

LADWP Newsroom

Welcome back Marc | If you are not Marc, click here.

DATE: August 19, 2014 1:29:39 PM PDT

Let's face it, an earthquake can strike at any time and any place like – at home, work, school or even while you're on the go. We live in Los Angeles so it's not a matter of whether an earthquake will happen, but when it will happen. When it does, will you be ready?

Do you have an emergency plan in place?

Remember, the better you prepare the more you increase your chances for survival because during a catastrophic earthquake it could take up to 72 hours before emergency personnel can get to you. That means you could be the first responder in your home, community, school or business. Are you ready L.A.?

Visit the Los Angeles Emergency Management Department's website at www.readyla.org, the City's official emergency readiness, response and recovery website, or www.ladwp.com for helpful tips on how to prepare for an earthquake and stay safe. Let's all get ready!

For more information contact:

*Joseph Ramallo
Communications Director, LADWP
(213) 367-1361*