Like many successful companies, our origins started in the garage of one of the owners in the spring of 1972 in Rochester, NY. Originally named Furniture Collaborative, we first started producing prototypes and custom solutions for a large wood contract furniture manufacturer, also located in Rochester.

Our young company soon developed working relationships with local office furniture dealers by providing them with pieces that were not offered by the larger contract furniture manufacturers. There was a ready market for our company's willingness to build those missing pieces as well as having the ability to match the fit and finish of comparable products in the marketplace, allowing the dealer to provide a seamless installation. These initial experiences gave us a solid insight to understanding the needs of the contract market and prepared us to introduce our first products under our new name, CCN International.

At that time we made the decision to move the factory from Rochester to Geneva, in the heart of the Finger Lakes region of beautiful Upstate New York. We moved with the explicit goal of setting up a more automated and efficient manufacturing facility. Over time, a bulk of our products were bespoke pieces for clients that could not find what they required from the larger manufacturers. Our ability to offer such specialized solutions entered us into the niche market of bespoke furniture. We were, and continue to fill a gap between the furniture manufactures with standard products, and the agility of a mill work shop. We continue to develop an array of standard products to offer our clients a common vocabulary, while tailoring each of those products into a custom solution for each customer.

For over 40 years we have maintained a flexible manufacturing process while continuing to invest in value adding equipment that enhances our capabilities. Our extensive veneering operation gives us the opportunity to offer a wide variety of wood species, our CNC machining stations give us precise components, and our finishing lab produces an impressive range of wood finishes. Our customer service team is set up to provide quotes, detailed drawings, and to answer any questions you may have in a timely fashion. Our robust project management team keeps a close eye on your project after receiving your order. We always know where your project stands within the timeline.

CCN stands out from the crowd due to our craftsmanship and ability to respond quickly and precisely to very specific and individual needs of each of our clients. We create product platforms, and when needed, we tailor them to fit your requirements. That is how we got our start back in 1972, and that is how we have stayed relevant in today's marketplace.
