Adjective and Adverb Phrases

Prepositional phrases can modify nouns or verbs.

A prepositional phrase that modifies a noun follows the noun and acts like an adjective. It answers the questions which one, what kind, how many, or whose. A prepositional phrase that modifies a noun or pronoun is called an adjective phrase.

Michael's neighbor is the preacher (at the Methodist church.)

The package (for Ellen) came yesterday.

A prepositional phrase that modifies a verb acts like an adverb. It answers the questions how, when, and where. A prepositional phrase that modifies a verb is called an adverb phrase.

The boys were playing (in the creek.)
 Mom went (to the door) and called (for James.)

A good way to decide what word a prepositional phrase modifies is to read the word and phrase together. Do they make sense? It is probably the right word.

There are many fish (in the lake.)
 → are (in the lake) — no
 → fish (in the lake) — yes

There are many fish (in the lake.)
