The Kensington Methodist Church was organized near Thread Cross Roads, later known as Bailey's Cross Roads and now called Coulter's Cross Roads. It was organized long before the War Between the States, and was known as Payne's Chapel. Later, at the suggestion of Dr. Herrington, one of the early members and a local preacher, it was renamed Cassadora, and the post office of that name took its name from the church. About 1890 it was moved to its present location and the name again changed.

In the early years Kensington was served by the same pastors as the Chikamaunga Church, it being on the Chikamaunga Charge. Pierce Harris served the charge during the year 1920.
In 1921 Bevel Jones was pastor, and it was at this time that the Richman for Change was organized. During the pastorate of Bevel Jones the present parsonage was constructed and was first occupied by the Reverend Jones.

In 1947 Dr. Joseph P. Keeter donated $2,000 to the Church and at the time of his death he united $2,000 more to the Church and parsonage fund to be used as the trustees saw fit. The money he donated in 1947 was used to remodel the Church. At the time the remodeling was done, Rev. I. L. Ballard was pastor of the Church. Memorial windows and new pews were added to the Church in memory of former members and friends who were deceased.
Land for a parking area was donated to the Church by Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Andrews, and Mrs. Gordon Hunter during the time of the remodeling of the Church.

The present pastor is Reverend George A. Davis.
