DESCRIPTION

Kansas City has a scarcity of lawyers trained to represent veterans with respect to their claims for benefits before the Veterans Affairs Administration. Too many veterans are unrepresented or under represented when they file their claims with the VA regional offices and with the Board of Veterans Appeals when their claims are denied. A Missouri Bar Journal article has noted that 45% of the appeals to the Board are in error, a rate that would be unacceptable in our civil court system. Kansas City veterans need lawyers to help prepare these claims and any appeals on a pro bono basis, so that veterans get better service and ultimately justice.

This program will cover the many issues involved with filing a benefits claim with the VA and filing an appeal of a claim that has been by the VA and will include:

- Who is eligible to file a claim;
- Where the claim is filed and what must be proved to sustain a claim;
- Who initially reviews and rules on the claim;
- The initial decision and the Statement of the Case supporting the decision;
- The Notice of Disagreement and its effect;
- The effective date of payment of the claim;
- The denial of VA benefit claims and when to seek Decision Officer Review at the regional level;
- When and how to appeal and put together and obtain the documents supporting the claim; and
- Strategy on how to win the claim including determining the effective date of the claim, researching the veteran's service to prove service connection, when to retain expert testimony and how the disability rating system works.
