

Distribution Licensing Services

Simplify Distribution Licensing for Pharmaceuticals & Medical Devices

Obtaining state distribution licenses is a cumbersome, time-consuming process. Life sciences companies must meet numerous prerequisites and acquire the appropriate licenses in all necessary jurisdictions before shipping and distributing their products.

Licensing rules vary between trade product and samples, drugs and devices, and in-state and non-resident operations. In many jurisdictions, state licenses are required even if the actual manufacture and distribution are outsourced and your company never “touches” the product.

Companies must efficiently:

- Identify necessary licenses, prerequisites and the proper order for filing applications
- Learn state definitions or classifications of “wholesale distributor” and “manufacturer”
- Identify the proper state licensing agency to handle each application
- Obtain and complete in-state and out-of-state applications
- Satisfy jurisdictional obligations

In-house licensing projects can last many months, a delay that results in potential revenue loss and exposure to significant penalties.

Porzio Life Sciences has streamlined the licensing process. We track requirements and offer automated versions of application forms, enabling you to get your product to market faster. Our system dramatically reduces the completion time of requisite filings.

We have prepared applications for every state and the District of Columbia. Our specialists can:

- Prepare and file applications
- License your company to distribute prescription and over-the-counter drugs, biologics, medical devices and durable medical equipment
- Explain jurisdictional requirements
- Tailor applications to distribution type (trade product or sample, legend or controlled)
- Ensure satisfaction of requisites and prerequisites including bonding, fingerprinting and testing of representatives and personnel

“In many jurisdictions, state licenses are required even if the actual manufacture and distribution are outsourced and your company never ‘touches’ the product.”
