As sharers of the one baptism & the one Spirit of the Risen Christ, we come together as the Parish Community of St. Mark the Evangelist to proclaim our identity as the People of God.

The Eucharist is the center of our life and work together. Through the one bread, we become the one body of Christ, a living sacrifice of praise. In our worship of God, the Author of life and holiness, we proclaim our hope in the life of Christ's Resurrection; we open our hearts and minds to the Spirit of God dwelling in our midst.

In our work, together, we seek...

to enable our children to grow in the wisdom and knowledge of God; to accompany our young sons and daughters on their journeys of discovery toward adulthood; to deepen our faith commitment through prayer & study; to be present to one another in the joys and sufferings, the victories and struggles of life; to give witness to the Gospel of justice and compassion to our hurting world.

We welcome to our parish family all who share our Catholic faith & traditions & our search for God in all things.

From the Desk of Deacon Tom...

Well, the Easter Season is officially over. But...we are an Easter people, and that means living each day like it's Easter. And our second reading today is a bit of a reminder for that. It opens with "Brothers and sisters, rejoice." All this rejoicing, who would ever have time to be angry, hurt, upset, depressed or just plain blah. But human nature means those feelings will come. Even if we remember the joy of Easter and the Resurrection, our human condition means we will have some downs. But they don't last forever. And, without those downs, we'd never recognize the ups!

I have a few friends who rate their spouse's emotional scales. One has a spouse that on a scale of 1-10, 1 being really angry and 10 being extremely happy, they say it varies from 4 to 6. Not much variance there in emotion. Another said their spouse went from 2 to 7, so I really don't want to be around on a 2 day. Where would you rate yourself on that emotional scale? I'd like to think my full range is a 4 to 8. Not sure I've ever hit a 9 or a 10 on the high side, but objectively, I think I rarely get below 4. And if/when I do, it lasts less than a day. I've trained myself to recognize bad days are just that – one day. Usually it lasts less than a day, but on those days I just remind myself things will swing back by the next day.

Living each day at the 10 stage is an unattainable goal. But being an Easter people, living each day at 6 or above is worth shooting for. And if we live like our Second Reading implies, we'd be well on our way. Mend your ways. Encourage one another. Agree with one another. Live in peace. All easier said than done. But with some effort and someone to work at it with, we could stay north of 5 on a more consistent basis. If there's one thing I could have told my younger self, it's that everything works out in the end. As I get older I try to remember in challenging situations that "in 5 years, this won't matter" and it's much easier to deal with the situation.

Our second readings are usually good examples of how the early Christian community was trying to come to grips with what they witnessed and experienced and how it changed their lives. Their challenges weren't much different than ours, they just had a LOT less technology. Their Easter didn't end with Pentecost and neither should ours. Brothers and sisters, rejoice!
