WORKSHOP AND DEMONSTRATION

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
EXTENSION

Is my forest healthy? How do I know?

This event offers the opportunity to:

- Learn to identify and manage common conditions that make your trees weak and vulnerable to tree-killing bark beetles, root rots, defoliators, and other pests.
- Learn how to examine tree density, recognize if your forest is “overstocked” and how to thin and prune trees so they are healthy, productive, and safe from fire.
- Get ideas for improving and protecting wildlife habitat in your woods.
- Acquire hands-on experience measuring trees. You keep the instruments for monitoring growth and changes.
- Learn about programs that will help you improve forest health, reduce wildfire risk, and save you time and money.
- Meet foresters, contractors, and family forest owners!

See for yourself!

Visit two sites treated to reduce fuel and improve forest health, featuring a “masticator.”
