PLOT Fit: YELLOW Contention is high and Speed Rating is low suggesting both capable early and late pace runners are possible.

Early Speed/ Pressers

2 - with the inside draw he is most likely to be on the lead early, as he will need to fend off several pressing types, the best of speeds in first time two turns and showed GRIT in his debut win, gets tested for class today.

4 - most likely will be applying pressure early, but wasn't able to hold off the first two finishers in LeComte, who are also entered again today, not likely to turn the tables unless those two don't bring their best.

5 - should be just off the early pace setters, ran well both times two turns despite wide trips, the last time over today's track, galloped out well, extra distance should only benefit.

9 - might not be able to avoid being caught wide early, ran well in the LeComte despite being wide last time, but must turn the tables on #5 INSTILLED REGARD; not sure that can happen unless that one just doesn't run his race.

6 - ran a big B+ with a OptixFIG (96) sprinting off an extended layoff of 149 days, now stretching out for the first time, could add to a contentious front end, lightly-raced colt seems to have ability, however 2nd place runner from his last race came back to get buried at 2-1 in Sam Houston stakes race, gets class test today.

10 - OptixFIGs gradually improving, but looks too slow compared to his competition, last jockey Lanerie ends up on #1 HIGH NORTH.

Closers

8 - overcame TROUBLE_S to win with B+ effort in the slop, but it was against 30K maiden claimers and his OptixFIG (86) is well below today's range (92-98), according to QuadStats, Q4 circles win only 3.8% of the time at this track/surface/distance.
