

Dear Families,

I'm writing to share exciting news: we'll be using a website called NoRedInk.com in our class this year! NoRedInk helps your children practice their grammar and writing skills. Students work with engaging and often humorous sentences that incorporate their favorite characters, musicians, athletes, books, movies, sports teams, and celebrities.

In addition, NoRedInk provides adaptive, differentiated instruction. This means that the site adjusts questions in real time based on each student's needs. When learners get stuck, NoRedInk shows them tutorials that help them correct mistakes and keep going.

Your child's account will be connected to my own, so I can track progress on homework, quizzes, and practice exercises. NoRedInk covers a variety of topics, including Punctuation, Commonly Confused Words, Adjectives and Adverbs, and Active and Passive Voice. Many of these topics are assessed as part of state and national standards. With the help of the site, I'll be able to assess students on a regular basis.

Students can also take charge of their own learning using the color-coded "Practice Page." This page shows students how close they are to mastering each topic on the site. Together, you and I can track your child's progress in a way that's accessible and detailed.

NoRedInk will be a fantastic resource for our young scholars! Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
