Santa Ana Bus Company awarded National School Transportation Association 2011 Green School Bus Fleet Certification

BALTIMORE, M.D.--The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) presented Green School Bus Fleet Certification Awards to six member companies on the evening of July 19 during the association's Annual Meeting and Convention in Baltimore, Maryland. The Green School Bus Fleet award recognizes NSTA members for their efforts in working toward a cleaner environment through the use of Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) verified technologies, as well as new bus technology.

This year's winning companies and terminal locations received 2011 Gold Level Certification status:

B.R Williams, Inc. in Woodstown, New Jersey; National Express Corporation in Milwaukee, Wisconsin and Santa Ana, California; Riteway Bus Service in Richfield, Wisconsin; and Wittenberger Bus Service in Hartford, Wisconsin.

The NSTA Green School Bus Fleet Certification Program has been reviewed and endorsed by the EPA's Clean School Bus USA Program. This is the only green fleet certification program endorsed by the EPA available to the school bus industry.
