

Faith & Science: More Sources

- The Thomistic Institute's online course

- Aquinas 101 Season 2: "Science & Faith" aquinas101.thomisticinstitute.org/science-and-faith

- This YouTube video series brings contemporary experts in both science, philosophy, and theology to help us understand more about this topic.

- "The God of Faith & Reason"

- Written by Robert Sokoloski, this book explores fundamental distinctions that help make central mysteries of the faith more intelligible.

- "'In the Beginning...': A Catholic Understanding of the Story of Creation and the Fall"

- These homilies, written by Joseph Ratzinger (Benedict XVI), provide a scriptural approach to the mystery of creation as presented in Genesis with the help of the Catholic intellectual tradition.

- "Fides et Ratio" On the Relationship Between Faith and Reason

- Pope Saint John Paul II wrote this encyclical letter to teach the dovetailing relationship between faith and reason. He highlights the conversation's history, cultural influences, and how God leads humanity to himself in the harmony of faith and reason.

- "Science and Christianity: An Introduction to the Issues"

- J.B Stump's text has 12 chapters exploring a wide range of scientific and theological topics with titles like: Christianity and the Origin of Modern Science, Evolution, Natural Theology, Cosmology, Divine Action, and Mind Soul and Brain, & more.