

A New Way To Use Evernote To Organize Your Life

Are you using images to get more organized and inspired?

The Image Gallery Feature in Evernote - Three New Tips & Tricks

2

Comments

Share

Tweet

2

1

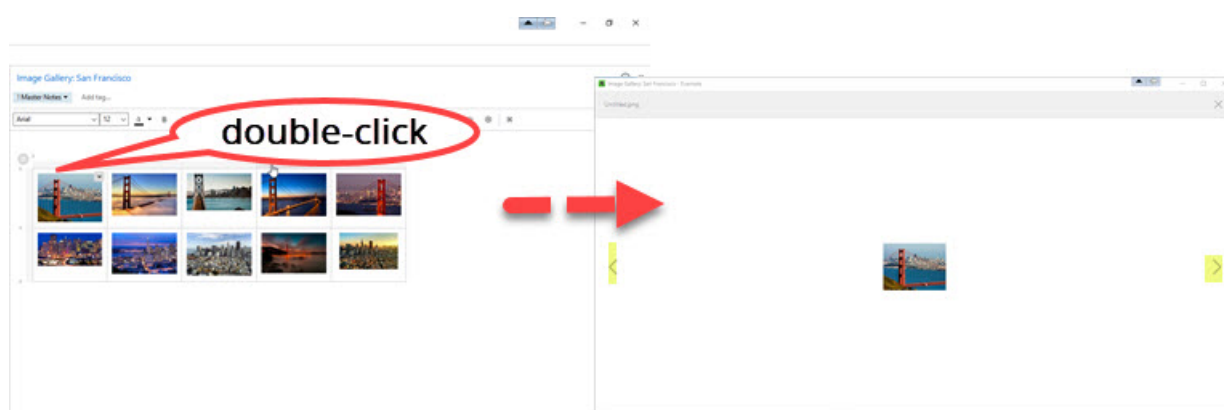

+1

Email

Print

You know that old saying about a picture being worth a thousand words? Sometimes all you need is an image to remind you what's important in your life. In a new release [v6.5 and v6.6 for Windows and v6.12 for Mac], Evernote introduced the image gallery. Now you can click through images side by side, the same way you can do on Facebook. Just double-click on an image in a note, and then scroll through the other images in the same note. What else can you do with the image gallery feature? Here are some neat tips and tricks for using images to be more productive and better organized, whether at work or at home.

1. Daily Reminders

My Daily Reminders

Add tag...

Arial

12

a

B

I

U

±

🔍

{ }

≡

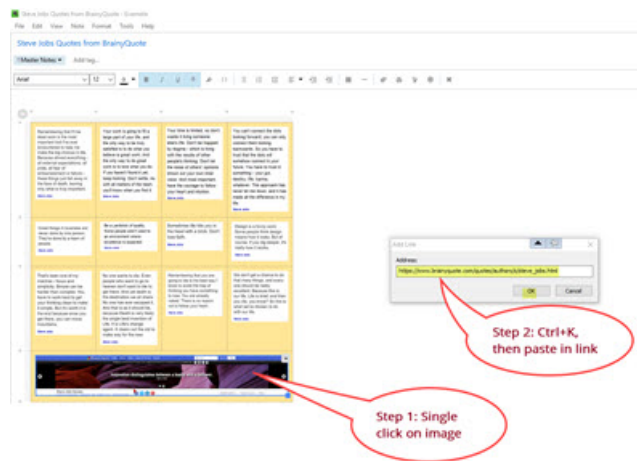

≡

☑

Morning Reminder <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Feed pets 2. Do morning yoga 3. Meditate for 20 minutes 4. Eat breakfast 5. Shower and dress. 	Office Morning Reminder <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Instructions to staff 2. Emergency emails & calls 3. Main morning project 	Lunchtime Reminder <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Power walk 2 miles 2. Protein shake 3. Personal emails & calls 4. Check in with staff
Lunchtime Reminder <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Power walk 2 miles 2. Protein shake 3. Personal emails & calls 4. Check in with staff 	Evening Reminder <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Get clothes in order for tomorrow 2. Clear up clutter in house 3. Turn temperature down 4. Visualize a productive tomorrow

Trying to establish new habits? Try this trick using the image gallery feature to bring the reminder front and center. Put images in the table starting with the first one of the day (maybe your “miracle morning” to-do list). If you want to do a set of exercises each day, put that image next in order. Try to keep these to a handful — it's easier to instill new habits a few at a time. Once you have the habit down pat, so it is second nature, you can add to it (“habit stacking”).

2. Inspirational Quotes

You can put a link in an image. Single click on the image, then hit Ctrl+K. Paste in the link, then click “OK.” On a Mac, use Cmd+K. The link can take you anywhere, whether to a note in Evernote, a website, an email address, a folder tree online — there are endless possibilities. To learn more about the power of links in increasing efficiency and productivity, read my book, The Master Note System: A New Way to Use Evernote to Organize Your Life. See “A Crash Course on Note Links” in Chapter 2. For more Tips and Tricks, sign up for the Newsletter (if you don't see the lightbox, go to top of screen). To learn more about Evernote's plans, click here.

2

Comments

Share

Tweet

2

1

+1

Email

Print

Categories: Evernote, Tips & Tricks Posted on Monday, September 4, 2017

Do you have a dream of organizing your...

Please note: I reserve the right to delete comments that are offensive or off-topic.

Leave a Reply

Your email address will not be published. Required fields are marked *

Comment

Name *

Email *

Website

Post Comment

2 thoughts on “Are you using images to get more organized and inspired?”

Patrick Trevenen says:
September 4, 2017 at 8:45 pm

Reply

Very nice templates

Enwongo says:
September 12, 2017 at 8:20 am

Reply

This is so great and inspiring. I had never thought of such a way to use Evernote.

Thanks for sharing.

The Master
Note
System: A
New Way
to Use
Evernote to Organize
Your Life

About Marjory Harris

Author Marjory Harris offers coaching for Evernote and OneNote: she'll review your setup, make suggestions for greater efficiency, plan a comprehensive Master Note, and solve practical problems of storage and fast access.

She has been a social worker, lawyer, counselor, and founder of Multidimensional Problem Solving, the predecessor to The Personal Power Roadmap. She has a master's degree in psychology and a juris doctor degree in law. For 50 years she has helped others discover their innate abilities and a fresh perspective on life. She is committed to finding practical, real-world solutions to problems and empowering others to take effective action.

As seen on

My Books

The Master
Note
System: A
New Way
to Use
Evernote to Organize
Your Life

Organize your whole life on a single page

Recent Posts

Are you using images to get more organized and inspired?
Do you have a dream of organizing your life this year?
Do you have great ideas that pop into your head from time to time? Of course you do!
Want to get on top of your finances in 2017? Try this neat Evernote hack
Why do you need a new way to organize your life and your notes?

Screenshots from the book

To learn how to make virtual folder trees, see Chapter 5. To make a virtual notebook, go to Chapter 10. Click on images to enlarge.

Recent Comments

Enwongo on Are you using images to get more organized and inspired?
Patrick Trevenen on Are you using images to get more organized and inspired?
Three Strategies to Maximize Productivity With Evernote – . on The Master Note System: A New Way to Use Evernote to Organize Your Life
The Master Note System: A New Way to Use Everno... on The Master Note System: A New Way to Use Evernote to Organize Your Life
Marjory on Start the New Year with a New Way to Organize Your Life!

Archives

September 2017

January 2017
December 2016
November 2016
August 2016

Categories
Evernote
Master Note System
Tips & Tricks