

ARCHBISHOP'S HOUSE,
WESTMINSTER,
S.W.

Feb 14. 1876

My dear Child,

I have not written since the new year began, but I have not forgotten you. For I have said four Masses for you, & prayed for you every day.
There is something sad about Cousin Emma's condition. Could you not go later. Whether she will or no, you ought to be by her. Don't let her refuse. Can I do any thing? Let me know.

I will be sure to pray for her. Also get prayers of others.

If you can any how make some other baptism.

Mr. Abbeys is to go on Wednesday. I saw her on Friday. It made us anxious. I shall go to town now again.

If possible come to town.
Don't let me see you - Every day till 10 o'clock. You will find me.

Presbyterian Anglicanism is a good fellow's own soul his soul but the other men are vapourers. The Count is no worse now than 300 years ago. It is only more banished.

If God had not shown me this light, I could might not have seen it.

God bless you.

Always affly yours

W. S. C. C. C.
