

I N D E X.

- A Afflictions not tokens of God's wrath, but of adoption, page 37.
- Afflictions* of God's people, consolatory advice under such as arise from the hidings of the Lord's countenance, and the being exposed to carnal company, 255.
- Afflictions*, marks whereby a person may be assured that they are sanctified, 467, & seq. Their salutary effects, 473.
- Afflictive* dispensation of Providence, letter concerning one, 182.
- Amusements* and diversions of the world incompatible with christianity, 495.
- Anecdote* of the Rev. Mr. Whitefield, 168.
- Answer* to the question, "Can a person be a hypocrite, and not know it?" 284.
- Answer* to the question, "Why is Christ called in scripture, The Word, &c." 308.
- Arian* heresy, account of it, 291.
- B.
- Baxter*, Rev. Mr. Richard, anecdote of him, 321.
- Believers* made happy by a union with Jesus Christ, 132, 185.
- C.
- Case* of Mrs. Lydia Samme, representing her dreadful fall and recovery, 396.
- Her support and comfort from the word, and from receiving a sense of God's everlasting love to her, 398, 399.
- Charnock*, Rev. Stephen, memoirs of his life and character, 56, 113, 153.
- Dr. Calamy's account of him, 57.
- His character, 59.
- His eminent christian graces and abilities, 153—158.
- His funeral sermon by John Johnson, M. A. 113.
- Christ's* inhabitation the christian's glory, 116.
- Christ*, believers love to him evidenced in their endeavours to promote his glory, &c. 200.
- Cities* of refuge applied to Christ, 507.
- Clark*, Dr. Samuel, dangerous tendency of his heresies, 206.
- Communion* with God conducive to holiness and comfort, 220.
- Complaints* of unbelief arise from a measure of faith, 117.
- Confirmation* of the Prince Royal of Denmark, 24.
- Controversy*, excellent reflections and admonitions concerning it, 411.
- Conformity* to the world, letter concerning it, 491--497.
- Cross* of Christ, its efficacy, 109.
- D.
- Death* of God's people should spiritualize our affections, and wean them from the world, 75.
- Death* and resurrection of Jesus Christ, essay thereon, 107.
- Conquest over satan by the death of Christ, 108.

Declaration of the Rev. Mr. Wesley and others touching the doctrinal points in the Minutes, 368.

Ambiguity of it censured, 388.

Deists of the present day, address to them on Lord Rochester's conviction, 228.

Difficulties believers meet with in the article of marriage pointed out and guarded against, 163.

Doodridge, Rev. Dr. original letter from him, 179.

Dutton, Mrs. her excellent letter to a person tempted after receiving the Lord's supper, 377.

E.

Eternal life the infallible gift of Christ the good Shepherd, 53.

Depends not on terms or conditions, nor on man's faithfulness, 55.

Excellency of Christ, and the gospel, 514.

Expences, directions to believers for regulating and retrenching them, 224.

Extract of a letter to a student in divinity, concerning the composing and delivery of sermons, 271.

F.

Faith a Jesus-glorifying grace, 118.

Faith of believers, its nature and excellency, 196.

Family prayer, its extensive usefulness, 350.

Family-worship, its absolute importance amongst christian professors enforced, in a letter to Theron, 347.

Fellowship with Christ results from love, and union with a reconciled God, 511.

Final apostasy of the saints thought by the apostles to be an impossible case, 464. Reflections thereupon from Heb. vi. 4, 5, 6, ibid. & seq.

Final impenitency the moral damming sin, 320.

Final perseverance of the saints proved, and vindicated from licentiousness, 147—153.

Final perseverance, answer to Aithenes's query concerning it, 457.

Foot-soldier remarkable conversion and experience of one, 496.

Foreknowledge of the Holy Ghost, a glorious evidence of his divinity, 522.

Formality in divine worship, a dreadful evil, 349.

Finished salvation of Jesus an infallible foundation for the souls hope, 160.

G.

Genuine letters from the late Rev. Mr. Whitefield, 32, 67.

God's building, how founded and erected again in the soul, 305.

Gospel method of salvation, 281.

Gospel grace and holiness proceeds from union with Christ the vine, 429.

H.

Heresies, short view of those sprung up in different ages of the church, 203, 243, 291, 331.

Hervey, Rev. Mr. two authentic letters from him, 174.

Holiness indispensably requisite in religious professors, 219.

Holiness characteristic of a true christian, 187.

Holy Spirit, its assistance absolutely necessary in the composition of sermons, 272.

Hope,

Hope, in the regenerate, it's sure foundations, and blessed effects, 513.

I.

Jesus considered in the astonishing and wonderful constitution of his person as God-Man, 440.

In the glorious exaltation of his human nature, 440, 441.

As the life, soul, and centre of the christian religion, 441.

In his intimate personal connection with all true believers in heaven and earth, 441, 442.

In the riches of his diffusive fulness, 442.

As the grand and immediate head of the whole glorified world, 443.

Ignorance of Christ and ourselves the main cause of averfeness to private prayer, 393.

Immortality of the soul, easy & beautiful demonstrations of it, 502—506.

Demonstration of the soul's immortality drawn from scripture, 505.

Importance of salvation, letter on it, 278.

Impropriety of asserting that our repentance will be accepted instead of unfinning obedience, 352, 382.

Inexorable requirements of the law annul man's repentance and unfinning obedience in order to justification, 385.

Insufficiency of the merit of works, 279.

Judgment-day, our present ideas of its solemnity weak and imperfect, 314.

Justification by Christ's righteousness imputed, dreadful effects of disbelieving it, in order to establish justification by works, 316, & seq.

K.

Knollys, Rev. Mr. Hanserd, his life and death, 209, 245, 295.

His conflict with and victory over satan, who tempted him to disbelieve the scriptures, 212.

Efficacy of the divine power in the recovery of a godly woman, through his prayers, whose life was despaired of, 213.

His extraordinary call to the ministry, 214.

Gracious revelation to him of the nature of the covenant of free grace, 216.

Prosecution of him in the High Commission Court, and great deliverances afterwards, 246, 247.

His farther prosecutions and sufferings, 250, & seq.

His labours in the ministry, trials and experiences, 296—301.

Knowledge in composing sermons, requisite means for attaining it, 272, & seq.

L.

Law, its use to God's people, 517.

Letter from a christian under the afflicting hand of the Lord, 37.

Letter on the death of the Rev. Mr. Whitefield, 72.

Letter to a christian friend under affliction, 234.

Letter to the Rev. Mr. Wesley, Mr. Sellon, Mr. Fletcher, and Mr. Olivers, on free, distinguishing grace, &c. 433.

Life

- Life of the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield*, 1.
 Extracts from his journals, 7—18.
 Character of him, by the Rev. Mr. J. Wesley, 20.
 His catholic and disinterested spirit, 45.
Love to Christ the test of evangelical faith, 195.
Love to an unseen Christ a fruit of faith essential to a christian, 196.
Love of God, its excellency and efficacious power in believers, 518.
 M.
Man's hopeless state by the fall, and his restoration, delineated, 355.
Man's reason and understanding proved to be no judge of revelation, 483, & seq.
Marriage, its salutary end to the regenerate, 127.
 Unhappiness of marriage to the unregenerate, thro' want of christian love, and from a desire of sensual gratifications, 126—131.
Maxims of the world, not to be complied with by believers, 495.
Means for attaining wisdom and suitable gifts for the ministry, 273.
Meditation on the crucifixion and sufferings of Jesus, 159.
Ministry of the gospel, snares and difficulties attending it, 453.
Minutes of some conversations between the Rev. Mr. J. Wesley and others, 231.
Motives to a christian's affection for Christ, 197.
 N.
Names and titles given to Christ in scripture, 35, 81.
Narrative of the clergy concerning subscription, &c. remarks on it, 519.
Never dying worm declared to be, rejecting the free offers of mercy in Christ, 381.
 O.
Obedience of Christ as God-Man infinitely available for our salvation, 357.
Obedience in attending on God's ordinances incumbent on us, and redounds to his honour and pleasure, 379.
Offices of Christ, regal and priestly, not to be divided, 319.
 P.
Parable of the sower, divine operation of grace upon the soul exemplified thereby, 218.
Paraphrase on the minutes of the Rev. Mr. J. Wesley, &c. 260.
Pelagian heresy described, 332.
Perfection and glories of the Lord Jesus Christ, 438.
Plays, a serious address to the lovers and frequenters of them, 417.
 The consideration of death, judgment and Christ's sufferings for sin should prove an antidote against them, 421, 422.
 POETRY, 47, 96, 143, 191, 240, 286, 327, 369, 407, 446, 529.
Points of divinity and cases of conscience proposed and answered, 323—325.
Polycarpus the blessed martyr, his last sentence, 326.
Popularity in a preacher exposes to spiritual pride, 455.
Prayer, the several parts whereof it should consist, 373.
Prayers,

Prayers, their undue length and preaching form, &c. censured, 373—376.

Private prayer, reflections on our reluctance to and omission of it, 394—430.

Providence of God, believers reliance on it proved to be the best security from want, 225.

Prudence, christian and counterfeit, described, 221.

Q.

Queen Elizabeth, an anecdote of her, 322.

Query on final perseverance, 387.

Question: "Whether a person can be a hypocrite and not know it," answered, 284.

Question: "Whether the sins of believers shall be publicly declared at the last day," a letter to a friend concerning it, 311.

R.

Real and nominal christians, difference between them respecting marriage, 127—131.

Reasons why mankind are with difficulty brought to embrace the full salvation of Jesus, 315.

Reflections on God's husbandry, 217.

Reflections on 1 Cor. iii. 9. "Ye are God's building," 303.

Reflections on John xv. 5. "I am the vine, ye are the branches," 427.

Reply to the objections against the distinguishing tenets of Calvin, 484.

Rest of believers in the Lord Jesus, 104.

Resurrection of Christ, wherein it is a foundation of our faith, 111.

Review of new publications (Rev. Mr. Wesley's sermon on the death of the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield, 39.

—(Defence of God's sovereignty, against the impious assertions cast upon it by E. Coles) 134.

—(Church of England vindicated from the charge of absolute predestination, &c.) 358.

—(Paraphrase of the eleven first chapters of St. Paul's epistle to the Romans, by T. Adams) 364.

—(Narrative of the principal circumstances relative to the Rev. Mr. John Wesley's last conference, &c) 399.

—(An answer to some capital errors contained in the minutes, &c.) 401.

—(A library of divinity, &c.) 402.

—(Gracetrumpant; shewing the insufficiency of nature, reason, virtue, and the human will, to effect a saving change in the soul) 402.

—(A treatise on marriage, and education of children) 402.

Righteousness of Christ infinitely precious and abundantly sufficient for the justification of sinners, 365.

Rochester, (Earl of) his remarkable conversion on hearing the 53d chapter of Isaiah read to him, 228.

S.

Sabellian heresy, account of it, 243.

Safety & security of all Christ's sheep considered, 51, 99, 147.

Saint Andrew, the blessed martyr, his last sentence, 322.

Saul's

- Saul's* case not irreconcilable with the doctrine of final perseverance, 458.
- Self-examination* absolutely necessary in order to judge of our interest in Christ, and conformity to him, 189.
- Serious* thoughts on marriage, 82, 127, 163, 233.
- Shirley*, Rev. Mr. copy of his letter occasioned by the minutes of the Rev. Mr. Wesley, &c. 367.
- Sin*, its malignity and deceitfulness, 394.
- Sins* of believers, how blotted out and removed by God, 313.
- Sovereignty* of God defended, 137.
- Spirit* of God, a principle of truth, holiness, and loving obedience, 185—189.
- Spirit* of the world, wherein it ought not to be conformed to, 494.
- Sudden* death of a christian friend, solemn letter concerning it, 337—347.
- T.
- Temples* of God, or true believers, how imperfect soever, are enabled by practical holiness to express some outlines of the divine excellence, 307.
- Thoughts* on the exercise of social prayer, 372.
- Typical* persons, classes, things, &c. view of them, 477.
- U.
- Union* with Christ indispensable
- bly necessary in order to our salvation, 132.
- The principle of holiness in believers, 133.
- Union* of believers in marriage with Christless persons, its evil consequences, 235.
- Universal* redemption, queries concerning it, 389.
- Use* and intent of prophecy, 90, 120.
- Usefulness* of prophecy exemplified in the case of the Earl of Rochester, 227.
- W.
- Want* of comfort at the Lord's supper, no proof of receiving it unworthily, 381.
- Wesley*, Rev. Mr. and Mr. T. Olivers, letter to them on the doctrines of free grace, final perseverance, &c. 390.
- Whitefield*, Rev. Mr. sketch of his character from Savannah, 77.
- His steadfast conviction of the truth of his doctrines of election, &c. animadverted upon and defended, 168.
- Will*, transcript of that of the Rev. Mr. Whitefield, 61.
- Will* worship, how it operates, and its inefficacy, 493.
- Wonderful* extremes united in the person of Christ, 526.
- Word* of God explained to be the law and the gospel, 28.
- Word* of God should be the rule of his people in their marriages, 237.
- Y.
- Young* minister of the gospel, advice to one, 524.