Editorial - A New Year - And I Mean New

The first issue of the Seminarian finds the Seminary Family at the threshold of a new year, and there is much that is new. We literally have a new dormitory. For that all residents of Richards Hall are thankful. Those of us who were here last year are confronted by many new faces -- but the plight of incoming Juniors is even worse, for almost everyone of this class must learn to know his classmates as well as the Middlers and Seniors. Also, there will be a new Seminarian, of which this issue is not a prize example. With the second issue the staff hopes to inaugurate a Seminarian which will be quite different from any of its predecessors. Time will tell!

Our most pressing problem is that of molding all the members of the Seminary Family into a close-knit body. To this end, the first issue is devoted primarily to a series of extremely sketchy "little-finger-nail" biographies. The majority of the members of our Seminary Family have graciously cooperated to enable us to publish a few facts about them -- facts which may help all concerned to know their neighbors better. I hope that our coverage can be complete by the next issue. At any rate, in this issue you will find a good start on our biographical ~~understanding~~ talking.

Our new year shall be a great year if we preserve the tradition of the Seminary Family. This requires full cooperation among all the students of the Seminary, their wives, and the college men of Richards Hall. The door is open to a happy year; let's go in together!

Francis E. Ringer, Editor
