How to Achieve Perfect Alignment for Your Punched Images:

1. Stamp image as you normally would. Take a piece of scrap cardstock that is darker (or at least not the same color) as the cardstock you have stamped your image on.
2. Punch out a piece of the darker cardstock. Use the Negative space as a template. Place the template over the top of your stamped image and align. Once aligned how you want it, tape down on both sides to the template and stamped image. Use tape that is easily removed and will not tear or leave residue on your stamped image or template. Your template can be used over and over.

Tip for Punching if your Punch is New or Difficult to Punch With:

You can punch your images out with the punch laying on your table or hard surface. You do not have to hold it in your hand.

Tip for Punching if the Cardstock You Have Stamped on is Too Small For You To Hold in the Punch:

1. Use a narrow piece of scrap cardstock to create a "handle". Tape the handle to the back side of the stamped cardstock. Slide your stamped cardstock in and manipulate it using the handle to line up your stamped image. Punch.
