"We at ACTICO are very proud to deliver an industry leading agile Software Platform to automate complex business decisions for banks and insurance companies that can accommodate changing regulatory and business circumstances." - Sid Panjwani, Head of Sales and Strategy, ACTICO Corp.

Credimi is a Fintech startup, providing invoice financing for small and medium-sized enterprises and supply chain financing for high profile corporates. Their mission is to make invoice financing faster, simpler, and more transparent than other available alternatives. To achieve a high level of automation in credit risk assessment processes, Credimi was looking for a flexible and scalable credit risk rating and pricing engine to be incorporate into the underwriting process. Credimi has decided on ACTICO's decision automation software as an integral component for its origination process. The platform allows Credimi the autonomous operation of the rating and pricing engine, and significantly reduces time to deliver transparent and consistent invoice financing decisions. With ACTICO's automation software, Credimi is now able to fund invoices within hours after submission.
