NSTA Members Hold Capitol Hill Annual Spring Bus-In

ALEXANDRIA, VA- The National School Transportation Association hosts its annual Spring Bus-In on April 14 and 15 in Washington, D.C. This premier two-day event will include nearly 200 individualized Congressional meetings, NSTA committee meetings and a dinner featuring Congressman Sam Graves (R-MO), Subcommittee Chairman of the House Highways and Transit Subcommittee, as speaker.

"This event is incredibly important to our members and for our Association. Spending time in our nation's capital as a group speaking to our legislators about our most pressing issues is critical to our success," said NSTA President Tim Flood.

"We are excited to welcome members to Washington, D.C. for a successful and productive week benefiting NSTA and the private school bus industry," said NSTA Executive Director Ronna Weber.

NSTA members will raise critical issues that will be considered in legislation to reauthorize federal surface transportation programs, which will occur later this year. The issues include minimum levels of financial responsibility, Compliance, Safety and Accountability (CSA) program reform and concerns with utilization of hair follicle testing for federal drug tests.

President Tim Flood will be in attendance along with President-Elect Todd Monteferrario, Secretary-Treasurer Steve Hey and Government Relations Chairman John Corr.
