Near the present site of Clemons Chapel Methodist Church located on the Lula-Brookton Road stood an old Methodist Meeting House. The community people called it Polksville M.E. Church. Somewhere around the turn of the century the Polksville Church burned. However they were not long without a place to worship. Mr. Charles Clemons, a local preacher and representative for a large landowner named Mr. Jennings gathered about him a group of church leaders and announced that the Mr. Jennings would donate the land and lumber to build a new church. This church was soon constructed and called Clemons Chapel in honor of the efforts of Rev. Clemons.

The Church had in its assemblies in those early days many local preachers. Dr. Tom Rogers, Miles Cantrell, Sandy Fee Cailey, and John T. Griffin were some of the prominent ones. Other leaders included Dr. B.L. Lockhart, W.W. Wiley, William Pittman, Mack Cowder and many of their sons and daughters as well as friends. Later several of the Olivers, Wileys, And Millers have served as church leaders. Rev. Andrew Miller began his ministry in this church.

The present church is in the same location but most of the people have moved from the immediate locality. The church is not a strong church but it endeavors to serve those who can worship within its walls.
