

From Jerome's Perspective

Mom and dad, you gave me life. You cared for me when I was unable to care for myself. To you Dad, my heart broke when you left me, but I managed to continue on despite my pain. To you Mom, I was able to spend your last days with you, to see you every day and engage with you as I did for almost 40 years. When you left me, again my heart was broken. I felt I was all alone. I told my bro, "I'm all by myself now". I knew I had family who was there for me, but it was always Mom, Dad, and me.

Dad tried to tell you to take care of me. Bro, I know you loved me and did everything you could and more...road trips to Chester several times a week and all of my appointments." I love you Bro for all that you withstood. To my sister Lula Mae, thank you for your sacrifices to be with me in my last days, ensuring that I knew Christ and accepting Him as my Savior. I wish that I had more time to engage and share with you both, but I needed to be with Mom and Dad.

Don't cry long for me, I am now with Mom and dad. I am happy that I am here. Dad said, "What do you need son?" Mom said, "It is alright now, Jerome."
