

Tarantelle

A warning from an arachnophobia sufferer

Melody Traditional
Lyrics Dana Thynes

If you meet the spi - der Ta - ran - tu - la,

The first system of music features a treble and bass clef with a 3/4 time signature. The melody is written in the treble clef, and the bass line is in the bass clef. The lyrics are placed below the treble staff.

You should run with all of your might!

The second system of music continues the melody and bass line. The lyrics are placed below the treble staff.

If you long to hold a Ta - ran - tu - la,

The third system of music continues the melody and bass line. The lyrics are placed below the treble staff.

You should learn of its bite! Fine

The fourth system of music concludes the piece. The lyrics are placed below the treble staff, and the word "Fine" is written at the end of the line. A fermata is placed over the final note of the melody.

Tarantelle

Though it is fuz - zy and rath - er slow,

The first system of musical notation for 'Tarantelle'. It consists of a grand staff with a treble clef on the upper staff and a bass clef on the lower staff. The melody is written in the treble clef, and the accompaniment is in the bass clef. The lyrics 'Though it is fuz - zy and rath - er slow,' are written below the treble staff.

And it is cute as a - rach - nids go

The second system of musical notation. The melody continues in the treble clef, and the accompaniment continues in the bass clef. The lyrics 'And it is cute as a - rach - nids go' are written below the treble staff.

You should - n't cud - dle or hold it near

The third system of musical notation. The melody continues in the treble clef, and the accompaniment continues in the bass clef. The lyrics 'You should - n't cud - dle or hold it near' are written below the treble staff.

Ve - nom is some - thing to fear! D.C. al Fine

The fourth and final system of musical notation. The melody continues in the treble clef, and the accompaniment continues in the bass clef. The lyrics 'Ve - nom is some - thing to fear!' are written below the treble staff, followed by the instruction 'D.C. al Fine'.