Ronna Weber named National School Transportation Association Executive Director

ALEXANDRIA, VA— The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) is pleased to announce Ronna Sable Weber as its new Executive Director, effective June 26, 2012.

Ms. Weber was most recently the U.S. Export Control Officer for Alstom Power Inc. where she worked to implement an effective export control program and educate employees to the export control laws of the United States. In addition, she managed the legal subsidiaries for two of the company's U.S. divisions, maintaining corporate records and state qualifications for the numerous entities of the company.

Prior to joining Alstom in 2008, Ms. Weber served as a Senior Associate with Prime Policy Group, where she specialized in transportation policy. Specifically, Ms. Weber worked with NSTA for over 12 years, concentrating on legislative and regulatory affairs which she will bring to her new role as Executive Director. During her tenure with Prime Policy, Ms. Weber also worked with other clients in a variety of areas to include travel and tourism, health care and international affairs.

“We are excited that Ronna has accepted the position,” said Magda Dimmendaal, NSTA President. “Her previous experience with NSTA will serve her well and we look forward to working with her.”

Ms. Weber received a master's degree in lobbying from the Graduate School of Political Management of the George Washington University and a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of South Carolina.
