In the enclosed letter I have requested my friend Mr. Roberts to obtain for you an introduction to the librarian of the Bodleian. Should there be any other such device be contrived effect for you I am sure you will be happy to do so.

If there be any other object you have in view in Oxford I shall I hope the means of forwarding it you may rely on my willingness. In this case you will let me hear from you soon.

Your affectionate,

Henry E. Manning.

Oct. 27th, 1831. I only received your note, dated 24th, this morning.