Improving the health of your Mitochondria, or the "Mighty Mitos" as I like to call them, gives you perhaps the deepest form of healing possible...but not many people know it!

So why are they so powerful?

Well, it's because the Mighty Mitos are the energy centers of our cells and tissues, and scientists are now discovering that every human disease may be linked to mitochondrial health.

When you take action to prevent mitochondrial impairment, purge the injured mighty mitos, and produce new and robust ones...

Then you'll find that you can improve a wide range of annoying symptoms like brain fog, fatigue, inflammation and pain and insomnia.

These Mighty Mito's are so powerful that by addressing their needs, you'll also help prevent premature aging, Diabetes, dementia and Alzheimer's, immune deficiencies ,and even Cancer, and much more.

have an amazing discount on my new book, and a couple of great bonuses I'm going to throw in as well...but before I tell you about that, I want to share a quick story about why I'm so passionate about my "Mighty Mitos", and why we need the energy from healthy mitochondria to heal all pain and disease.

My discovery of the power of mitochondria began 5 years ago when I faced the most severe injury Of my life.

I was getting something out of my refrigerator one morning, and of course I was in such a rush trying to get to work that when an icepack fell out of the freezer, I went into a complete squat to pick it up then...BAM!

I had stood straight up into an open upper refrigerator door.

The pain was unbearable.

My head and neck had crunched together like an accordion.

At the moment of impact, I knew that I have injured my brain and neck severely because of the immediate shooting nerve pain and tingling radiating down both arms and legs...

No, this was not just a big bump on my head...my symptoms pointed towards issues with my central nervous system, my brain and spinal cord, and my peripheral nervous system.

I had a TBI (Traumatic Brain Injury) and spinal injury for sure!

The pain and numbness was so immense, I thought my life would never be the same.

I started worrying: "What if I can't work anymore? What if I can't use my hands anymore? My worst fear was that I may be forced to retire at forty-eight years old.

Within weeks of the injury, I had a cascade of symptoms. I was tired all the time, urinating excessively, my hair was falling out, I was intolerant to a cold environment, I had low blood pressure, imbalances in my blood sugar level and much more.

I had also developed sarcopenia --age-related muscle loss. While everyone loses some muscle as they get older, I was losing muscle mass at an alarming rate. I was prematurely aging and that was all within a 4 week period!

Emotionally, things couldn't have been worse. I had terrible anxiety about the future and about my condition. I felt constantly on edge. I couldn't sleep. I was a restless insomniac and I started gaining weight and feeling sluggish and depressed.

I've always been an extremely healthy and generally happy person from all the health protocols I've incorporated and followed over the years.

So this was a totally new, and nightmarish reality for me.

I tried all sorts of Western and Alternative therapies... but nothing really worked for me until I did a TON of my own research, and discovered what is perhaps the deepest form of healing possible.

The discovery was this: to heal the body to it's most vibrant state, no matter what age...we have to address the very core of our cells, go into the energy centers of our bodies: the mitochondria.

Without energy, every cell in your body die sooner, every cell gets weaker, every cell gets toxic, and every cell can mutate.

Practically every molecule of oxygen, water, and food we take in, goes to the mitochondria so that we can laugh, play, cuddle, dance, and run.

But we also need the mitochondria's energy for our bodies to breathe, digest, pump blood, think, and feel. The bottom line is that we need the energy produced by the mitochondria to heal all pain and disease.

From my own horrific injury, I have created the best strategies on how to power up your mitochondria; to revive and restore your energy level, spark up your mental clarity and have the fit body you've always wanted!

In addition to healing myself, I have helped countless patients break free from their illnesses, and now you can use the same techniques along with the two gifts
