

Chad Moller to Serve as FCC Services CEO

FCC Services is pleased to announce that Chad Moller has been named Chief Executive Officer. Chad has been serving as interim CEO since former CEO Scott Binder resigned in November 2019.

Chad previously served as COO and CFO for FCC Services since 2012, leading the organization's financial, human resources, IT, legal and administration functions. In recent months, he has led business continuity efforts and identified ways for the organization to maintain financial stability during and coming out of the current pandemic crisis.

"Chad has proven his ability to guide FCC Services financial and administrative teams as CFO/COO and led efforts to grow FCC Services profitability and significantly increase the net equity value of the organization," said Dan Childs, chair of the FCC Services Board of Directors. "The board is confident that he will lead our organization to even greater success in delivering effective and essential solutions to our clients."

Before joining FCC Services, Chad served as the vice president of finance for Comcast's $11 billion West Division operation, responsible for the organization's financial planning and analysis and management reporting functions. Prior to that, he held progressive positions with early-stage telecommunications companies, participating in capitalization initiatives, including M&A due diligence, IPOs, debt financing and general business planning. Chad also currently serves as treasurer of the non-profit board, Hide in Plain Sight. He holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Dakota Wesleyan University and a Certificate in telecommunications from the University of Denver, and has been accepted to and is currently participating in Harvard Business School's Certificate of Management Excellence program.

"I'm honored to be selected to lead FCC Services and its outstanding team of dedicated professionals through this challenging time and into the new decade," says Chad. "With continued diligence and focus on delivering and evolving our services to meet our clients' needs, we look forward to an even stronger future for our organization and for the industries we serve."