

50 Years of Mission

AN EMQ RETROSPECTIVE

MISSION ISSUES

WORLD HISTORY

TECH BURSTS

1960s	Handing "mission property" over to local control; will "mission" survive?	Colonies becoming independent; Cold War; Vietnam	Color TV, Cassette tapes
1970s	"Contextualization" term coined; "Church Growth" and "people groups"; shrinking of ecumenical mission	Cambodian killing fields; energy crisis; Iranian revolution	Photocopiers
1980s	Battles about holism (word & deed); early recognition of "third world missionaries"	Apartheid and neo-colonialism challenged; industrial accidents in Bhopal, Chernobyl; AIDS emerges	Personal computers; Fax
1990s	"Finish the task" by AD 2000; 10/40 Window; globalization as a challenge; short-term mission under local church initiative	EU formed; Soviet Union breaks up; apartheid repealed; Rwandan genocide	Internet & e-mail
2000s	Internationalization of mission work force; seeking new focus for a new century (filling the void after Y2K)	9/11/2001; Tsunami off Indonesia	Smart phones; Wikipedia; Facebook; YouTube
2010s	Orality; "Insider movements" debate; mission to diasporas	"Arab Spring"; China & India emerging as global players	Tablets; Twitter; FaceTime; Instagram

- JOURNALS
- 1973: Missiology
 - 1979: Mission Frontiers
 - 1981: International Bulletin of Missionary Research
 - 1984: International Journal of Frontier Mission
 - 1984: Transformation: An International Journal of Holistic Mission Studies
 - 2002: Connections (WEA)
 - 2002: Journal of Evangelism and Missions
 - 2003: Global Missiology
 - 2005: Saint Francis Online Magazine
 - 2009: Great Commission Research Journal
 - 2012: Orality Journal

MONGOLIA (communist), NEPAL (Hindu kingdom), and CHINA were among the most closed countries in the world in 1964. Today, all three have thriving churches with powerful mission vision.

Sources: www.missiographics.com/50yearsmission-infographic.htm

To find more infographics from GMI visit www.missiographics.com

Brought to you by our sponsor:

Evangelical Missions Quarterly
www.emqonline.com