History of Pleasant Grove Methodist Church (Habersham Co., Georgia)

In the early 70's at a location near the present site of the Cross Roads Baptist Church in southwestern Habersham Co., Ga., stood a Methodist Church called Pleasant Grove. Little is known about this church and all records seem to have been burned when the church was destroyed by fire a few years latter. The story is told that one part of the congregation wanted to rebuild at the old site but another desired to build at a location some 2½ miles north. As a result two new churches were built. The present Pleasant Grove Church has never been a strong church but it has stood these many years as a place where those who so desired could find God as a personal Savior. It is located a few miles southwest of Cornelia, Ga., in a community called Mud Creek.

The present active membership is less than five. Mr. S. D. Scroggs is the oldest member. He has been a member for over 50 years.
