Oconee Street Methodist Church is 78 years old. According to our records the Church was officially organized in 1871 on July 2. Rev. W. A. Simmons had been Pastor of the Church in 1870 and was replaced on January 14, 1871 by Rev. Charles J. Oliver. The original Board of Trustees was organized in January, 1870, with the following members: John W. Nickerson, Reuben Nickerson, James Reeves, Robert Chappel, William King, Jr., R. T. Comer, G. L. McCleskey, Ellison D. Stone, and E. R. Hodgson. The original Board of Stewards included: Robert Chappel, Reuben Nickerson, Jas. W. Parker, R. T. Comer, and E. D. Stone.

As near as can be ascertained from the roll book there were only about 16 members at this time. Some of the Trustees and Stewards did not move their memberships until some years later.

Sunday School was in the afternoon in the first Church built. The Church was located on Oconee Street near Broad Street.

On February 16, 1887, a Parsonage was purchased. There is no data concerning the location, but it is assumed it was adjoining the Church. The cost of the Parsonage was $1650. Rev. C. S. Owens was pastor.

In 1882 J. Wesley Brown organized a Sunday School on the east side of the river. It was soon associated with Oconee Street Church. At one time there were three Sunday Schools on the charge: Oconee Street, East Athens, and Baldwin Street.

In a special meeting of the Quarterly Conference on December 8, 1902, the Oconee Street and East Athens Churches were consolidated. In 1903 the old Church building was moved to the present location, and the present parsonage purchased. Rev. M. H. Eakes was pastor.

In the late summer of 1920 the Stone-Nickerson Sunday School rooms were completed. This was a great addition to the Church. Rev. A. F. Nunn was pastor at this time.
