

ARCHBISHOP'S HOUSE,
WESTMINSTER,

S.W.

April 13. 1876.

My dear Child,

Those old days are a quarter of a century or more ago: yet they are very fresh. I often think that the time when I was seeking a drawing near to the Divine Reality had in it more human solace and support than the present: I say human because it was chiefly so. It was a religion in "the field at counter," a Church without "scape": with the beauties of nature, and the imaginary world of faith seen at a distance.

Nevertheless it was a good training & school of divine truth. I never cease to bless God for the 15 Daily Service and the study reading of the Bible through strength. This has been my salvation. I wish people would read God's word more.

I think I told you that Old Vine the stone mason who worked at Livington Church Lane is here, 83 years old.
We made him a Father & he is reading his books, & making himself ready. Many stone of the people have come here & money have been received.

If you come to London I shall hope to see you. Except this afternoon I am hardly ever out.

I am afraid this new loop will shake you again.
Give her my love to William & Mary
