'T FILL MY SHOES

By Ingrine Lyle

I know I left a large footprint,
That is difficult to fill
These types of thoughts and actions
Take years of building skill
So when you think about me
To carry on my tasks
Remember that without me
Our memories will last
I was trained for the life I lived
As you have been trained for yours
Think about the gifts you have
Try to develop more
Take the torch. Carry my name,
In a way unique to you.
When working on my projects,
Don't do me, do you.
And if you're moved to lift me up
To put right all the wrongs
I'll tell you all the secret
Of living proud and strong
Believe you came from Kings, Queens
Your future's in your hand
Never dodge a hard day's work
Help others when you can Be more. Don't expect a handout.
Let work ethics see you through
Put in a little hustle,
See doors open for you.
Don't look down on those with less.
When you can, make peace.
Be loyal to your cherished ones,
Spend quality time with each.
See a person down and out?
Let them work in your field
Pay them what their work is worth
Then pride is what you build
And when you think about me
And what I've done for you
Go and do for others
God will see you through.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

When peace, like a river, attends all my way, when sorrows like sea-billows roll, whatever my path, you have taught me to say,
"It is well, it is well with my soul." – Horatio G. Spafford
To our family, neighbors, friends, and friends of our beloved Eric Worrell, Sr., we extend a heartfelt, warm thanksgiving for everything you've done.

Sincerely,

The Worrell and Stevens Family
