

BonBon Day & the History of the Animal Wellness Collection

We love our work with animals. It gives us great joy. From the beginning of Green Hope Farm, we've worked with many animals in many situations. Early on, we made several combination mixes for animals including Flee Free and Animal Emergency Care, but generally we sent out individual Flower Essences for each animal after discussing the issues with each animal caretaker. This was a cumbersome system but also taught us much about the strengths of many Flower Essences.

One day an animal practitioner who worked with our Flower Essences asked us to create a collection for the animals. We had been particularly busy that day so I said to this Green Hope friend, "That's a great idea, but I don't know when we will be able to work on this. We aren't exactly sitting around eating bonbons." No sooner had I hung up the phone than a friend of one of my children walked in with an enormous box of chocolates for us.

Okay, so we WERE eating bonbons.

This synchronicity had the Angels' fingerprints all over it. As I ate my first truffle I said to the Angels, "If you want me to make this collection, you need to send another full time staff person!" The phone immediately rang and the woman on the line said, "The Angels just asked me to call and tell you that I am looking for work and would like to come to work at the farm."

I was on my third truffle when I started to write down the list of combinations the Angels wanted us to create. After many intensive conversations with the Angels about these mixes, the collection of twenty-two remedies was born. I look back on bonbon day with joy and gratitude. I am so glad to have this amazing collection to offer you. It has such incredible depths and strengths. Each mix has revealed itself as much more versatile and complex in its gifts than originally anticipated. As noted before, each has proven to be deeply healing for animals and people.

In keeping with the Green Hope Angel's favorite expression of, "Dogs but no dogma", please use any combination of these Flower Essences for any situation you are prompted to use them for and with any creature you want, yourself included!

If you would like one or more free hard copies of our Animal Wellness Collection brochure describing this collection and how to use it, let us know. For the convenience of animal care practices and stores, two versions of the brochure are offered: one with our ordering information and one without our ordering information.

I salute the people and Angels who encouraged us to create this collection and Mehera Irani whose great love for animals inspires us daily.
